

Fashion Forecasts
for the Frolicking Femme

The old dmerry-go-round is starting up again, kids, to the tune of a school bell, so don your spurs and hold on tight. A tip to the teens from one in her twenties is that the ride won't be nearly so rough nor the horse so tough if you come to college confidently dressed. There's really a point of psychology in my theory though, for when a gal feels confident that she is putting forth a good appearance, she can devote her thoughts to higher learning and things. Tradition has been kind on papa's pocketbook where college clothes are concerned. A good basic suit with a skirt that will play better half to a collection of sweaters is the bulk of a coed's wardrobe.

I've had an eagle eye out for just such college clothes and what I found at GOLD'S will thrill you. They have a grand lot of suits, including dressmakers and black velveteens. Or, if you prefer to match your own jacket and skirt, the task will be easy at GOLD'S with their large selection of new wool sportswear. The "jackets" which have recently featured so popular, stand out as new and chic. However, the fitted plaid jacket is still going strong.

By the way, when I was in GOLD'S store, I wandered into the MILLINERY SHOP and got all enthused over their new hats. The clerk told me that the buyer was in New York selecting the latest of late in hats which will be coming in this week, so don't fail to drop in to the department soon to inspect them.

With all the tramping around you kiddies are going to be doing from now on, you better be taking out some insurance on your feet and the best kind I know of is furnished by CULVER SHOE STORE, 131 So. 13. "Foot Rest" shoes are made available to you by this store. They combine comfort with the latest in style, making them a grand investment. Their slogan is "Your face reflects the comfort of Foot Rests," and I might add, "Foot Rests" reflect the stylishness of the wearer. They're really a perfect combination of fit and fashion for a frolicking femme.

After the sensation Wayne King caused last weekend, you don't have to be told that the TURNPIKE is still THE place to go for dancing. And if you got the bang out of your last visit that you should have, you will be returning this Friday to enjoy Blue Barron and his fifteen musicians who are coming direct from a five months engagement at the Hotel Edison in New York City. Ronnie Snyder, the boy who whistles with his mouth wide open, is due to be quite a unique attraction. However, "music of yesterday and today played in the Blue Barron way" is enough said to make you want to dance. Floyd Rayburn and his popular dance band will be playing at the Turnpike Saturday and Sunday.

Whether you plan to spend your evenings studying or gadding about, you won't feel like doing those glossy locks up in curlers every night so save yourself the thought. Just swish right down to BEN YOUR HAIRDRESSER at 211 So. 13th Street and put yourself into competent hands. They will give you a head of curls to crow over. And they're so fussy about the exact solution for your particular type of hair that you are sure of a natural-looking curl. Permanents cost from $5.00 to $10.00 and no matter what the amount, you will feel it is well invested if it is a permanent from BEN YOUR HAIRDRESSER.

If you are one of the many who prefer a sport dress to the two piece suit for campus wear, I dare you to go through BEN SIMON'S Junior Miss Shop without selecting one or more of their typically "college" frocks. A little shirtwaist number with plaid top, black flared skirt and a regular "Cowboy Joe" red leather belt studded with nailheads would be the pride and joy of any coed.

You may be ever so intent on fashions, but sooner or later you're going to think of food. You know where everyone goes when they get that feeling?—THE PASTRY SHOP at Hotel Cornhusker, of course, where everybody goes to meet everybody. Here fashion has been flaunting for many a day now, what with rush parties and freshie coeds around, but don't think that the PASTRY SHOP relies on its college crowd prestige for business cause the food will always speak for itself—it's marvelous.

Instructors plan opening get-together

Annual Chancellor's reception, open house at 8 p. m. tomorrow

To give the faculty members a chance to become better acquainted with the new members of the instructional staff, several social events have been added to the university calendar to take place during the next few weeks.

First social event for faculty members and the student body will be held in the Union tomorrow night at 8 p. m. when the annual chancellor's reception and Student Union open house will be held.

This event which will give new students their first chance to become acquainted with the many services of the Union, is to be held in honor of the new students. The entire student body has been invited to the affair.

Chancellor receives.

In the receiving line at the reception will be Chancellor and Mrs. C. S. Boucher, and the following faculty deans and their wives: W. W. Burr, college of agriculture; C. H. Oldfather, college of arts and sciences; J. E. LeRossignol, college of business administration; F. E. Henzlik, teacher's college; O. J. Ferguson, college of engineering; R. A. Lyman, college of pharmacy, and the two deans of student affairs, Miss Helen Hosp and T. J. Thompson.

First of the new events scheduled for members of the faculty alone will be a homecoming dinner to be held at the Union next Friday night at 6:30 p. m.

Administrative council sponsors.

Chancellor C. S. Boucher will preside over the program, which is being sponsored by the council of administration. Each dean will introduce the new members of his faculty. All staff members of the rank of assistant instructor and above are invited. Reservations are to be made with the respective deans and directors not later than Wednesday, Sept. 20.

The homecoming dinner, which will be informal, is not for the

Hendricks, Rundle write article for chem journal

Dr. B. Clifford Hendricks of the department of chemistry and Robert E. Rundle of Lincoln, who received his master's degree from the university in 1938, are authors of an article entitled "Mutarotation of Tetramethyl alpha-d-Glucopyranose and Tetramethyl alpha-d-Mannopyranose" which is published in the August issue of the Journal of the American Chemical Society. Rundle is now working for his doctor of philosophy degree at the California Institute of Technology.

entire university family, but is for faculty members only.

Second of the events planned for the instructional staff will be a reception in honor of the new members of the faculty and their families. The reception will be held at the two new women's residences on Oct. 6. Guides will be on hand to show visitors thru the new residences.

Fourth generation enters university

Freshman girl related to law school founder

With the enrollment of Margaret Freeman in the university this fall, the fourth generation of that family will have studied and instructed on this campus.

W. Henry Smith, great grandfather of Margaret, was graduated in the class of '86, seventeen years after the founding of the university, and set up the first Nebraska college of law.

This school, founded as Central college with offices in the academy of music was taken over by the university in 1891, and Smith was made the first dean and president of the new school.

Smith's daughter, the present wife of H. S. Freeman, has a daughter Margaret, mother of the Margaret who is coming to school here this fall.
