

Mortar Board takes over loan fund

Proposal to provide students with ready cash at no interest

Establishment on the campus of a new Student Loan Fund has been effected thru the cooperative efforts of the Student Council, Mortar Board, and university officials.

Purpose of the action is to set up a permanent fund to assist students needing financial help for a short period of time. No interest will be charged students securing loans until the end of a five-month-period. At that time loans will be considered delinquent and interest will begin at the rate of five percent per annum.

No loans will be made in greater amounts than fifty dollars. The Dean of Student Affairs or such persons as he may appoint will administer the fund and make all loans.

Mortar Board Contributes.

Members of Mortar Board became interested in the fund some time ago when the Student Council first took it under consideration. They now propose to raise money for it and will make a contribution of $100 to start it.

Mortar Board will solicit contributions to the fund from other organizations and individuals. They will contribute additional sums of $100 each year until the fund shall have reached $1,000. Contributions are now being accepted on a voluntary basis. It is specified that all contributors relinquish all claim to the money which they donate once it has become part of the fund.

Begins at Once.

Money will be held in the office of the finance secretary and all contributions to or withdrawals from the fund must pass thru this office. Collection of all loans will also be made thru this office.

The Mortar Board committee which has made arrangements for the fund is composed of Barbara Rosewater, chairman, Betty Clements, and Phyllis Chamberlain. The Student Council committee was comprised of Frances Platte, chairman, Dick McGinnis, and Jean Morgan.

Mortar Boards will deposit the first $100 of the fund after their next meeting and the plans is expected to get under way almost immediately.

Kirkpatrick aims to achieve music for every student

Director advises course to present fine artists

"Music for every student and every student for music" should be a slogan on every college and university campus, says Howard Kirkpatrick, director of the school of music, in his article appearing in the current issue of the Educational Music Magazine.

Musical courses should offer broad cultural as well as professional training, he believes, saying, "By all means, let us have a distinguished music faculty ready for the best talent that may apply for instruction, and a group of orchestra and choir ensembles for every class and division of talent."

An artist's course which would present great artists and orchestras to the student body should be inaugurated in all universities, believes Kirkpatrick, adding that these concerts would be even more valuable if they were preceded by non-technical discussions of the music to be presented.

"In this manner," he explains, "an easy and painless bath of culture could be initiated. Most campus activities provide a plethora of singing and playing, supported by inadequate program annotations. This system is a weak and somewhat futile method of bringing music culture to the students."

"Who is there to say that music culture and professionalism cannot thrive on the same campus? We are not trying to make professional musicians out of all our students, but rather, we are trying to raise a generation of music lovers from which may come an audience to which an artist can appeal. The musical amateur is the material that makes a nation musical. A great artist alone cannot make a music-loving nation any more than the coach alone can make a football team. We cannot do without the coach, but neither can the coach make a winning team out of untrained material."
