

Activity men look to this group of students for fate

Members of the Men's Activity Point board are as follows:

President—Roger Cunningham, president of Innocents.

Vice president—Harold Nieman, editor of the DAILY.

Secretary-treasurer—Arthur Hill, treasurer of the Student Council.

Earl Constable, member of Barb Union.

Roy Proffitt, president of Kosmet Klub.

Ralph Reed, president of Corn Cobs.

Edwin Rousek, member of the ag executive board.

The eighth post, that is reserved for the president of the Interfraternity Council, has been left vacant pending the election of a successor to Merrill Englund, who resigned the presidency.

Two faculty members will be appointed to the board by a faculty committee in the near future.

Weatherly to talk on radio program

Dr. Arthur L. Weatherly's address on Sunday at 11 a. m. at the Unitarian church will be "Union Now." He will also speak on this subject tonight at 7:15 over KFOR.

"Union Now," a book written by Clarence K. Streets, presents a plan to secure peace in our time through a Federation of the more democratic countries, and ultimately a federation of the nations of the world. This book has gone through ten editions in less than one year. It has been translated into French and Swedish, and is now being translated into German and Spanish.

Iowa men students move into recently completed dormitory

No serious housing problem confronts Iowa State college officials this fall with the transfer of 160 students from Alumni hall and Hughes hall to the newly completed $170,000 men's dormitory on the campus.

The new men's dormitory is the second housing structure being put in use for the first time this year. The first was the new women's dormitory, Oak hall, housing 153 women students.

Van Royen to speak

Dr. Van Royen, assistant professor of geography, has been invited to address the high school assemblies of Plattsmouth and Western on the subject of "The Geographical Background of the European Conflict." Professor Van Royen spoke on the same subject before the District 1 and District 2 conventions of the Nebraska State Teachers Association.

A number will be given with each admission, and the holders of the two lucky numbers will each receive a door prize. The main door prize is a secret and will not be revealed until the drawing. The second door prize consists of two theater tickets.

the decisions of the Point board may appeal their cases to the judiciary committee of the Student Council which is the court of last resort.

The present scurry of activity on the part of the board dates, according to a reliable authority, from Wednesday, Nov. 1, when an editorial appeared in the DAILY under the heading, "The Men's Activity Board—It's Overpointed."

The editorial pointed out that the board "hasn't even had its stationery printed" and had made no effort to check on the activity standings of the candidates in the election just now being weathered.

Board gets busy.

Since that time, the board has had a busy time, culminating in the announcement at a meeting yesterday of the "first group" of offenders. A member of the Point board emphasized that these ten men were only the worst offenders, and that names of other overloaded activity men will soon be released.

The unlooked-for activity on the part of the board has resulted in a rush to unload activities on the part of burdened sophomores, juniors and seniors. The outstanding case is that of Merrill Englund, DAILY managing editor, who Tuesday announced his resignation as president of the Interfraternity Council and member of the Point board.

Will shake up activities.

The name of another member of the Point board, Edwin Rousek, appears on the list above credited with 13 points. Rousek was elected vice president of the Corn Cobs Wednesday evening before yesterday's developments.

Amid arguments, one thing stands out clearly. There will be a drastic realignment of the activities on the campus.

The Men's Point Board was established last year under a constitution approved by the Student Council to bring about a more equitable distribution of activities on the campus. It has remained dormant until the present, and it now appears that the "distribution" will leave some organizations short-handed until students as yet safely out of the activity whirl can be drawn into shoulder part of the load.

We have discovered that all smart college women prefer to have interchangeable clothes, rather than a variety of unrelated costumes. With this idea in mind, we have bought dresses, combined with a look of having been made for each other. You can mix or match them and get a variety of styles and colored effects. Every individual fashion has an enviable fit for which Rudge's collection is known. Misses sizes.
