Huskers take Wildcats in ragged battle

Browne's five paced by Kovanda; Wesche hits for 20 tallies

A fighting Nebraska basketball team put itself back into the Big Six race with a decisive victory over Kansas State 42 to 24 here last night.

The Huskers took an early lead on two free throws by Kovanda and a bucket by Thomas and retained that lead throughout the game. It was five minutes before the visitors were able to counter and at the end of ten minutes Nebraska had tripled the Aggies' score and led 15 to 5.

Coach Browne ran in a new team at this point and the Wildcats paced by Homer Wesche, conference scoring leader, drew up within 11 points. But the Nebraska substitutes stopped it at that to lead 24 to 13 at the half.

Ragged first half.

The first half was marked by bad passes and poor floor play on the part of both teams, especially on the part of Kansas State.

Both teams came back in the second canto with a vengeance and Kansas State, again paced by the "Thin Man" Wesche who garnered 12 points in this period, pulled up within six points, only to see their attack bog down as Kovanda put the game on ice for the Huskers with a pair of free throws on a deliberate trip by Reid of Kansas State.

Homer Wesche of Kansas State topped the scoring with 20 counters while Bill Kovanda of Nebraska boosted his standing in the conference with 13 points.

Between the halves the fans were entertained by a combination wrestling, football and basketball melee between the respected press quintet and the rugged squad of coaches. The coaches came out on top 6 to 4.

Walter O'Keefe, radio and screen star, told this one about Knute Rockne at a New York sports blowout the other night.

Rock, on being introduced to columnist Heywood Broun, said, "I've been reading your column in the World." Catch is that Broun had not been writing for the World for several years, and the faux pas made him sore. He answered, "I have been following your Yale basketball team," and walked out.

Phog Allen is having his troubles at Lawrence, and with the Oklahoma Aggie game coming up, has dropped George Golay and Bruce Reid from the squad because of violation of training rules. Golay, 6' 3" forward, was instrumental in beating the Huskers at Lincoln last year, while Reid, a 6' 1" guard, is or was, the best passer on the team.

Then, Bob Allen who has been playing regularly at center, will be out with a leg infection, and William Hogben, sophomore, has been lost to the squad because of low grades.

Starting lineup for the Jayhawks against Oklahoma Aggies includes Ralph Miller and Don Ebling at forwards, Bruce Voran at center, and Dick Harp and Lyman Corlis at guards.
