Wednesday's matinee dance, held at the Student Union ball room, was the first of a series planned to orientate new students with the possibilities of campus friendships.

According to Director Kenneth Van Sant if the Student Union, 400 dancers took advantage of the mixer matinee.

That the popularity of this Student Union facility will soon be exploited by students, upper classes as well as freshmen, was the belief of Director Van Sant.

Freshies Inspire Awwgan Staff

Issue Honors Wearers
Of Red Caps, Buttons

Pictorializing and commenting chiefly upon the trials of freshman life, the Awwgan staff is now preparing the September issue for distribution within two weeks. Virginia Geister, editor, promises a variety of material for the traditional freshman issue, with pictures, stories, articles, goss and jokes rampant.

Bruce Campbell, last year's editor, has promised a story on the history of football. "This story is a serious work, resulting from intensive research," confided the editor, placing a tongue in his cheek, crossing his fingers and laughing up his sleeve.

This month's issue, which will be on sale about Sept. 30, will also contain a column of comments contributed by students the campus over Miss Geister said. Anyone may contribute their comments on campus personalities, events, or observations, and if the expected results are obtained, the column should be one of future features of the magazine. Comments may be turned in at the Awwgan office in the basement of the Student Union building.

Husker Unit Stages War

Reds, Blues Mobilize
Saturday for Battle

The blues and the reds are at war.

Mobilization starts next Saturday at 9 o'clock when all members of the Cornhusker Company are asked by Major John U. Ayotte, company sponsor, to report to room 201, Nebraska Hall. Commanders of the organization and noncommissioned officers will be announced, and plans laid for the first battle, which will be fought with blank ammunition.

A few applicants will be admitted to bring the company up to 60 members, which has been set as the quota for this fall's work. Practical problems will be fought during good weather, and the semester's work will conclude with work on the blackboard, during the winter.

Most of the training work of the unit will come during the spring, when the bulk of the freshmen candidates will be admitted. Since the older members will have had a thorough review, this training should be more efficient than it would be during the fall, the major explained.

Spring plans of the company include a trip to Fort Crook to put on an annual demonstration for reserve officers, and a banquet at the expense of the military department.

Members of the unit are entitled to wear a red and white striped bar with gold crossed rifles on their uniforms.

'Biff' Lauds N.U. Spirit At Convo

Frosh Head Deans,
Activity Leaders
At Traditional Event

The University of Nebraska is the best school you can attend, because everyone puts their shoulders to the wheel, Coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones told a large freshman gathering in the coliseum Wednesday morning. Speaking at the annual freshman convocation sponsored by Innocents and Mortar Boards, Coach Jones called attention to the fact that the Nebraska student body is known the country over for its fine spirit. He told the group that this year's football team is the youngest in the history of the institution, and he has been informed that it is the heaviest in a good many years.

Dr. T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, discussed proper school attitudes, pointing out that "most of us think too little. Each day one should be able to sense the development of his mental muscles just as much as he should feel the growth of his physical being. If the individual is to have brain muscles, he must be willing to exercise them. After all," the dean said, "there is no thrill like the feeling that comes from know-

Chancellor Talks Boucher Tells Chamber Of Education Advances

Chancellor Boucher of the University of Nebraska in his address to the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening stated that fine buildings, large enrollments, and a certain administrative organization are not essential to a university.

He emphasized the importance of a well trained scholarly faculty; professors who keep abreast with the times and who are genuinely interested in teaching. If every scholar will search for the truth, Chancellor Boucher feels that educational advancement will be endless.

Nebraskan Reporter Interviews Noted Cinemartists on 'Boys' Town' Set

Tracy, Rooney Find Sun 'Uncomfortable'

By Charlotte Snyder.

Hollywood, the glamour city known to the majority of the theatergoers as the home of their screen idols, moved bag and baggage to Nebraska this summer to make the epic picture, "Boys' Town." Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney, Bob Watson, along with the director, Norman Taurog, all moved into Omaha to film the story of a simple priest who started the greatest "refuge" for homeless boys in the country.

After the first day the set was closed to visitors, but a boy from the home managed to let your reporter into the set. Inside a huge room where the thermometer registered 125 degrees were a hundred or so boys who patiently stood motionless while shot after shot of the choir scene was taken. Huge arc lights flumed their faces as the camera moved in to catch the close-up shots. The unit

Bengtson Praises South For 'Normal Attitude'

Rapid Progress Marks
Section, Says Uni Prof.

We in the north tend to become hysterical about problems which people in the south think are overdrawn, says Dr. Nels A. Bengtson of the geography department, who recently returned from an extensive trip thru the south where he studied the situation to get an accurate first hand conception of the present conditions of the south.

Dr. Bengtson traveled south thru Texas and New Orleans, east thru Birmingham, Knoxville, Atlanta and Charleston and up to Williamsburg, Va. The remainder of the summer was spent at Columbia university, where he taught classes in economic geography.

He noted the rapid progress in the last decade and a half in land use—the practice of terracing, erosion control, and contour farming—all modern methods of soil conservation—are common even among backwoods people, and are used to better advantage than in the north.

Recalling amusing memories, he thought of the singing Negro boy wheels, jogging on his way to

The south, he remarked, is to be

Governing Body Lays Plans for Activities To Boost University During Coming Year

In its initial session of the new school year yesterday, the Student Council discussed means of correcting past abuses in elections and use of identification cards, and received President Harold Benn's recommended appointments to council committees.

Benn stated that the council expects to cooperate with the committee on student identification to the fullest extent this year in an effort to check fraudulent use of identification cards in student elections and other activities in which the card figures. The committee, composed of John Selleck, Prof. E. W. Lantz, Prof. Clifford M. Hicks, chairman, and council members Bob Simmons and Stanley Brewster, met during the summer and devised the new system of numbered identification cards with attached photos. Among suggestions made by the committee to the council regarding the conduct of future elections are that all voters be required to register two weeks before the actual balloting day, and that the fall election be postponed one month in order to allow time for the attaching of pictures to all student identification cards.

New Committees.

Council committee for the present will be as follows, according to Benn's recommendations:

Forums: Bob Waugh, Emma Marie Schuttloffel, co-chairmen, Dick deBrown.

Publicity: Dick deBrown, chairman, Mary Anna Cockle, Merrill Englund.
