

Mingling With Marg

And so we've passed by Ivy Day—just as exciting and full of suspense as always—and leaving everyone filled with oh's and ah's with its pride, its beauty, and its surprises . . . and to all of you exuberant but mighty tired new Innocents and Mortar Boards, congratulations . . . Orchids (or ivy) too, go to the May Queen, Virginia Nolte, and all of her attendants . . . and the humor of the day came when Grant Thomas and Bill Kovanda, two husky brutes, came to plant the anemic ivy plant—all of which had the crowd in an uproar . . . the tea dance was the relaxation for all, and the orchestra went over big . . . stepping it up there were ATO Bill Wahl and Delta Gamma Evelyn Young; Chi Omega Dixie Davis and Werner Buch, Phi Psi's German exchange student; Alpha Phi Ruth Winkler and ATO Dave Thompson; Sigma Chi Al Lefferdink and Theta Louise Mackay; Chiz McCuiston and Tri Delta Olive Speith—and scads of others . . . whipping around together all the rest of the afternoon were Beta John Stoddard and Theta Betty O'Shea; Pi Phi Betty Ohme and DU Carl Norden; Kappa Marj Runyan and Beta George Souders; Pi Phi Ev Leavitt and DU Bill Lyman (happy birthday, Bill) . . . and to retrace our steps a bit and back to Wednesday night to the "Lopez speaking" dance . . . there were Sigma Nu Curt Ralston and Alpha Phi

Musical sorority plans Sunday tea

Mu Phi Epsilon climax season at affair May 7

Under the direction of a newly elected staff of Frances Platt, president, June Meek, vice-president, Milada Dolzal, secretary-treasurer, and Mildred Gergen, corresponding secretary, Mu Phi Epsilon, national music honorary, plans to climax its season with a tea Sunday afternoon at Ellen Smith hall.

With arrangements being made by Carolyn Kennedy, the program will consist of selections played by June Meek, cellist, Milada Dolzal, pianist, and Eleanor Thomas vocalist.

Officiating at the gala affair will be Elizabeth Tierney and Mrs. Frank Throop, in charge of the tea tables, and Mrs. F. M. Fling, Mrs. DeWitt J. Barber, Mrs. J. V. Dennison and Frances Platt in the reception line.

Husker - -

affair is conceded to be a tossup with any team being given a chance to come thru with top honors.

Hackney out for new mark.

Hackney, who had a mark of 54-1½ in last Saturday's Colorado Relays, will be gunning for a new meet mark in the shot. The present mark is held by Sam Francis, who got 52-11 inches two years ago in his sweat pants.

Ed Wibbels, of the Huskers, who got 158.29 for a new Drake Relays record in the discus last Saturday, will be favored to break another of Francis' records—148-11 which he also set two years ago.

The pole vault and high jump records, held by Noble and Shannon respectively of Kansas, are in danger from another pair of Kansans, Don Bird and Bob Stollard. The pole vault mark, 13-1½, should be easy pickings for Bird, while Stollard has exceeded the 6-2½ mark in the high jump several times.

Mitchell threatens record.

Don Landon of Kansas State set the two mile record in 9:39.1 five years ago, but Charley Mitchell, Big Six two mile champion has bettered that mark. Ray Harris, Kansas U. miler, did a 4:15 mile at Drake last Saturday, and has a chance to break Glenn Cunningham's record of 4:17.4.

Jack Dodd and Bob Kahler will not make the trip for the Huskers. Dodd is at home this week end, and Kahler is still bothered with a bad knee he picked up in football practice.

Nebraska entries: Mile—Delman Moore, John Brownlee; 440—Elwood Pankonin, Bob Simmons, Bob Morris; 100—Bob Chatt, Lloyd Wright; high hurdles—Frank Tallman, Ralph Worden; 880—Al Kuper, Richard Deila, Brownlee, Paul Owen; 220—LeRoy Walker, Moore; low hurdles—Simmons, Worden, Tallman; mile relay—Simmons, Pankonin, Kuper, Dawson, Morris; pole vault—Bob Neumann, Ted Legate, Harold Scott; high jump—Tallman; javelin—Tallman, Bus Knight, Elmer Wibbels; shot—Bob Mills, Raymond Prochaska; discus—Mills, Wibbels, Prochaska; broad jump—Neumann, Scott, Dawson.

Frank P. Crum is associated with the New York Life Insurance Co. at its St. Joseph, Mo., office.

'Swing will live on; nothing can take its place,' declares Rubinoff

By Stanley Breuer.

His right hand holding a half eaten hard roll and his left clutching his $100,000 Stradivarius, Dave Rubinoff told a small group in Kenneth Van Sant's office yesterday that "university groups are more cultured than adult audiences," and that "swing is here to stay."

"Swing is alive," he said, enthusiastically, "it is more practical than jazz or ragtime. It will live on, for there is nothing that can take its place. Everyone likes it. Anybody that says he doesn't, just won't admit it." But when it came to the swinging of classical pieces, Rubinoff shook his head. "It's ridiculous. There are plenty of modern pieces that can be swung—beautifully."

Violinist unsophisticated.

The hard roll he was eating he brought from the side pocket of his coat to show how hungry he was. It may have been a gag, but it was certainly in keeping with the rest of his personality. He was carelessly dressed. His hair was blown from the auto drive from Omaha in a magnificent sport phaeton. After the interview, someone remarked "He's as common as an old shoe!"

"Sure, university students appreciate good music better than an older audience. What is the use of denying it? They are more cultured." That is one of the reasons he likes the tour he is now making. Recalling the time, three years ago, when he played to 150,000 people in an outdoor amphitheatre in Chicago, he grimaced and said, "Such places are made for circuses."

Plays what audience wants.

"If I played what I wanted, I wouldn't eat," said the maestro when asked how he decided what to give his audiences. "When I go into a restaurant, I order what I want. When I play at home, I play what I want. But when I play a concert, I play what the audience wants."

By way of relaxation from practicing (which he says he knows he should do several hours a day), Rubinoff takes pictures. He has wanted for a long time to learn to do his own developing, but doesn't have time or facilities while on the road.

Tells of his pupils.

He tenderly expressed his sympathy for an ex-student of his, band leader Artie Shaw, who lies sick in a New York hospital. He spoke modestly about other students of his, Benny Goodman, who studied under him five years and Tommy Dorsey for seven. "The boys are doing swell," he smiled, "maybe better than I am."

He walked around the Student Union and looked into the ballroom. "It's wonderful. This would be a perfect place to dance." He said that he plans to return to radio on the completion of the tour, "after a rest."

To watch the "Strad."

With him were a mysterious Mr. Brown, whose sole duty it is to keep track of the Strad and his brother-manager, Phil Rubinoff, who did quite a little off-the-record chatting with an attractive young lady interviewer.

One of the bystanders whispered, "Why, he's just an ordinary person." And that's what he is—an ordinary person with a great musical soul and a truly great personality.

Methodist council schedules retreat

To lay plans for next year over week-end

The newly selected officers and committee chairmen of the Methodist Student council together with the students they succeed will hold their annual retreat at Horky's park this week end to launch plans for the coming year. Rev. Robert E. Drew, student pastor, will council with the group.

Committee chairmen who have been appointed to the council are: deputations, John Norall; world friendship, Dick May; publicity director, Dorothy White; co-editors of the Wesley Circuit Rider, Methodist student paper, Phyllis Olson and Bill Eberline; social, Charmian Bloom; worship, Frank Hallgren; library, Patricia Jackson; conferences and institutes, Lucille Soderholm; representative on the district Epworth League cabinet, Verna Umberger, and representatives on the Religious Welfare Council, Eva Mae Cromwell and Arnold Pittman.

Cars will leave for the retreat at 2 and 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Gamma Lambda elects Don Anderson president

Don Anderson was elected president, Willis Skrdla vice president, and Dale Bergquist secretary-treasurer of Gamma Lambda, honorary band fraternity, at a regular meeting Wednesday evening.

A convention of all Texas college twins will be held at Baylor university this month.
