Father Malachy, Dr. Mays Suggest Moral Revolution

Religion-Life Speakers Feel Worst Yet to Come

Major Collegiate Affliction? Americanitis Says Bollinger

Activity System Draws Fire of Church Leader

"College students in this country are afflicted with Americanitis," asserted H. D. Bollinger, voluble Religion and Life Week leader, in conducting a seminar on Religion in College Life. "As soon as three college students get together they organize and draw up a charter. The result is that every phase of campus life is organized for rating and recognition."

"Every student I meet lives under the tyranny of the next thing he has to do. It certainly is an oppressive feeling. The schedule of every organized house demands that you go out for activities—so the campus is constantly creating activities to go out for." Dr. Bollinger thinks that the point system is too much worshiped, the activities which reap points taking precedence over voluntary activities.

Religion Shut Out.

The Methodist education director thinks it quite generally true that religion hardly touches the organized groups on a campus. "We have to look at it realistically. A fraternity or a sorority is an organized unit for residential and social purpose. Naturally it takes a lot of its members, time to carry out its purpose—takes still more time to put its members high in activities.

"Of course there are exceptions. I was in a fraternity house last week in which the fireplace mantel was full of the hardware that is usually handed out for athletic achievement. But also, this frat had consistently the highest house scholastic average on the campus, and a survey revealed that all but two of its members regularly attended church or some student foundation."

Dr. Bollinger has drafted ten commandments for college students:

1. Keep your personality in the social group. Don't let yourself be crushed in the crowd. Practically every campus is over-organized and the crowd mind can easily crush your chance to be what you ought to become.

2. Exercise precaution in the selection of the residence group in which you live. Be careful in the selection of a residence group as you would if you were

Union Awards Burnett Office

Space Given in Tribute to Chancellor's Work

Chancellor Emeritus E. A. Burnett was awarded a private office in the Student Union by the board of managers Thursday night as headquarters for his university foundation work. A rearrangement of room space made the allocation possible, according to board members.

"The Student Union board of managers is extending an office to Chancellor Emeritus Burnett as a personal tribute for his untiring efforts as chancellor in making the Union a reality," Professor E. F. Schramm, chairman of the board, said. "His whole-hearted co-operation with the student body in securing the Union was recognized by the board."

To Move in Soon.

Mr. Burnett will continue his university foundation work from the Student Union office into which he is expected to move soon. The Love memorial residence for university coeds is the latest undertaking assisted by the university foundation. Construction work on the addition to Carrie Belle Raymond hall is under way at present.

The board, in its regular bi-monthly meeting, approved the space assignment committee's recommendation that the room occupied now by the 1938 Cornhusker be allocated for yearbook staff use for three years, after which time the room reverts to the board's disposal.

Committee to Investigate. A committee of three board members will be named next week by Chairman Schramm to investigate sponsorship of events by off-campus organizations in the Union under pretense of student activities. Several matters and incidents of this nature, reported to the board, prompted the action.

Plans for the Sigma Delta Chi edition of the Daily Nebraskan, to be published this year on Dec. 6, in connection with the all state high school football rally, will also be discussed at the meeting.

Kosmet Klub Books Beck Orchestra

Band to Furnish Music for Annual Fall Revue, Thanksgiving Morning

Music for the Kosmet Klub fall revue will be furnished by the Beck-Jungbluth orchestra, playing from the rising pit of the Stuart theater Thanksgiving morning, Nov. 24. In addition to accompanying musical numbers in the show's fourteen acts, the band will probably swing out in a few selections on its own.

A new and striking manner of presenting the 1938 Nebraska Sweetheart has been devised, according to Stanley Brewster and Joe Stephens, Klub members in charge of presentation plans. Coming at the climax of the revue, the Sweetheart's appearance will reveal for the first time the outcome of male balloting in the fall election.

Candidates for the honor included Mary Anna Cockle, Delta Delta Delta, Jeanne Newell, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Jean Morgan, Alpha Phi, and Peg Weaverling, Pi Beta Phi.

Ray Ramsay, alumni secretary and inimitable campus humorist, will act as master of ceremonies for the revue. He will also serve as one of the judges to determine winning acts as evidenced by audience applause. Five acts will compete for the fraternity cup, five for the sorority cup, and four for the curtain act award.

Tickets for the show may be purchased for 50 cents apiece from any Kosmet Klub worker. No seats will be reserved, and curtain time has been set for 9 o'clock.

Rally Cheers Team To Iowa

Student enthusiasm, bolstered by the win over Kansas and the grand fight the Husker squad put up against the Pitt Panther is expected to bring hundreds of football fans to the rally. Traveling east on R to 16th, the parade will turn south to P, and then straight to the Rock Island depot. The Biffers' boys will leave the Union by bus at 5:15 o'clock, and will meet the student escort at the depot before train time.

Uni Players' Attendance Sets Record

Last Night's Crowd Brings Season's Total Close to All-Time Mark

With a near sellout last night, attendance figures on the University Players' current Pulitzer prize comedy "You Can't Take It With You" neared an all time record. More than one thousand persons have witnessed the production, figures released after last night's performance show.

Business Manager Armand Hunter said, however, many good seats yet remain for Friday and Saturday night performances. Reports that the Players would take their show to Omaha and towns surrounding Lincoln, were not confirmed by Hunter, who said he had no knowledge of plans if they had been made.

Webendorfer Example. Meanwhile, members of the cast and directors, said they were elated over audiences seeing the show. Performers in the show, which is the first appearance of the Kaufmann-Hart production in Lincoln, said they were enjoying the reception given the comedy. Several, "hitching their wagons to stars," dreamed of an incident similar to that affecting the employees of John F. Webendorfer's printing establishment in Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Cast members reminisced that Webendorfer, after seeing the movie of the "You Can't Take It With You" script, split the proceeds of the sale of his factory with his employees. "I suppose I could have gone and rolled up a couple of million more," Webendorfer said. "Business has been good, so good we can't keep up with orders, but what was the use, my son will always get along." More than 250 thousand dollars will be divided among 115 employees.

The other delegate is a girl chosen from the University of Illinois.

Anderson is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and Corn Cobs, as well as the Lincoln Religious Welfare council.

Coeds Lead Unusual Lives In N. U. "No Woman's" Land

Four Girls Thrive in Domain of Engineers

Dirty machinery, greasy notebooks, broad masculine humor and occasionally, a choice bit of profanity, make the daily lives of four University coeds the most unusual on the campus, as they "hold their own" in a college made up entirely of boys.

The girls, Ruby Loper, Winfred Henke, Aviona Moyer and Shirley Russell, are senior, junior, sophomore and freshman respectively in the college of engineering. All of them have architectural engineering as their ultimate goal, but find the initial work in mechanics, surveying and other such courses unusual as well as interesting.

Out of the Closet.

"Tomboys? I should say not," says Miss Moyer. "After all, we find a great number of male students in such courses as home economics and we girls do not refer to them as sissies. As far as I'm concerned, we can be engineers without being masculine."

"It happens every year," declared Miss Henke. "We girls who have had been in the college for a year think we are accepted, then some new girl enters the school and the old 'anti-femme' attitude is dragged out of the closet with clean collars and a new necktie."

Work, Not Charm.

However, things are working out smoothly for the women, De-

Gamma Phi Beta Wins Over Pi Phi

No Games in Nebraska Ball Tourney Tonight

There will be no games today, but Monday's game will be between Alpha Phi and Sigma Kappa and between Alpha Omicron Phi and Alpha Chi Omega.

terminated to sink or swim on their grade averages and not their feminine charm, the girls made it plain by their "man to man" attitude that they do not expect favors from the boys.

According to Miss Loper, there is not a square foot of turf on the campus that she has not staked at thru a telescope atop a surveyor's tripod during the year that she took a surveying course. As for
