Report from pore little Pitt stating that but one veteran fullback, Frank Gooddell, turned out for spring practice, is veddy in-teresting. Larry Peace, another fullback, it is stated, is ineligible.

What we'd like to know, is what became of Ben Kish? Kish is the big fellow who took Marshall Goldberg's place against the Huskers here last fall. He has another year of competition remaining. course, maybe he's playing halfback, you can't ever tell.

This Edgar Jones, ace Panther freshman, who hasn't reported for spring drills as yet, is one of the greatest prospects in Pitt's history. The possibility that he may not report-I think it's a bit exaggerated-should make a few people sit up and notice

He has done everything from assuring himself of a major league baseball contract whenever he wants one, and gaining himself a reputation as a great frosh prospect, to winning canoe ace in everything he attempted around the home town, once decided to enter, of all things, a catime he ever rowed a canoe.

Beta's to face Sigma Nu's in I-M bowling

Winner to play in finals against Kappa Sigma tomorrow evening

Sigma Nu, Beta Theta Pi and Kappa Sigma are left in the running for final honors in the men's intramural bowling race after last night's matches.

The Kappa Sigs won from Alpha Gamma Rho, 1649-1383, as Howard Curtiss led the victors with a 182-212, 394, second highest series of the day. Best for the losers, who are now out of the running for the title, was John Biffar, with 168-155, 323.
