Organization of medical alumni grows

More than 30 grads send in dues, blanks to Secretary DuTeau

More than 30 college of medicine alumni have sent in dues and entrance blanks for membership in the recently consolidated Omaha-Lincoln alumni associations, according to Ellsworth DuTeau, secretary of the parent association.

Following the medical alumni meeting in Grand Island May 2, to which came DuTeau, Dean Charles W. M. Poynter, head of the Omaha college, and Dr. A. E. Bennett, prominent alumnus of Omaha, all backers of the proposed consolidation, an enthusiastic campaign has developed.

Enthusiastic response.

Over 1,700 membership invitations are being mailed out at the rate of 80 a day to the Omaha medical grads both in America and abroad. "Returns are coming in" DuTeau explained, "in every mail, all alumni seeming enthusiastic about the new program. A special section has been entered in the Nebraska Alumnus, and news letters may be mailed out to the new alumni members next year."

Formerly having rather poor organizations, backed only by such donations as beneficent members of their group, would give, the activities of the medical men were limited to an annual meeting as part of the state medical convention, and the maintenance of an alumni file at Poynter's office.

Common organization.

"For the first time in the history of the two colleges," DuTeau explained, "a common organization will weld the activities of the two colleges together. With most of the graduates of the medical school also three year men at Nebraska university, there is a natural tie which should help to promote interest in the new organization."

FISH FINALE

A DePauw university alumnus has gulped 5,000 goldfish to end all such contests in the future. He did it at a goldfish hatchery, where tiny goldfish come at least 5,000 to the cup of water.

And that (we hope) is that!

Coeds offered jobs in contest

chestra will feature several outstanding student soloists: Houghton Furr, pianist, Henry Brahinsky and Margaret Porter, violinists, and Don Hartman, flutist.

Topping the numbers will be a newly composed "Partita," by the prominent American composer, Paul Creston. Creston was induced by Lentz to write a double concerto for flute and violin, and the "Partita," written in 1937, is the result. Mr. Creston, who is organist at St. Malachy's off Broadway, New York, has been given one of the Guggenheim awards in composition for the past two years. His works have been performed by leading orchestras in the east this past winter. Don Hartman, flutist, and Margaret Porter, violinist, will play the solo instruments in this number.

Brahinsky to play violin.

Henry Brahinsky will be heard in a complete concerto for violin, written by Karl Goldmark. This concerto is one of the composer's best known works and was first introduced by Sarasate. The so-called "Unfinished Symphony," by Franz Schubert, will be played by the orchestra. The term "Unfinished" has been given to this work because only two complete movements were given.

Dean Thompson talks on college entry problems

Use the "common sense approach," Dean T. J. Thompson urged in discussing college entrance problems before parents of high school seniors sponsored by Nebraska and Omaha universities at the University of Omaha auditorium Wednesday evening.

To help students in choosing a college and a course, "parents and college advisers must poll their knowledge about the boy or girl," he pointed out. An important part of the college program, he said, is in giving the students experience in deciding what to study next.

Actors stage frolic night

Burlesques highlight department program

Two hundred students attended the annual "fun and frolic night" sponsored Thursday evening by the speech and dramatics department of the university, and took part in satirical burlesques of scenes from the six leading productions staged by the University Players during the past season.

Outstanding on the program was the funeral procession accompanying the burial of out-moded books formerly used in the department. Revamped lines from Mark Antony's funeral oration were used to accomplish the burial of the books.

The vein of the evening's proceedings carried into the presentation of "Oscars" patterned after the Motion Picture academy awards. Grace Hill received one for being the season's "star clothes-horse." Another of the "Oscars" went to Richard Rider, staff member of the department, for being able "to go the longest without a haircut." Almost 20 other awards were given for such accomplishments as most imperfect diction, poorest class attendance and hitting a new low in acting.

Refreshments followed the entertainment features.

Ag college plans for political rally

Candidates to greet student voters Monday

The Ag College Executive Board announces plans for an ag college campus political rally and caucus to be held at 5 o'clock Monday in the assembly room of Ag Hall. All students who intend to be candidates for ag college elective positions should be present, according to the committee arranging the meeting. Iris Johnson is chairman of this committee. Other members are Annabelle Hutchinson, George Goodman, Milton Gustafson and I. F. Hathaway, faculty sponsor.

All ag college students are urged by the committee to come to this meeting as the candidates will be introduced to the student body.

Barbs stage pre-election rally dance this evening

Last barb dance of the semester will be held tonight from 7:30 to 10:30 in the Union ballroom. Barb candidates for election will appear on the platform. Admission to the dance is 10 cents.

Rapid Romeos receive jolting advice on etiquette from KU men

Etiquet for college men got a thorough going over by a group of University of Kansas boys whose book on the subject, "Manners for Men," is now in its third printing, filled with pertinent pointers on driving, dating, dressing and dancing.

Published by the KU Witan club, whose 30 college members wrote the book last year as a Christmas gift for their high school brothers, the manual sets down rules for motoring that "should be posted in every automobile."

"You can't drive with your horn. It does nothing but makes noise." "Another tip for the wise! Cars don't run on mothballs and water. If you are in the habit of riding with a close friend on dates or to work, and don't return the rides, you can't go wrong by offering to buy the gas occasionally."

As to dating, the Witan boys, after telling a man how to behave when he gets the girl, takes her to a dance, and dances with her, say: "Then take her home. Necking is poor taste. So is trying to."

Mow whiskers daily.

"As for whiskers, remember they are to be shaved off. No lady enjoys gazing on a stubble that resembles last year's corn field." Included in the appendix is a list of "Nineteen Things I Wish I Had Known Before I Was Twenty-one."

After the original issue had been sold out, Witan ordered an extra 500 copies and was soon forced to order another 1,000. The superintendent of schools in Kansas City has ordered one book for each of the school libraries in the city.

Gals institute reform.

Campus Casanovas at the University of New Mexico have been given their orders in the etiquette realm by the Albuquerque coeds, who have formed the "Rehabilitation Project on Rapid Romeo Reform," in order to enforce the rules.

They listed 12 points as being detrimental to masculine appeal:

Failing to remember that only crude country lads sit in the car and honk the horn instead of coming to the door like a gentleman, when calling for a date.

Forever bragging about how he never cracked a book, and how he can polish the apple and still manage to pull down an "A" in a course.

Making an effort to impress everyone with the importance of the fact that he and his prof. are old pals.
