

The DAILY NEBRASKAN

By June Bierbower.

Only one senior, Captain Marvin Huffman, was in the Hoosiers' starting lineup against Nebraska Friday night . . . the only other senior who played was Ralph Dorsey, sub forward who got in the game in the last few minutes . . . speak about next year for the Indianans . . . And only one first year man played for Indiana . . . it was John Torphy, who got in near the end of the game . . . their senior team next year should be great . . . Friday's victory was No. 3 of the season for Indiana . . . and for the second game in a row Nebraska made 39 points . . . only this time the opposition made 49 instead of 15.

Dwight Ream of Topeka, Kas., and Parke Carroll of Kansas City, Big Six officials, will be two of the four men who work the Orange bowl game in Miami, Fla., between Missouri and Georgia Tech.

Both Ream and Carroll have often worked Nebraska games. They will represent the Big Six, while B. M. Hackney, of High Point, N. C., and T. G. Kain of Nashville will be the other two officials.

Kain is referee, Ream umpire, Hackney head linesman and Carroll field judge.

The Hoosiers used twelve players, Nebraska eleven . . . six of the Huskers, Held, Goetze, Livingston, Hay, King and Vacanti were sophs, and two, Fitz and Randall are juniors . . . forwards Pitcaithley, Yaffe and Tallman are the seniors who got in . . . and Sid Held turned in a fine performance in his second varsity game . . . Livingston was playing for the Huskers for the first time . . . he didn't get in against South Dakota.

Dave Thompson, former right hand man on this page, who's going to Michigan now, says Michigan's Tom Harmon is one of the most "unconceited" fellows you'd ever expect to see . . . also that Forrest Evashevski, the fellow who clears the way for Harmon, can really mow 'em down as a blocker . . . and that Harmon's the best football player he's ever seen.

Barb basketball entries wanted

Twenty-three clubs listed at IM office

Twenty-three entries have been received for barb basketball by the intramural office, which asks that all other clubs desiring to enter basketball do so this week so that schedules can be ready by the end of vacation.

Entries received thus far are Pied Pipers, Termites, Tappa Kegga, ACBC, 330 Club, Baldwin Hall, Brown Palace, Brown Derbies, Commanders, Cornhusker Coops, ornsellers, Dark Horse.

Dirty Irish, Hoosier Hot Shots, Juggernauts, Johnson Hall, KKK, Stratford, Union Leaders, YMCA, Mustangs, Raymond Hall All Stars, The Barbed Points.

Cardwell takes job with Detroit firm

Lloyd Cardwell, star Nebraska halfback of former years who was named to the professional coaches' all star second team recently, has received and accepted a position with a Detroit metal firm.

Cardy, who plays with the Detroit Lions, will visit in Seward over the holidays with his wife, who also hails from that town.

Cardwell is considered by his coach, Earl "Dutch" Clark, and many others, as the best running back in professional football.

Stastny, Salerno win titles

Get grappling crowns as all-university meet winds up Friday

Dick Stastny, Wilber junior, outwrestled griddler Royal Kahler of Grand Island Friday afternoon to win the heavyweight wrestling title of the university in the all-school wrestling tournament.

Sam Salerno of Omaha beat Don Cuttright of Harlan, Iowa, in the 131 pound finals, getting a fall in 3:38 as he used a half-nelson. Gold medals were awarded to Stastny and Salerno, along with the six other winners. Second place men received silver medals.

The six men who won titles Thursday were: 124 pounds, Dick Terry of Lincoln; 139 pounds, Roy Shaw of Omaha; 145 pounds, George Cackle, Omaha; 155 pounds, Newton Copple, Lincoln; 165 pounds, Floyd Ring, Lincoln; 175 pounds, Art Adams, Lincoln.

From this group Adams and Salerno seem almost assured of varsity berths this year. Both are sophomores.

Rohrig unanimous choice on Sooners' all opponent team

Herman Rohrig, Husker half-back, was the only unanimous choice as Oklahoma's Sooners picked their all-opponent team for 1939. Jack Crain, Texas back, and Don Crumbaker, Kansas State end, won every vote but one as they made the team.

George Seemann and Royal Kahler of the Huskers also made the team, and Northwestern placed three men, also, getting Cutlich at tackle, Method at guard, and Haman at center.

Bob Waidorf, a guard, represented Missouri, Mel Seelye gave Kansas State two men on the team, while Ray Mallouf of Southern Methodist rounded out the backfield.

Coaches to speak

Nebraska U. coaches are busy this week in the speaking league, as Link Lyman, Glenn Presnell, Ed Weir and Ad Lewandowski all speak. Link will be at Broken Bow Monday night, Presnell at Bancroft, and Weir at Omaha. Lewandowski speaks at Blair Tuesday.

Hoosiers' ace center Menke likes Nebraska U girls' looks

By Don Pollock

"Nebraska's coeds are hospitable, but better yet, they are plenty good lookin'," says Bill Menke, Indiana's all Big Ten center.

"Bill Menke, please," I had asked the burly student manager guarding the Hoosiers' dressing room door after Indiana's 49-39 win over Nebraska.

I enter the steamy, hot visitors' dressing room in the Nebraska coliseum. There's plenty of tape, and the smell of liniment, and clothes are lying all over the place.

"Here's Menke now."

From Huntinburg

I tell him I'm a reporter from the school daily in explanation. William "Bill" Menke is a six foot, three inch center from Huntinburg, Indiana, and the dark, good looking lad was fourth in Big Ten scoring last year.

"What college are you in, Bill?"

"I'm a business administration junior," replies the smooth Sigma Chi, cutting off the tape from his thumb.

"Plenty sore," he says, pointing to his swollen hand.

Now comes coach Branch McCracken with the Huskers' coach

W. H. Browne, McCracken says, "How do you do," in a friendly tone, and continues to compliment his boys on their game. Hilarity is lacking. It is easy to see the visitors are seasoned veterans and accustomed to winning games. They won seventeen of twenty engagements last year.

Session in progress

Over in the corner a big session is going on. Herman "Andy Gump" Schaefer is in charge.

Menke says, "Andy is our lady killer. He has a couple on the string now." Sure enough, Schaefer did not have two, but four Nebraska coeds waiting for him after the game.

"He's really got a way when it comes to the women," cuts in lanky Ralph Dorsey from Horse Cave, Kentucky.

I'm now introduced to well-built, muscular Marvin Huffman, captain of the team and brother of the famed all-American halfback.

Naturally, the first question is, "Do you play football?"

Busy with basketball

"Basketball keeps me plenty busy," answers the senior guard in a very definite manner.

Kansas Jayhawks lack height but eight veterans make KU strong title contender

This is the third in a series of articles by Big Six sports writers on basketball prospects at their schools. Jay Simon of the University Daily Kansan discusses the Jayhawks' prospects in today's article.

By Jay Simon.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—The brilliant bunch of high school cagers that Coach "Phog" Allen rounded up two years ago for his Kansas university machine are now seasoned juniors and should be able to tear through the Big Six conference without even shifting gears. But they aren't.

Ralph Miller, the sparkplug who was supposed to ignite the Jayhawkers into a championship frenzy, is again hobbling over the court on his almost legendary football knee. His play is a far cry from that of his high school days when he was hitting the meshes for a 20 point average and causing many critics to stamp him as the greatest prep school cagers of all time.

Besides the lack of a spark to keep his team hitting on all five, Coach Allen is badly in need of height. Johnny Kline is the tallest man on the first two teams and he is only 6 foot 2½. Every other team in the league has at least one player who towers 6 foot 6.

When the Jayhawks face Missouri with its Haskell Tison and Blaine Currence, Nebraska with its Don Fitz, or Oklahoma with its Herb Scheffler they will be out-rebounded badly.

However, things aren't quite as gloomy around Mt. Oread as this would seem to indicate. There are eight lettermen on the squad, three of them rounding out their third campaign. The other five were starters on that brilliant frosh outfit of two years ago.

Chief of the seniors is Dick Harp, team captain and one of the finest sentinels in the circuit. Harp has been tagged "Dead-eye Dick" for his expert marksmanship from far out on the court. He is a ball-dogger of the first water.

Two years ago Harp played regularly in the backcourt with Fred Pralle, the great scoring guard and all conference man for three years. Last season he teamed with Lyman Corrie, who had been transformed from forward to guard and received all conference recognition. Harp should make the grade this year.

The other seniors are Bruce Reid, a fine one-handed scorer and a good passer, and Don Ebling, brother of the great Ray and a crack shot from side court. Don is only 5 foot 11, but one of the best rebounders on the team.

Juniors who are playing their third campaign together are forwards, Howard Engleman and Mil-

Indiana spurts in second half to beat improved Nebraska 49-39; Dro, W. Menke shine

Indiana's Hoosiers won their third game of the season Friday night as they defeated the Huskers 49-39 on the coliseum floor. The improved Nebraskans led the Big Ten team throughout the first half, and for the first four minutes of the second period, but a last half spurt by Branch McCracken's boys put the game away for the visitors.

Frank Tallman, senior forward from Creston, Iowa, opened the scoring with a long basket in the opening minute of the game, but big Bill Menke tied it up a minute later. Pitcaithley got a free throw and the Huskers led throughout the rest of the first half.

Hoosiers miss.

The Brownemen looked a little wild at times in the first half, but cashed in on their shots when the chips were down. The Hoosiers' floor play was outstanding before the intermission, but they didn't find their basket eyes until the second half.

Al Randall cashed in on an overhead basket after Herman Schaefer made a free throw to give the Huskers their biggest lead of the game, 21-16. Bill Menke, Schaefer, Paul Armstrong and Bob Dro went to work from there, though, and with less than seven minutes gone in the second half were ahead 30-23.

Two baskets by Harry Pitcaithley and Les Livingston's free throw brought the score up to 28 to 30, but Armstrong put in two baskets in a row, and the Hoosiers weren't in serious trouble from then on out.

Dro gets sixteen.

Dro, who won high point honors of the night with eight field goals, made three buckets in the last four and a half minutes of play, to bring the Hoosiers' total up to 49. The Indiana team held on to the ball well, and the Huskers only points in the closing minutes coming on Pitcaithley's field goal.

Don Fitz, Jackson high grad, and game captain for the night, did not start but got into the game. He however, was still bothered from the effects of the flu, and was not in shape to stand the pace. The lanky guard's leadership and floor play would have undoubtedly aided the Huskers had he been in good shape.

Pitcaithley has eleven.

Harry Pitcaithley, another Jackson high grad, had four field goals and three free throws to finish as the high scoring Husker.

Indiana put a smooth passing, well drilled team on the floor, the same team which won seventeen of twenty games last year. Bill Menke, ace center, got twelve points for the Hoosiers and Forwards Schaefer and Armstrong got nine and ten respectively. Captain Marvin Huffman looked good while he played, although he went out early in the second half on four fouls.

The freshman Greens beat the Whites in a preliminary game, 38 to 17.

Selma Hill, Tassels' president, presented scrolls to Biff Jones and six of the seven Husker football seniors at half time. Ad Dobson, George Porter, Jack Ashburn, Sam Schwartzkopf, Bob Ramey and Bill Herrmann were presented with their scrolls, as George Seemann was absent.

Coach Charley Miller and nine of his gymnasts took the floor after the presentation of the scrolls, and again gave a fine exhibition.
