Lack of facilities cost NU part in air training program

An armory might have given Cornhuskers a chance to participate in national plan, says Colonel Gury

Lack of proper facilities caused the University of Nebraska to be disregarded in the federal government's choice of universities for the national air training program. In commenting Col. W. H. Gury of the R. O. T. C. remarked, "The boys in basic R. O. T. C. have to drill between the cars instead of in a decent place such as an armory. If there had been such a place on the campus, Nebraska would probably have had a good chance of being one of the schools selected."

The University of Alabama leads in the advancement of the universities selected by the government for the program while the University of Kansas ranks fourth.

Violinist gives concert today

Mu Phi Epsilon brings Preadore for benefit

Featuring Edward Preadore, prominent young violinist, Mu Phi Epsilon, musical fraternity, will give a benefit concert this evening at 8:15 in the Cornhusker ballroom.

Money obtained from the concert will be used for the annual scholarship awarded to the outstanding freshman girl entered in the School of Music.

As the money paid for guest artists by the fraternity is limited, Mu Phi Epsilon feels that they are fortunate to obtain Mr. Preadore, who has an outstanding musical record. Dr. Walter Damrosch chose him to be the concertmaster and soloist with the national high school orchestra which toured under the leadership of Dr. Damrosch.

Earns Coveted Diploma

Upon graduation from high school he attended Curtiss Institution in Philadelphia, where he had a scholarship. Later at the invitation of Dr. Howard Hanson, he went to Eastman School of Music, graduating with the Young artists diploma, given only three times in the history of the school.

Preadore appeared in the MGM studio orchestra last year and also played in Jeannette MacDonald's latest picture. After his Lincoln concert, the young musician will give a series of recitals in Minneapolis.

Those wishing to attend the benefit concert Wednesday may obtain tickets at 35c from members of Mu Phi Epsilon.

Kosmet Klub to rehearse show tonight, tomorrow

Kosmet Klub cast rehearsal will be held tonight and tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the social science auditorium. The pony chorus will practice in Teachers basement at 7 o'clock on the same evenings. All participants are requested to be present.

Conference scheduled for April 14

Delegations expected from Kearney, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Joseph

Delegations to the university's transportation conference scheduled for April 14 are assured from Des Moines, St. Joseph, Omaha and Kearney, according to communications received at the office of Prof. Clifford M. Hicks, chairman of the committee in charge of the conference.

Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, Senators Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, and Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, who were invited to the conference, all have expressed a desire to attend, and will notify the committee if they find themselves able to be in Lincoln at that time.

6,000 programs mailed.

More than 6,000 programs have been mailed to executives in the fields of insurance, banking, wholesaling and manufacturing, both in Nebraska and over the Missouri Valley. Retailers in major cities also have been invited to attend the one day conference, Professor Hicks stated.

The morning session starts at 9 o'clock in the Union, where economists, railroad officials and rate experts will address the conference. After a luncheon at the chamber of commerce, conferees will return to the Union to hear further addresses on topics related to transportation and economics. The conference will be concluded at a dinner at the Cornhusker with

400 see films of Northwest

Over 400 students saw the eye-filling scenes of "The Land of Shining Mountains," Glacier National park and its Canadian neighbor, Waterton Lakes park, in the natural-color movie shown yesterday in the Union ballroom.

Regler worries--maybe he'll have to find another office

By some remarks subtly dropped, maintenance workers near Social Science Annex have caused Sergeant Regler of the campus police to worry no end about being forced out of the fourth room he has used for his office since he was stationed on the campus 12 years ago.

Regler was returning to his office the other day, and when he

Students to see picture set in Alps Saturday

Winterstuerme, the last film in the series sponsored by the German department, will be shown Saturday morning, April 1, at the Varsity theater. There are three showings of the film: 6:30, 8:10, and 9:50.

The story centers about the life of a young German architect, who, unhappily married, seeks refuge high in the Alps. In his wanderings, he comes to the home of Herr Favetti. The Favetti family is lonely and sad because of the death of a son in the war. The architect is welcomed, and he soon falls in love with the daughter and marries her after divorcing his wife.

Although the play was filmed in German, subtitles in English have been added to enable those who can not understand German readily to follow the picture. The Alps form an attractive setting for the story.

Kralik to lead republican group

Ivins, Gray, Reed to fill other positions in club

The oYung Republicans of the University of Nebraska held their first organizational meeting at the Student Union last evening.

Officers elected were William Kralik, president; Jim Ivins, secretary; George Gray, chairman of the committee on organization; and Ralph Reed, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Plans were laid for a meeting before spring vacation and for a gigantic mass meeting to be held shortly after that vacation.
