Kappa Delta entertains sorority presidents tonight

All sorority presidents will be entertained at dinner tonight by the Kappa Deltas at their chapter house. Other guests will include Dean Helen Hosp and patrons and patronesses of Kappa Delta.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Province Director, Mrs. Mayol H. Linscott, of Kansas City, Mo., will be in Lincoln tomorrow and Saturday for a visit to the local chapter. A dinner in her honor will be given at the house tomorrow evening.

GO-TO-CHURCH

day at the Delt house is this Sunday. The brothers are having a breakfast and then are going to church en masse. They haven't gotten together yet as to what church they will attend, but anyway they will.

OTHER AFFAIRS

Sunday will be the Kappa Sigma waffle breakfast and the Phi Gam buffet supper. Kappa Sigs and their dates are: Dean Hansen and Theta Betty Dodds; Rex Crews and D. G. Polly Windle; Wayne Mack and Ruth Barrett; Leon "Pickles" Hines and Chi O Barbara Lee. Those fortunates taking their dates to Omaha after the breakfast for the Ice Follies are Roger Van Buskirk, Don Moore, and Bob Rothwell. Phi Gam dates include: Gerald Spahn and Theta Jinx Smith; Red Littler and Gamma Phi Betty Gibson; Bob Tollefson and Alpha Chi Rita Rist; and Carl Olenberger and Delta Gamma Mary Lou Johnson.

ments while at Kansas you can take almost anything you want. Gordon Wisda, Arts and Science sophomore:

Williams Embalming school in Kansas City. The reason is obvious, I want to be an mortician (undertaker) and that school is about the best suited for my purpose in this area.

Edna Siggins, Bizad sophomore:

There are so many good schools I'd like to go to, but if I had but one choice I suppose it would be UCLA because it is, to my mind, the best school in the west, scholastically, socially, and "athletically." Also because it is near Holmet is perfect from what I hear. Murray Campbell, bizad junior:

Oregon State. I'm going into forestry and they have a fair school in that field. However, Nebraska's all right for me at the present.

Marjorie Rajeski, teachers freshman:

Believe it or not, I went where I most wanted to go, Nebraska. The educational and social facili-ly not going steady now are Pi Phi Shirley Scott and John Burnham. Theta Marie Anderson is now wearing the pin of a Phi Psi from Indiana.

lywood and the glamour boys. George Gilmore, Bizad freshman: "There is no place like Nebraska."

"Dear old Nebraska U-U-U..." (He sang it for your reporter in answer to the query.)

Patricia O'Connor, Pharmacy freshman:

Because it has a good pharmacy college and because I might get to go to the Rose Bowl games, I would pick Southern California. And last but by no means least there is Bill....

Milton Behrens, bizad freshman:

I'd pick Texas A. and M. out of all of them. Why? Well, just to get farther away from home than I am now. I can still feel the apron strings. It wouldn't really make much difference to me where I went. I'd go just to be going.

Jean Minnick, teachers freshman:

Stanford. The location and the type of people that attend that college appeal to my nature. Also because more intelligent people go there to school—they have to be smart to get in.

Jean Framstead, teachers freshman:

Southern California. There are much better opportunities there for me. I want to go into movie work and their dramatic departures are more than adequate. I don't think there is another place that I would feel more at home and have as much fun as I do here.

Orville Bonness, engineering senior:

Being an engineer, and like most of them, I would like to go to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology which has one of the best engineering graduate schools in the country.

land use studies were inaugurated a year ago in eight Nebraska counties as preliminary spadework to expansion of the program over the entire state to give individual farmers a greater voice in planning and co-ordinating their own agricultural programs.

I. D. Wood, extension agricultural engineer, discussed irrigation of home gardens at the session Wednesday.

Los Angeles City college students drank 1,500 bottles of pop daily during the recent California heat wave.

Michigan State college students pay but 12 percent of the cost of their tuition.

Young farmers learn woodworking at ag

—Sunday Journal and Star.

With twelve young farmers registered for an extensive four weeks study, the farm mechanics short course is now underway at the college of agriculture.

Those enrolled in the new course, which replaced the auto tractor study held in past years, consider different kinds of farm equipment and learn how to operate and maintain it. Study is also given to shop work and building plans. Two and a half days of each week are spent in studying farm machinery and motors, with specific instruction in valve timing, magnetos, carburetors, plows, binders, listers and mowers. Soldering, babbitting, rope splices and knots, belts and lacing, is also practiced as time permits.

Two half days a week will be given to welding, shaping, making of small tools, sharpening and tempering. Demonstrations are given in plow work. Two half days will be spent in learning how to cut rafters, sharpen auger bits and the like. The study of building, planning, paints, and painting, masonry, water supply and waste disposal will be taken up also. The course started January 2 and will continue into March.

Ag agents honor Custer county man

M. L. Gould succeeds H. Paul Cook as head of state-wide organization

New honors came late yesterday to M. L. Gould, Custer county, elected president of the Nebraska County Agricultural Agents' association in the closing hours of the annual conference of extension workers. By this morning, agricultural agents and home agents from all parts of Nebraska were back in their counties or on the way home following the week long "school" and conference.

Gould, who was recently honored by the National County Agents' association meeting at Chicago for his outstanding service to agriculture, succeeds H. Paul Cook of Hamilton county as president of the Nebraska group. J. C. Swinbank, Cheyenne county, was elected vice president of the organization and Wilbur C. Mackey, Frontier county, was named the new treasurer. Additional directors include Paige Hall, Fillmore county and Walter Chace, Stanton county.

Engineers demonstrate.

Yesterday afternoon the men attended a discussion and demonstration of experimental work recently conducted by the agricultural college engineering department on adjustment of planters and listers for the proper rate of seeding sorghums. They also reviewed soil testing work under the direction of Dr. M. D. Weldon.

Highlights of the women's final meeting included a discussion of financial planning led by Miss Mary Rokahr of the U. S. department of agriculture with Louise Bernhardt, Hall county; Marjorie Smithy, Furnas county; and Mildred Nelson of the state extension office participating. Miss Mary-Ellen Brown and Miss Mary Runnalls led discussions of the home demonstration program; and home economics research staff members from the college of agriculture pointed out the relationship between their research work and the home demonstration program.
