'Tis Better to Have Played And Tied, Than Never to Have Played at All—Ling Po

Nebraska bounced out from behind the eight-ball in traditional fashion yesterday to shove Indiana's Hoosiers all over the playing field. Unfortunately for the Cornhuskers, they lacked the necessary scoring punch to break the deadlock.

The zephyrs whipping around Memorial stadium nullified Herm Rohrig's four attempted placements, each of them going wide of the crossbars. Penalties comprised another break for the Hoosiers, but the black-uniformed "pore little boys" failed to cash in on any breaks.

No once did Indiana get beyond Nebraska's 32 yard line, a fact that speaks well for the Husker defensive line. Nebraska, however, had four scoring opportunities, once penetrating to the Hoosier five-yard stripe. By over two to one, Nebraska outrushed the Indiana eleven.

All in all, the Jones Boys played a brand of heads-up football for which no Searlet and Cream fans can be ashamed. Nebraska, despite the double-zero score, was the best team on the field. Add the scoring punch and drive to the rapidly improving line play that was evident yesterday and watch the Huskers go steam-roller against Oklahoma next week.

Helen Jones Wins Contest

Spanish Student Sends In Best Lab Decoration

First prize winner in the contest held last week to find the best plan for decoration of the newly opened phonetics laboratory in University hall is Helen Jones, a Spanish 1 student. Dr. Willis Bowen, chairman of the judging committee, announced yesterday.

Awarded to the winner is a colored reproduction, for framing, of Velasquez' Infanta Marguerita of Spain. Second prize, a choice of an Ivon etching of "L'He de la Cite" or a large photograph of the Cortile del Palazzo Vecchio di Firenze, goes to Josephine Chamberlain, a French 1 student. The remaining award, as third prize, will be given to Betty Kingery, also a French 1 student.

Display of Trophies.

Pending redecoration according to the winning plans, the laboratory is hung with a display of the artistic trophies brought back from Mexico by Mr. John Hammond. In this exhibit the center of attraction is a collection of colorful reproductions of contemporary Mexican artists' portrayals of Mexican legend and history.

Of particular interest is a painting in dusky tones of the legendary founding of Mexico, showing a group of people probably natives of the central plains of North America, who have traveled south as their gods had commanded until they now stand before an eagle with a snake in its mouth hovering over a cactus plant. This odd omen, which has since become the national symbol, is also displayed in a large, vividly colored rug, considered the cream of Mexican art.

Popular Song Sheets.

Song sheets bearing the words to political songs now popular in Mexico and emblazoned with pictures of Mexican President Cardenas are included in the exhibit, along with long and colorful travel folders lauding the country.

Open house every afternoon from 4:30 to 5:30, where students may come to drink tea and "soak up atmosphere" will continue to be held in the laboratory, U hall, room 7 after the room has undergone redecoration.

Agsters Sell Party Ducats

Farmers' Formal Set For Saturday, Oct. 22

Tickets go on sale Monday morning for the annual Farmers formal to be held Saturday evening, Oct. 22, at the student activities building on the Ag campus, according to members of an executive board, sponsors of the event.

The activities building will be transformed into the Susie Q and Dude ranch, as Ag students gather in cowboy, cowgirl, and farmer outfits to dance to the music of Dave Haun and his orchestra.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the Farmers formal queen, to be chosen by the men present from among the senior girls on Ag campus. Balloting on their choice by the men will open at 8:30 and identity of the queen will be revealed in a noval presentation ceremony.

Milton Gustafson, president of the board, warned that at least one member of each couple must be an Ag student, and that costumes appropriate to the occasion will be required. Charge will be 75 cents a couple advance sale and 80 cents at the door.

Ticket Committee.

Iris Johnson and Paul Fidler are cochairmen of the ticket committee, which starts its drive tomorrow. ## Col-Agri-Fun Board Sets Skit Deadline

Plans for Reviews Must Be Filed by Oct. 31, Presentation Dec. 3

Deadline for the submission of skit plans for Coll-Agri-Fun has been set for 5 o'clock, Monday, Oct. 31, according to rules issued yesterday by the board. Coll-Agri-Fun is an annual agricultural college review of talent which will be presented on Dec. 3 this year to finance a number of student loan funds.

The acts may be entered either by individuals or organizations, must not require more than 12 minutes, and must be ready to be presented on the night of the event.

Other rules of the competition for which there will be awarded $30 of prizes, follow:

A legible plan or outline of the act or skit, accompanied by names and telephone numbers of two persons qualified to represent the act, shall be presented to Dean Burr's office by 5 o'clock, Monday, Oct. 31.

Groups enrolling in college of agriculture later than above closing date, but before the date of performance may present the outlines of their skits up to noon, Saturday, Nov. 26.

Board to Select.

Skits and acts must be presented to the Coll-Agri-Fun board of managers for approval by representatives from each group on Nov. 1 or 2. Final decision of the classification and time allowed shall be made by the board.

A dress rehearsal is compulsory before Nov. 21 to compensate for the intervention of Thanksgiving vacation and for six weeks exams the week of Coll-Agri-Fun.

Any student, graduate major, or any organization of the college of agriculture is eligible to take part, if eligible under the university rules governing student activities. No individual may participate in more than one act.

Skits and curtain acts will be judged largely on quality of performance, time required and interest of the action, rather than originality. Copyrighted plays are acceptable.

Coll-Agri-Fun board will award prizes of $30 or more in accordance to the number of skits selected. The high skit will be awarded the Coll-Agri-Fun cup. Second high skit will receive $4. The high curtain act will be awarded $3 and the second high $2. Each skit accepted and presented in at least two rehearsals and the night of Coll-Agri-Fun will receive $2. Each curtain act will receive $1 under the same conditions.

50 Register In Players' Talent Drive

Students Respond to Plea for New Faces

Over fifty students from the various colleges on the campus have registered for the University Players' tryouts being held October 17 and 18 in the Temple Theater under the leadership of Miss Alice Howell, head of the University Department of Speech.

The privilege of participating in some of the plays has been opened to students not studying dramatics for the first time in many years.

Miss Howell expressed, "The purpose of the tryouts is to extend interest and opportunities to those enjoying the theatre. In the past years many law students had parts in the plays."

"The number of students attending the theater this year is definitely on the increase, and we hope that by allowing more to appear in the actual productions greater interest may be promoted."

During the season, those who seem suitable for various roles will have a chance to act in both the shows presented by the University Players and the Children's Theater. After each person tries out, a record of his talent will be made. When a part suited to his type comes up, he will be notified and given a chance at the role.

Dr. Cleon Swayzee of the college of business administration reviewed Miriam Beard's book "A History of the Businessman" in the current edition of the Annals of the American Academy of Political Science.
