Husker athletic talent is found at ag college

Nebraska's agricultural college campus has been the home of numbers of Cornhusker athletes thruout the school's entire history.

Among the more recent star performers have been Chris Mathis, the Mighty Mite from Tecumseh, Hugh Rhea, all-American tackle and shot putter de luxe, and big Ted Doyle, tackle on Biff Jones' 1937 team.

On the 1938 football team was end Fred Preston.

Don Fitz, star sophomore guard on the basketball team, is enrolled in ag college.

Trackmen Al Kuper of Superior, Jim Dixon of Blair and LeRoy Walker of Huskers come from the Holdrege st. campus, as does wrestler Paul Fidler.

Among the promising frosh gridgers are Howard Zorn, of Dalton, prominent in ag judging contests; Wayne Biue, fullback corner, and Ed Schwartzkopf, guard star.

Then, too, Ag students alone would make up more than half of Wilbur Knight's baseball team, if he had only nine men. Vernon Thomsen, Oscar Tetmeier, Lloyd Schmadeke, Del Harris, and Bernie LeMaster all hail from the Holdrege street campus.

Breuer interviews Bull on question of slinging it

By Stanley Breuer.

Hurrah for the Red, White and Bull!

Crop judging teams, hog judging teams, cattle judging teams, teams to judge the judging teams, but nary a judging team to judge bull slingin' teams. This is the dire state of stagnation the ag college has allowed to develop, we discovered when we descended on the campus yesterday morning.

Bull, Webster claims, is a grotesque blunder in language; a statement containing a hidden incongruity of ideas. Matador, he says, is the man appointed to throw the bull. He is right, thus far, but he makes his first mistake when he says that most of the world's bull slagin' is done in Mexico and Spain.

Profs sling it.

But right here on the ag campus as well as the city campus with which we are more familiar, professors have managed for years to throw the bull with the aid of—not a single matador, not even a lurking torreador—merely a well placed cuspidor.

In thousands of drugstores, barber shops and fraternity houses from one world's fair to the other the pore ole bull gets slung around day in and day out. How must it feel to be so maltreated, we wondered. So we sauntered over to a bull that was standing in one of the barns smelling something that didn't smell much like flowers.

"Hullo, Bull."

"Hullo," said the bull, pulling out his watch. It was a Bullova.

"What's your name?" we asked.

"Abdul-a-bul-bul Bull," said the bull.

"How does it feel to get slung around all day by students?"

"Huh?" said the bull.

Pull the bull.

We thought he was just pulling the bull over our eyes, so we asked one of the publicity men for the Farmer's Fair if it didn't cause the bulls to lose their self respect to be treated in such a manner.

"Oh, once a year the accepted order of things is reversed, and the bulls get a chance to throw the students at the Farmer's Fair rodeo. Six big acts, dinner, four concessions, all for only—"

We left before he sold us a ticket.

The idea of this boloney was to get yo acquainted with sling' the bull, even if you've never heard any, you've just read some.

As I See It by June Bierbower

That win of Bob Simmons' in the 440 hurdle event at Drake is more than a little over which to crow. Bob's winning time, 53.5, was but three-tenths of a second off the Drake record, and when the fact that the first time Simmons ever ran the event was in the qualifying heat is take into consideration, it's all the more brilliant.

And, did you notice Ed Wibbel's new record in the discuss came two years—or exactly 154 weeks from the day at Kearney when as a senior in high school he set his interscholastic record of 154-9?

Boyd Brown, Oregon U.'s thumbless javelin thrower, has done 231 feet in that event . . . and speaking of javelin throwers, the 210-2 toss which Freshman Herb Grote of the Huskers made the other day, makes one more good old next year hope for Nebraska . . . it wasn't any lucky toss, because Grote had marks of 207 and 209 feet the same day . . . Notice Iowa State is a bit more prosaic than the Huskers . . . their teams for spring practice were just Reds and Blues . . . The Reds won the final game 6-0 . . . also notice the heretofore dormant Jayhawks did an about-face and downed Iowa State in the first of their 2-game baseball series this weekend.

Elmer Hackney, we notice, did even better yesterday in the Colorado relays than he did against the Huskers Wednesday. The Oberlin strong man got a 53-5 1/2 mark in shot, the best toss of his career. Bill Watson of Michigan, who had slightly over 5 feet last Saturday, broke the Benn relays record yesterday, but had to be satisfied with a 52-9 1/2 mark. Incidentally, Hackney's Colorado record broke the old one by more than six feet.

Tennis team gets 3-3 tie against Ames

Each team wins one doubles, two singles matches in deadlock

Nebraska's tennis team met their second opponent of the season Friday and came out with their second 3-3 tie, as they deadlocked with Iowa State.

Each team won two singles and one doubles match. In the battle between the No. 1 men, Harold Rundle of the Huskers eased thru Don Beresford, 6-2, 6-2.

Schulz wins.

Bruce Griffing, No. 2 for the Iowa Staters, beat Irv Kuklin of the Huskers, 6-3, 6-2; Joe Martin, No. 3 for Ames had to go three sets to beat Jim Hensworth, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4. Don Schulz dumped Bob Menze, 6-3, 6-2 in the No. 4 battle to give Nebraska their even break in singles day.

Staters Beresford and Griffing beat Rundle and Kuklin, 7-5, 4-6, 8-6 in one double's match, but Will Reedy, who played only in the doubles for Nebraska, paired up with Hensworth to beat Menze and Martin, 5-7, 6-1, 9-7.

The Ames team left after the meet for Manhattan, where they played Kansas State yesterday. Monday, May 8, the Huskers will play the Wildcats at Manhattan, moving to Lawrence Tuesday to meet K. U.

beauty, which are the vogue of late, are no good. Look what they have done to my complexion!"

I agreed with him and then listened to him tell a long tale of woe concerning a pig's life. In fact, I became so interested and sympathetic that I passed up pork loin at the table, last night.

Ah, 'twas a great day. Spring was in the air. I could smell it, especially around the cow barns.

proached a goat for a statement. He said, "I'm the goat around this place. Can you imagine them fellows using me for experiments? Just how would you like to have an electric milker turned loose on you five times a day? I tell you, I'm so dry that I've been made a member of the Women's Temperance union, four times this month!"

Not wishing to be disheartened further, I turned and dived into the nearest mire for an exclusive with a pig. The fellow was very talkative. "I have a word for the women of the world," he firmly grunted. "The mud baths for
