

New counselors meet at 5 today

Mass meeting set for Ellen Smith hall

A mass meeting of all newly initiated Coed Counselors, marking the beginning of an activity program to be carried on by that group, will be held this evening at 5 o'clock in Ellen Smith hall. Tonight's meeting will be conducted by the Coed counselor board.

Purpose of this evening's meeting is to divide the 120 newly initiated counselors into 10 working groups. Work of each group will be directed by a member of the board. Meetings of the individual groups will be held next week.

First on the list of jobs to be undertaken by the new counselors will be the writing of letters to all women planning to enter the university as freshmen next fall. Following the opening of school, the counselors will undertake the job of orienting all freshman women.

university legislative reference bureau. From the 24 seniors that graduated with the class, 12 of the 15 still living are expected to be here.

Special breakfast for '99'ers.

The class of 1899 will feature a special breakfast in the Union at 8 o'clock the morning of June 5. Heading the class are Judge E. B. Perry, president; Mrs. C. O. Bruce, secretary; and an anniversary committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Congdon, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Mumford, and Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Cramb.

With a general reunion at the Sunday morning breakfast June 5, the class of 1919 roundup will be arranged by Dwight Kirsch, chairman of the fine arts department; Alice Marie Von Bergen, chairman of the women's division of the chamber of commerce, and Judge H. M. Johnson, associate justice of the supreme court.

Bizads will reunite.

Celebrating the 20th anniversary of its founding in 1919, the College of Business Administration holds its reunion under the sponsorship of J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college. The committee on arrangements includes C. D. Spangler and G. M. Darlington, assistant professors of economics, and A. G. Wilson.

All reservations should be mailed to E. F. DuTeau at the alumni office at once, in order that proper arrangements may be made. The alumni office promises its co-operation to any class wishing to hold special meetings.

Frank Baldwin, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, commencement speaker this year, will be among those attending the luncheon.

vey division will deliver the opening academy address.

At the annual dinner program of the academy Friday evening in the Union, guest speakers will be Dr. H. R. James of Hastings college, retiring president of the academy, and Dr. G. D. Stoddard of the University of Iowa.

Saturday will be devoted to sectional meetings when the separate organizations will meet. New to the program this year is a symposium on problems of the chemistry teacher which has been arranged by Dr. E. R. Washburn of the university chemistry department. Thompson M. Stout will be in charge of a round table which will discuss the state museum's research on early man in Nebraska.

Four hundred psychologists are expected to represent 29 states at the Midwestern Psychological association convention. This program will start at 9:30 Friday morning in the Union.

Commemoration dinner.

The association will join with the university Friday evening in a commemoration dinner for the 50th anniversary of the founding of the university psychology laboratory by Dr. Harry Kirke Wolfe. Toastmaster will be Dr. A. G. Bills of the University of Cincinnati; Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the bizad college will offer the address of welcome, and Dr. W. B. Pillsbury of the University of Michigan and a Nebraska graduate will deliver the banquet address.

One of the headline speakers at psychologists' meet will be Dr. Karl Buhler, formerly of the University of Vienna, who is president of the 1940 International Congress of Psychology. Dr. Buhler will address a public meeting in the Union ballroom Saturday afternoon on the subject, "The Orientation of Organisms in Time and Place."

Dr. Buhler was one of the scientists imprisoned when the nazis took over Austria. Thru the influence of the American psychologists he was liberated and allowed to come to the United States where he is now on the teaching staff of Saint Scholastica college, Duluth.

Numerous notables.

Among other notables coming for the convention are Dr. R. H. Wheeler of the University of Kansas, an authority in human psychology; Dr. L. L. Thirstone, University of Chicago; Dr. E. K. Culler of Rochester university, and Dr. W. N. Kellogg of the University of Indiana.

The Missouri valley branch of the Society of American Bacteriologists will convene Saturday in Bessey where Dr. I. L. Baldwin, assistant dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, will be the principal guest speaker. He will deliver an address Saturday evening at the annual banquet of the group at the Union.

Twelve scientific papers will be read at the sessions by delegates from the Nebraska university, Nebraska College of Medicine, University of Kansas, Kansas State and Kansas State Teachers college. Nebraska will be represented by C. E. Georgi, J. M. Ettinger, G. B. Robbins, Keith H. Lewis, J. D. LeMar and M. F. Gunderson.

Tassels must wear their uniforms today for the sale of Rubinoff tickets.

Music students to present recital

Alma Wagner pupils give program tonight

A wide variety of numbers will be featured, including three which use flute obligatos by Don Hartman. Antonette Skoda, Betty Reese, Janet Regnier, Martha McGee, Ruth Brokaw and Gail Ferguson will be heard in three sextette numbers, and accompanists will be Ruth Brokaw, Frank Cunkle, Betty Jo Koehler and Margaret Lindgren.

Beauty--

May Queen and her Ag Goddess, but never before has there been such a concerted effort to recognize the pulchritude rampant on the campus.

Aiding speculation on the identity of the six Beauty Queens is the fact that Mr. Carroll is known for his preference of the ingenious type of beauty with regular features and lack of sophistication.

He has based his selections on photographic portraits of each candidate, made a local studio, and candid snapshots taken by a yearbook camera man, Bob Sandberg. Further aiding in the final choices were specific measurements of each entry and a short, self estimate of her personality written by each candidate.

At 10 o'clock, during the ball, Max Horn, business manager of the yearbook, will mount the ballroom stage and call for silence. In the expectant hush, he will then announce the names of the six Cornhusker Beauty Queens for 1939 and ask them to step up to the platform. The Queens will be as much surprised as anyone else. On the stage, they will be presented to the applauding crowd. Pat Lahr, editor of the annual, promises that "something unusual" is in store for those attending the Ball of Beauty.

In the previous years, the Beauty Queens have not been announced until the issuance of the Cornhusker. The new method will give the students a preview, as well as adding to the already full social life of the campus. Admission is 25 cents a person.

The 1939 Beauty Queen candidates are:

Marcia Beckman, unaffiliated.

German student to address club

Werner Buch describes experiences tonight

Werner Buch, German exchange student studying architecture at the university, will address the German club at 7:30 o'clock this evening in social sciences auditorium.

Having seen in his year of residence in the United States the customs of the Americans, the German student will compare the educational facilities as well as the student life of the two countries. W. J. Weiersheuser, instructor in German, will preside and introduce Buch.

Additional entertainment will consist of pieces played by a German band and of folk songs sung by the group. All speaking will be in the German tongue.

Nu-Meds will hold their last banquet of the year Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. in the Union. Dr. H. H. Marvin, physics department, is speaker. The election of the spring class of Theta Nu is to be held.
