

Mingling With Marg

Bright and blooming is the most exciting day of the year for us at Nebraska . . . and all of you kiddies try your best to keep your white shoes clean, your linens pressed, your very best tenor or soprano under control, your politicians out in the front lines and takes your date to Rubinoff tonight . . . last night the Beauty Queen ball was the big thing in social excitement and congratulations to Alice Holmes, Beth Howley, Pat Reitz, Mep Wagner, Hope Drummond, Betty Mallo, Doris Harberg, and Bettie Cox . . . saw Don Anderson, Sigma Chi, with Chi O Dorothy Wear . . . for the year's most "revealing" party, it was a knockout . . . and also last night was the big Vincent Lopez dance at the Turnpike . . . lots of the kiddies went there for their 12:30 night fun and to celebrate today's vacation . . . saw Chi Phi Kenneth Teich and Delta Gamma Mary Jean Trowbridge, ATO Evelle Younger and Kappa BJ Hopewell—and lots of others . . . and to give you a bit of the dope on the latest un-pinning, or nearly so . . . it's Tri Delta Mary Gayer and DU Sam Royal—who no longer agree that they're the only ones for each other . . . and that's that for today—the big news will come tomorrow.

Open house--

where the speaker will be able to see his own voice are also calculated to draw interest.

Architectural engineers will come out of their Temple quarters and set up an exhibit called "A Design for Modern Living" in the campus studio. Here a miniature of the contemporary home will be on display along with a series of posters illustrating the development of housing from earliest times. An exhibition of some of the drawing and other work done by students in the department of architecture during the past year will also be shown.

Hydro model on display.

Spectators who have read about the hydro power controversy now going on in the state will have an opportunity to see a portion of that hydroelectric system when they visit the working model being built by the civil engineers. Other exhibits being staged by the civil engineers include a section of a superhighway grade crossing and an exhibit dealing with the forces of terrestrial magnetism.

Model bridges of all types used in military maneuvers will constitute the main attraction of the exhibit staged by the military engineers. Live chickens will be cared for by an electric brooder being prepared by the agricultural engineers.

One of the highlights of the mechanical engineers' display will be the demonstration of the stroboscope, a machine which makes moving parts appear as tho they were standing still. A photomicrograph exhibit in which the visitor may see the structural details of different types of metal and the operation of the woodworking lab

Foundry model demonstration.

Members of the chemical engineering department will exhibit a model iron foundry, and will present a thermite demonstration. The model foundry display will show the processes which the iron passes thru from the time it leaves the mine until it is turned out the finished product.

In addition approximately 40 other displays will be featured including William McConnell's collection of model engines, a 30 year old steam automobile motor, and a teletype machine. Several of the departments are planning to give visitors souvenirs, made by students working on the exhibit.

a social intelligence."

"University has two services."

"We can say that the university has two main services to render to its students. These two services are the teaching of a curriculum of facts and the teaching of a social intelligence.

"This last duty falls principally to the Union. We are doing this thru book nooks, art exhibits, speakers, etc., all of which will help the student to become creatively intelligent; we are doing this thru varied music programs, and other such instructive entertainments which will cause the student to have an intelligent appreciation; and finally, we are doing this by giving to the student a practical intelligence thru meetings and activities. However, our efforts cannot be successful unless every student in the university is willing to participate in these things."

Every student part of Union.

Van Sant especially stressed the point that each and every student should realize that he is a part of the Union and that all activities sponsored under the Union are really sponsored by the students themselves with their money. "The officials of the Union do not control it. They are merely employees working for every student who makes up the Union," he said.

During the past year, the building has been the social and recreational center of the campus. Its spacious lounges, provide the meeting places of the campus. The nucleus of campus activities it houses the offices of leading university organizations and publications. It employs over 150 students and maintains a non-profit cafeteria and grill. ### Kentucky union emphasizes art

Board sponsors one-man art exhibits

LEXINGTON, Ky. (IP). A student governing body with an innate appreciation of the finer things in life is operating the new Student Union building at the University of Kentucky. The arts committee at the Student Union, composed entirely of students, with two faculty advisers from the university's department of art, is sponsoring a series of one man art exhibits in the music room of the building.

The arts committee of the Student Union association handles everything pertaining to the shows, from contacting the artist, to hanging the pictures, packing and shipping them for return, and the attendant publicity.
