2,000 state farmers gather at ag today

Feeders Day meeting to feature announcement of cattle, sheep feeding experiment results

Approximately 2,000 Nebraska farmers will gather on the ag campus today to attend the 27th annual Feeders day. High spot of the meeting will be announcement of the result of prolonged experimental feeding tests on cattle and sheep under the supervision of Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel.

Publishers and writers of Nebraska daily and weekly newspapers will attend a special luncheon to be held Friday noon in the practice dining room in the home ec building, according to George Round, extension editor, who arranged the affair with the cooperation of Fred Minder, secretary of the Nebraska Press association.

The "dinner call" program from KFAB, 12:25 p. m. until 1 p. m. will be broadcast from a table in front of the student activities building for the benefit of visitors. Managers of the Feeders' day events were pinning their hopes on the weatherman's report of "fair tomorrow" late yesterday, for much of the success of the day hinges on behavior of the elements.

Some 500 pounds of barbecued beef will be taken out of the pit this morning and prepared for serving at noon.

There will be a dinner this evening honoring Bruce McCulloch, editor of the Journal-Stockman, for his contributions to the livestock industry. The Block and Bridle club, student agricultural organization, is sponsoring the dinner.

The stands in the "stadium," which has been set up in the feed lots, will allow several hundred people to view the experimental livestock exhibition, and display of purebred herds of horses, sheep, cattle and hogs.

Dean W. W. Burr urged Lincoln people, as well as those from out state to attend Feeders' day. It is designed, he said, not only for farm people but also for those in cities and towns. He pointed particularly to the women's program which will be going on all day.

YW bridge benefit ticket sales boom

Proceeds of Saturday event go to social work

According to reports made at the regular YWCA cabinet meeting Wednesday night, 159 tickets have already been sold for the bridge benefit which that organization is sponsoring tomorrow in Ellen Smith from 2:30 until 5 p. m.

It is expected that about 200 will be sold by tomorrow, as students, housemothers and townspeople are all invited to play. Chinese checker games will also be available for those who do not play bridge. The proceeds from the affair will be used by the Y.W. social service staff, headed by Mary Ellen Osborne, in the purchase of new equipment for the children of the Southwest Community Center, the Orthopedic Hospital, Tabitha Home, and other homes for dependent children. This staff, organized in February, has carried out work of this kind very successfully throughout the semester.

With Jane Shaw in charge of tickets, the entire Y.W. cabinet is selling tickets at 25c apiece. Refreshments will be served at the affair, of which Helen Abel and Frances Van Anda are co-chairmen.

Short plays feature open house tonight

Language honorary invites Doane, Midland, Hastings, Peru classes

Two short modern plays, one in French and one in Spanish will feature the annual open house to be held tonight in social sciences auditorium by Phi Sigma Iota, romance language honorary. The performance begins at 8 o'clock.

Starring Betty Groth, Jon Pruden and Roger Hughes, "Huyendo del Perejil" by Manuel Tomayo y Baus is the comedy of a young man who marries against his father's consent, and hoping to have his father meet his wife without knowing who she is, arranges a car breakdown outside her house. The father surprises his son by falling in love with the girl himself.

Have to fake love.

"Le Tabique Taboque," a streamlined comedy by Marcelle Capron, shows a hen-pecked husband and his quarrelsome wife who have to pretend that they are "still madly in love after all these years" for the benefit of their niece who

Bizad faculty attends meet

Six to take part in Des Moines conference

Fourteen Bizad faculty members and seven graduate students in economics are attending the joint conference of the Midwest Economics and Sociological associations meeting in Des Moines today and Saturday. Six of the Nebraska delegation have been chosen to participate in the several discussion sections.

C. M. Hicks will preside over the public utilities discussion group while E. A. Gilmore and O. R. Martin have been chosen to discuss papers presented on price theory and large scale business enterprise subjects respectively.

To read papers.

Named as readers of original papers are C. E. McNeill and W. A. Spurr. McNeill's subject will cover "How the Consumer Fares in Public Utility Rate Setting" and Spurr will discuss "Statistics Courses in Schools of Business." V. O. Hertzler is to address a sociological section on "Some Sociological Aspects of Regionalism."

Others attending the conference from the faculty are J. E. Kirschman, Dana F. Cole, A. R. Carson, A. B. Burton, C. O. Swayzee, J. A. Pfanner, Theodore Marburg, Hershel Jones and E. B. Schmidt.

Graduate students with the party are Leonard Rall, Forrest Blood, jr., Eunice Werner, Kenyon Lewis, William Dick, Arthur Auble and Robert Kovarik.

Editorial . . . To the Innocents

Yesterday the men of this campus selected their nominees for your successors. Today, tomorrow, perhaps next week, you will select the final group who will wear the red robes in 1940.

If you truly deserve to show your badge as an Innocent, if you truly qualify as a member of that organization, you will have the courage to choose these twelve men:

- Roger Cunningham
- Adna Dobson
- Richard DeBrown
- Merrill Englund
- Orval Hager
- Harold Niemann
- Roy Proffitt
- Ralph Reed
- Edwin Rousek
- Irvin Sherman
- Fred Stiner
- Grant Thomas

Innocents, to make this selection will take more courage than has ever been displayed by any group of your predecessors. These men are advocated without reference to political affiliation or regard to social fraternity.

From the vantage point of view afforded the editor of the DAILY NEBRASKAN, these men have proved themselves most fully imbued with the admirable qualities sought by the men who founded your organization. They have shown leadership.

Thieves thug Kosmet Klub show banner

Mystery of the day—What happened to the Kosmet Klub's "Alias Aladdin" banner that has hung over the front door of the Temple the first days of the show? It's not a "pick up" that souvenir hunters might want for the wall nor is it Beta property that the Phi Deltas might carry off for spite. Yet this 15 by 20 foot canvas with a 2 by 4 nailed, glued, and wired to the bottom has somehow disappeared.

The thieves, presuming that it was stolen, must have wanted it badly to climb to the third floor balcony, loosen chains and tear off the eyelets fastening the canvas to the top and lower it to the ground. More surprising than this is the fact that no one saw the thugs at work, since the canvas, if the reports are correct that it was hanging tight this morning, must have been thugged in broad daylight.

Anybody knowing of the banner's whereabouts or who may have clues as to the manner in which it disappeared are requested to report to the Kosmet Klub detectives at once.

Clinchy address Jews, Christians

Discusses democracy at Saturday meeting

Democracy and freedom of speech as it involves Jews and Christians will be discussed by Dr. Everett Clinchy, director of the National Conference of Jews and Christians centered in New York City, at a breakfast tomorrow morning in Union Parlors X and Y at 8 o'clock.

The occasion is sponsored by the Religious Welfare Council and is open to all students and faculty members. Reservations close at 5 o'clock today, may be made through any university pastor.

The National Council of Christians and Jews is a clearing house for material to be used in the new-born cooperation movement between the two religions, sponsoring radio programs, intercollegiate conferences and roundtables.

Liberal candidate piles up big lead

Victor receives 438 votes, Holtorf 220, Forster 57; Innocents candidates named

Men of the campus overwhelmingly announced their approval of Willard Wilson, junior Liberal of Holdrege, as Ivy Day orator in a ballot taken at the annual spring election yesterday. Wilson won over his nearest competitor by more than 200 votes. The final count gave Wilson 438 votes, Jack Holtorf Progressive, 220, and Independent Hubert Forster, 57.

In 1936 Wilson was named national oratorical champion, representing Wesleyan university of Lincoln, at the competition at Northwestern. He also was Ivy Day orator at Wesleyan last year.

In the same poll, 25 men were nominated for potential membership in the Innocents society. 1940 members of the society will be chosen from this group and will be tapped by this year's members at the annual Ivy Day ceremonies May 4. Usually, 13 men are selected for membership.

Only men vote.

Ballots were cast in the Union and Dean Burr's office on the ag campus, with voting for the Innocent candidates restricted to junior and senior men. All regularly enrolled students were allowed to vote for orator.

Each junior and senior man was free to vote for five men with the following qualifications for Innocents: (1) not less than 89 and not more than 106 credit hours by the end of this semester; (2) scholastic average of not less than 75 percent.

Barb A.W.S. installs 12

New members assigned to board positions

Twelve newly elected members of the Barb A. W. S. board were officially installed in office at an installation ceremony in Ellen Smith hall Wednesday evening, April 19, at 5:00.

Velma Ekwall, retiring president of the board addressed the new members, after which they were formally installed. Each member was assigned to a position on the board which she will occupy throughout the year. They are: president, Melva Kime; vice president, Peggy Sherburne; secretary, Victoria Ekblad; treasurer, Betty Jean Spaulding; agricultural college chairman, Betty Jean Spaulding, Gwen Jack and Ruth Mae Pestal; point chairman, Betty Ann Duff and Betty Hutchinson; publicity chairman, Jeanet Swenson and Jean Mac Allister.

A dinner for the old and new members of the board followed the installation.

Dr., Mrs. McCaskill to entertain Methodists

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. McCaskill, of Seward, collectors of paintings, pottery and Oriental rugs, will be the feature of the Methodist Friday Friendly Hour this evening at 7:30 at the Wesley Foundation. Phyllis Olson is arranging the meeting. Dr. McCaskill, Methodist minister at Seward, will bring several paintings and pottery pieces of their collection.

'Y' retreat to be held next Saturday

Annual Y. M. C. A. spring retreat will be held next Saturday and Sunday at Camp Strader near Crete, Nebraska. Purpose of the retreat is to plan the organization's fall program. Members of both the city campus and ag campus organizations will participate. Delegations from Wesleyan and Doane have been invited to attend the session.

by Politicus XXX.

I voted yesterday. No bombs or eggs marred the peace of the polls as I stepped out to cast my meager ballot. Not a club was wielded; not a fist threatened me. In fact, I guess, no one gave a damn whether I voted or not.

I'm kinda on the sly side, so I went in backward thinking that they might think that I was coming out and hence I could vote twice. But I was fooled, I got in all right but when I went up to the desk to get the ballot some father's child says, "Where's the identification card, bud." Well, I don't like to be called "bud" because it reminds of roses, and roses remind of thorns, and I don't like thorns, and I was going to tell him so, but I didn't. He evidently was having a hard day of it for he looked the part.

I handed him the identification card after I turned the photograph upside down because it looks more like me that way. The fellow took a punch and clipped out a good

Music sororities to present benefit

String group will play for scholarship fund

The Lincoln string orchestra, selected from the Lincoln Symphony orchestra, will be presented in a concert Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in the Union hall room, under the sponsorship of Delta Omicron and Sigma Alpha Iota.

Directed by Miss Dorothy Holcomb of the School of Music, the orchestra will play for the benefit of the scholarship fund of the two honorary musical sororities. Soloists for the performances will be Mary Louise Baker, cellist, and Katherine Dean. Tickets are available for 25 cents at the school of music.

Feature of the program will be "Elegy," a song written especially for Delta Omicron and Sigma Alpha Iota by the composer, Anthony Bonato, a former Nebraska student. Bonato, now a teacher of violin at Iowa State college, attended the university in 1928.
