Elections take limelight in Greek houses this week

Elections take the center of interest in the houses which elect officers each semester. At the Sig Ep house the new president is Truman Spencer; Clint Jurgensen, vice president; Al Novak, historian; Ed Steckley, guard. At the Pi Phi house Ruth Fox is the new president. Betty Roach is the new vice president; and Margaret Owen is treasurer. Phi Psi's re-elected Bob Miller, president; Boo Ball as vice president; and Bill Sample was elected as secretary.

members."

What kind of government, Dr. Alexis was asked, would German-Americans like to see installed in Germany?

"Americans of German descent would like to see Germany have a type of government more like our own, with freedom of expression at all times but they realize that conditions in Europe are greatly different from conditions in the New World, and that possibly the German nation rather likes a strong central government. At any rate, that is a question for the people of Germany to decide.

"Whether the Hitler regime will last long or not, is difficult to say. Personally, I feel that there will come gradually a modification of the present stringent rules and regulations, and that it may not be long before greater freedom is enjoyed."

As to the outcome of German-Russian relations:

"It is quite natural that Germany and Russia, close neighbors that they are, should have many interests in common. Politics makes strange bedfellows, however, and no one can guarantee what the line-up may be tomorrow. It would not be surprising, if after some months England and Germany were on the same side, combating Russian bolshevism.

Do Germans in America still feel an allegiance to the Fatherland?

"The allegiance of Germans in America is to the United States alone. They appreciate the contribution that the Fatherland has made to the world in many ways, but as for allegiance to one or the other, Americans of German descent are for the United States first and last."

Can the Reds find anyone in the world?

It is rumored that the Russian secret service can find anyone in the world if they wish. Interested persons may find some information about it in Walter G. Krivitsky's In Stalin's Secret Service.

Other new library additions are:

Persian Mystics, by Abdullah Ansari of Herat; Treaty Relations of the British Commonwealth of Nations, by R. B. Stewart; Sons, by Pearl Buck; Life and Times of Beethoven, by Edouard Herriot; Heritage of Kant, by George T. Whitney; Maid Silja, by Frans Emil Siljanpaa; Uses of Lac, by H. K. Sen; In Stalin's Secret Service, by Walter G. Krivitsky; Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government, by Jefferson Davis; Pioneer Merchant of St. Louis, by Marietta Jennings; Peace with the Dictators, by Norman Angell.

the answers on them. Pink slips are very pretty and usually quite usable writing material. Of course the laundry bill goes up but what's a few cents compared to passing a Psych test.

Of course it is possible to get the answers beforehand and have them ready. But it is best in this type of fraud to be careful where the answers are placed. It is told of one lad in Poly Sci that started his list in the wrong place on a true-false test. You guessed it—he flunked.

Take a dare.

The use of strychnine and liquors is among the more dangerous and complicated methods. A dose of strychnine will speed up the system (including the thinking system) for three hours. Too large a dose will stop all systems forever, however. Whiskey is good if not in too large quantities. Over-indulgence makes the questions spin beyond recognition.

Miscellaneous tricks are turning the pages of a book on the floor with your feet. This requires practice and very adept feet. Writing on the hands, on shirt cuffs, and pencils, are used occasionally but they have fallen into disfavor with the modern cribber.

Which all adds up to, "So this is college!"

Gettman study appears in Illinois publication

Dr. Royal A. Gettman of the department of English has a monograph on "Turgenev in England and America" accepted for publication in Studies in Language and Literature of the graduate school of the University of Illinois.

Henzlik talks in Seward

Dean Frank Henzlik of teachers college discussed current educational problems before grade and high school teachers of Seward Wednesday evening.

DAILY contest ends Friday noon

With deadline for entries in the "You Write It Ad Contest," set for Friday noon, contestants should turn in their entries as soon as possible. The contest is sponsored by the DAILY and six local firms.

Entries may be turned in to either the DAILY business office or to the office of Prof. Forrest C. Blood. Prof. Blood will judge all entries. Prizes will be awarded to students whose winning ads are published in the Sunday edition of the DAILY.

Union displays cartoon collection

Original drawings by some of the country's most famous cartoonists are now on display in the Union lounge. The drawings are part of a collection belonging to Frank O'Neil, arts freshman.

All of the cartoons are autographed by the cartoonists. The display includes original drawings by Oz Black, S. J. Ray, Bruce Russell, Fred O. Seibel and O. W. Ding. Original drawings of Willard's "Moon Mullins" and Saunder's "Little Joe" are also included in the display.

Ernest Wintroub speaks to choir vesper audience

Ernest Wintroub, university student, Omaha, spoke at the second of a series of 11 vesper services given by the Cathedral choir Sunday evening at the Cornhusker. Using a text from the prophet Hosea for his theme, Wintroub compared present day events with those in the days of the prophet. "Salvation Is Created" by Tschesnokov and "Oh Praise Ye" by Tschalkovsky were presented by the choir. Houghton Furr was at the organ. A crowd of 600 was present.
