

Huskers poised for Panther kill

NU given even chance to down injury-riddled Pitt; fear Cassiano, potent aerial game

Cornhuskers out for second win in eighteen years; starting lineup probably same as with Kansas

Tomorrow's Nebraska-Pittsburgh football game, 14th in the series of classics between the two teams, may be the contest in which the Huskers break the domination the Panthers have held ever since the first game of the series in 1921.

The 1921 Husker team journeyed to Pittsburgh to play Pop Warner's great team, and the underdog Nebraskans came through to an upset victory. Three games important bid for all-American honors.

Nebraska's starting lineup will be the same as last Saturday. Herman Rohrig probably won't start, but should be sufficiently recovered from a charley horse he suffered against Kansas to play. Alfson has a broken finger, but will play.

Pitt's backfield starters in addition to Cassiano include Emil Narik, best passer in Pitt history; Frank Connell at fullback, and Mike Sekela at quarterback. Edgar Jones, sophomore passing sensation, fills in for Cassiano, while Bob Thurbon who caught Jones' game winning pass against Carnegie Tech, substitutes for Narik.

Bothering Bowser, though is the punting situation. Kish was the team's best kicker, and if Bonelli is out Pitt will have to use Thurbon or a substitute sophomore end John Stahl who hasn't played this year.

Hawkins, Pitt center is reported to weigh only 157. The Panthers have good guards in Klein and Gradisek, and Rettinger is a capable end. Tackle Konetsky may be replaced by Jack Benz, while Kristufek is the other tackle. Only Pitt seniors are Cassiano, Kristufek, Klein and Narik.

since 1921 when the series became an annual affair, have been ties, but Nebraska has never been able to win.

This year it may be different. The game, in the eyes of the nation's grid selectors is rated as a tossup, and some of them are favoring the Huskers because of the injuries which have hit the Panthers. Others are picking Pitt.

Nebraska, after impressive inter-sectional victories over Minnesota and Baylor, hit a mid-season slump, losing to Missouri and barely edging Kansas last week.

However, the Huskers have the stuff and they know it. It's very probable they were "saving up for Pitt" during last week's drab exhibition against Kansas, and with the team in good physical condition, the players are anxious to boot the Panthers.

Job ahead.

There's a job ahead, though, despite the fact that Pitt has already lost two games this season, their team having been riddled first by a policy of football de-emphasis, and secondly by injuries. The injury part, though, was taken with a grain of salt by the Nebraska team, which refuses to believe the Panthers are as bad off physically as press reports indicate.

Ben Kish, who starred here last year, is out for the season with a broken leg. Dick Fullerton, center, was lost to the team after the Fordham game with a brain concussion. John Dickinson, captain and end, is reported out for the year, because of torn ligaments in his knee. Ted Konetsky, tackle, reinjured a knee, and Ernie Bonelli, fullback, suffered two cracked ribs in last week's Carnegie Tech game. It is not certain whether or not they'll be in shape to play tomorrow.

The Panthers are still capable, though. Dick Cassiano is again a shining light in the backfield. Cassiano's brilliant running had the Huskers talking to themselves last year, and he's great again this fall. Dandy Dick has scored six touchdowns, gained 500 yards from scrimmage, and completed 18 of 40 passes for 243 yards. He will be playing his last game on Pittsburgh soil, and making an

Raymond wins tourney

Raymond hall won the soccer baseball tournament last night from Gamma Phi Beta's team, 9 to 3. Barbara Flebbe, Raymond's star pitcher, shone, as did Geraldine Binning, while Helen Kovanda and Mary Ellen McKee starred for the Gamma Phis.

The hall girls also defeated Pi Beta Phi's team No. 2 last night piling up 44 to Pi Phi's 7. The Alpha O Pi's team No. 1 edged Theta out, 22-21.

few offensive maneuvers of their own. The Panthers will have to watch Hermie Rohrig, quite a pitcher in his own right. The round man has completed 18 of 37 passes, three for touchdowns for a total gain of 229 yards. Luther, Hopp, Hermie, DeFruiter, Francis, Rohn, Dobson are all offensive threats if Hermie isn't in top shape.

Probable starting lineups:
Pittsburgh (co-capt.) Seemann
Rettinger R. Kahler
Kristufek E. Schwartzkopf
Klein Burruss
Hawkins Alfson
Gradisek S. Schwartzkopf
Benz Ashburn

Pfeiff's Blues play today against Mill's Whites

Husker fans will get a chance to look over some of the future Nebraska grid stars this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Bill Pfeiff's Blues and Bob Mills'

Whites clash in an annual intra-squad battle.

Lewandowski has designated 52 players for each squad. A full-length game will be played on Memorial Stadium sod with no admission charge. This probably will be the last fray between the two outfits, and photographers from the large state dailies are expected to be on hand.

Juggernauts, Playboys play for title

Barb touch football championship will be settled this afternoon as Hitler's Playboys face the Juggernauts. The Playboys, who won their way into the finals with a 6-0 win over the Commanders, are led by Les Livingston, selected on the DAILY'S all-star intramural touch football team. Don Chalupka is another ace.

The game will be played at 4 o'clock on the fields northwest of the coliseum. The Juggernauts, who copped the title in League 2 early last week, depend on the passing of Don Lynch to John Loisel and Frank Vrtiska.
