

Harvard nips Yale 10-7 as grid drills close

Francis' field goal breaks tie

BY DAVID THOMPSON.

Harvard came thru in the last half to nip Yale 10 to 7 before a crowd of about 2,500 Husker fans in the final game of the spring practice series to make it a decisive 7 to 4 margin of wins.

With the advent of the Harvard reserves against Yale firsts in the second period, Harry Hopp and Yale incorporated got under way to manufacture the first score. George Porter's punt against the wind went out on the Harvard 37 yard line to give the Eli's their chance. Here Hopp, Rohn and Simmons combined to take the oval to the 9. On the next play Hopp flipped a pass in the flat to Bus Knight who gathered it in on the 5 and whirled and spun to the goal line. Hopp's placement was squarely between the uprights and the score stood at 7 to 0.

Vincent punts.

Highspot of the early minutes of the second half was Jack Vincent's quick kick which traveled 70 yards from the line of scrimmage and rolled out 3 inches from the Yale goal line. This put the blue shirts back on their heels and set up Harvard's chance for a field goal from the 33 yard line. Francis' boot was wide however and Yale took the ball on the 20.

Both second teams came in at this point and another nip and tuck battle was on. Harvard got the ball on a punt on the 50 yard line and started for the tying score. Porter advanced the pigskin to the 33 yard marker in two plays and then to the 23. Here on a fumble Porter picked the ball up and flipped a long one to Willard Bunker for the score. Hermie Rohrig, clad in his longie warmup with only football shoes as regulation equipment, entered the game long enough to tie the ball game.

Alfson grabs fumble.

Wonders did not stop here, however, as in the final period Warren Alfson, sturdy and surprisingly fleet guard picked up Teammate Luther's fumble on Yale's 45 yard line and ran to the 26 before being dragged down by sheer numbers. Luther and Vincent combined to get the ball to the 10 from where Vike Francis split the uprights for the winning points.

Bob Ramey leading Harvard center was injured early in the first quarter receiving a wrenched shoulder and possibly a broken rib.
