Women elect May Queen tomorrow

Junior, senior coeds also select Mortar Board candidates

To select the May Queen, the senior girl who will reign over the traditional festivities of Ivy Day, crowning event of the year's activities, senior and junior women will cast their votes Wednesday, March 29. Nominations for Mortar Board members to be masked on Ivy Day will also be made upon this election day.

Eligibility requirements include an 80 scholastic average, four years of school at Nebraska, one B activity, and no outstanding delinquencies. To be a candidate the girl must be carrying at least 12 hours and have credit for 27 hours in her junior year.

The requirements governing Mortar Board candidates are the same as those governing the May Queen election, except that the candidates must be of junior standing and have full intentions of returning to school the following year.

Identification cards necessary.

Appearing on the May Queen ballot will be: Phyllis Chamberlain, Harriet Cummer, Virginia Nelte, Barbara Marston, Heden Pascoe, Phyllis Robinson, Josephine Rubnitz, and Muriel White.

Voters must designate not less than five and not more than 20 choices for Mortar Board. The 30 girls receiving the greatest number of ballots will compose the group from which the present Mortar Board chapter will choose its new members.

Identification cards will be necessary to vote. Members of the active chapter of the society will supervise the election. Polls will be open in Ellen Smith hall and the Home Economics building on ago-campus from 5 to 9 o'clock.

Of the 30 eligible women any of them may have their names removed from the ballot if they do not wish to compete in the election.

Lyman to lead forum today

... on marriage

Dr. Rufus A. Lyman, dean of the college of pharmacy, will lead an open forum on the subject of "Courses in Marriage," scheduled by the Student Council for this morning at 11 o'clock in Union Parlors Y and Z.

Dr. Lyman will speak briefly on the subject by way of introduction before starting off the group discussion. Students are invited to question him on any problems relating to the general subject during the discussion.

This is another in the series of forums scheduled during the school year by the Council on topics of current interest to university students. Today's meeting is open to anyone free at that hour.

The Council forums committee is headed by Bob Waugh and Emma Marie Schuttlhoff.

Select Kime, Ekblad, Henrickson, Woodard

Four delegates to the Independent Student's Association's second national conference to be held March 31 to April 1 at Lawrence, Kansas were selected yesterday by the Barb Council. Melva Kime, Victoria Ekblad, Francis Woodard and Arthur Henrickson will represent Nebraska Barbs. Prof. E. W. Lantz will accompany the group as faculty sponsor.

Dr. Ginsburg wins $2,500 fellowship

Study of Roman social policy earns professor J. S. Guggenheim award

Dr. Michael Ginsburg, associate professor of classics, was awarded yesterday a John Simon Guggenheim fellowship for study of the social policy of the Roman Emperors in their efforts to improve the conditions of the economically weaker groups of Roman society.

Dr. Ginsburg is the first member of the Nebraska faculty to win a Guggenheim fellowship while teaching here. This year 60 such fellowships were awarded, each with stipends of $2,500 a year. The fellowship winners were chosen from a field of 1,000 candidates.

May go abroad to study.

Plans for his study are not definite, Dr. Ginsburg said, except that he may possibly go to England. (See GINSBURG Page 4.)

Union to show color movies

Photographer brings pictures of northwest

Expert photography showing natural-color scenes of the picturesque northwest will be available to university students and faculty at 4 o'clock today in the Union ballroom.

According to Prof. Nels A. Bengtson, chairman of the geography department, these films represent the last word in color-sound motion pictures, and have been accorded highest praise from experts. Glacier National Park will be shown with the "Monatana Land of the Shining Mountains," its Canadian neighbor, the Waterton Lakes Park, and the Blackfoot Indians in native costumes and traditional ceremony.

Railroad gives free showing.

On its way to the New York World's Fair, the film will be shown once in Lincoln, and twice in Omaha. Through the courtesy of the Great Northern railroad and its Omaha representative, Mr. William Blonder, the pictures will be shown free of charge, and will be of great interest not only to prospective vacationists but also to professional and amateur camera enthusiasts.

William T. Yale, expert cameraman of the Great Northern railroad, will be here to show the film personally, coming from California on his way to the New York Fair. Presiding will be Prof. Bengtson, through whose efforts the pictures have been brought to Lincoln.

Students check up on Educator's Inc.

Following Sunday's article in the DAILY NEBRASKAN, it was revealed that the Educator's Association, Inc. has done a remarkable business during its short stay in Lincoln.

Perplexed and puzzled, many students began to make a more thorough check on their contracts and on what they had really signed. Several of these students appeared at the NEBRASKAN to make further inquiries concerning the association and to check thru the reports of the federal trade commission.

Jewett to speak to June grads

Famed engineer accepts invitation to deliver address at commencement exercises

Dr. Frank Baldwin Jewett, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, will be the university commencement speaker this year, it was announced yesterday by Chancellor C. S. Boucher. Dr. Jewett, recipient this year of the John Fritz medal, the highest American engineering honor, will address approximately 870 graduates at the commencement exercises, which will be held in the coliseum on June 5.

DR. FRANK B. JEWETT.

The graduation speaker is one of the outstanding communication engineers in the United States and has been awarded honorary doctor's degrees in science, engineering, and law by nine universities throughout the country.

Among the numerous national awards he has received are the Edison medal, the Faraday medal of the Institution of Electrical Engineers, the medal of the Franklin Institute, the United State's distinguished service award, two honorary awards from the Japanese government including the Fourth order of the Rising Sun and the Third order of the Sacred Treasure, and the Fritz medal of this year.

Advanced communications.

Dr. Jewett has made many important advances in the field of research including work in such important fields of electrical communication development as the transcontinental telephone service, a problem which seemed to present insuperable difficulties; the vacuum tube, introduction and development of machine switching on a large scale, and highspeed submarine telegraph service.

He became associated with the company, of which he is now vice-president, in 1904, as a regular (See JEWETT Page 4.)

Tassels elect heads tonight

Nominees for offices to be disclosed at session

Tassels, girls' organization, will choose officers for the ensuing year this evening when they meet at 7 o'clock in the Union.

Officers to be selected will be president, vice president, secretary treasurer, reporter and notifications chairman. Members now serving in these capacities are Virginia Nolte, Harriet Cummer, Priscilla Wicks, Selma Hill, Mary Steuterville, and Helen Kovanda, respectively.

Supervising the election will be the sponsors of Tassels, Miss Thelma DeForest, faculty advisor, and Miss Jean Wait, alumnae advisor. Serving on the nominating committee were Virginia Nolte, Harriet Cummer, Edith Filley and Maxine Federle.

Army inspection set for May 17-20

Omaha, St. Louis men to judge NU ROTC

The dates for the annual R.O.T.C. governmental inspection have recently been set for May 17-20. Coming to inspect the infantry will be Col. R. B. Dusenbury, from Omaha; to inspect the artillery will be Major Larry McHale, also from Omaha; and inspecting the engineers will be Major E. P. Ketchum, from St. Louis, Mo. The parades, which are given before these dates, will be in preparation for the inspection.

NU students ask Fair jobs

New York exposition work attracts fifty

Approximately fifty University of Nebraska students have applied for jobs to act as guides and roller chair operators at this summer's New York World's Fair, according to R. D. Moritz, director of the Educational service department. The jobs, offered by the American Express Concession company, are restricted to men between the ages of 19 and 25, who have had one year of college.

Due to an unexpected demand for application blanks, the placement bureau was unable to provide several students with application blanks and consequently several wrote directly to the company for blanks. The company has returned the letters and additional blanks, which are now available at the DAILY NEBRASKAN office. Blanks are being held for the following students: Wesley G. Macy, Howard G. Froman, Stefan J. Fraenkel, Katherine Piazza, Richard Peterson, Raymond Kaimmer, Charles Brown, Augustine Piazza, Marvin Johnson, Marvin Pitmann, James C. Carlon, Arthur Boye, Paul Standig, and Chris Peterson. Other students who are interested in securing a job at the fair may also secure blanks at the DAILY NEBRASKAN office.

I-M debaters enter semifinals

Four teams debate 6 year term tonight

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will meet Sigma Alpha Mu and Beta Theta Pi will take on Delta Theta Pi Thursday evening in the semi-final round of the intramural debate tournament.

Question to be discussed is, "Resolved, that the president should be elected for a six-year term," and the Sig Alphas and Betas will uphold the affirmative.

Since each team has already lost one debate, elimination will be determined by two losses. The winners of Thursday's matches will meet in the final.

Debates will be held at the chapter houses of the affirmative teams, and judges will be university debaters.
