

Colorado swimmers beat Nebraska, 48-36

Bill Edwards cops two wins for NU team

Ralph Worden takes diving event; next meet with K-State here

Nebraska's swim team lost its second in a row as the Huskers bowed to Colorado's tanksters, 48-36. The Buffaloes took six firsts to three for the Huskers and built up points in the other event to win.

Sophomore Bill Edwards, former Lincoln high star, who won the 50 yard free style against Minnesota Saturday as the Huskers lost 53-30, won two of the Nebraskans' firsts. He took the 50 yard event in 25.3 seconds, and won the 100 yard free style in 57.6 seconds. Vandepool copped the 220 and 440 free style for Colorado.

Ralph Worden, Big Six diving champ, who won the only other first against Minnesota, won the other Husker victory again today as he beat Ed McCluskey of the visitors.

Inexperienced,

Hagelin's inexperienced tanksters lack all around balance, and are especially weak in the distance events. Only three Huskers are veterans; the other competitors are sophomores.

Kansas State comes here Thursday afternoon, in what is at present the last scheduled home meet of the season. Only three lettermen are back from the team which lost two meets to the Huskers last year, but Coach C. S. Moll is counting on several sophomores including oddy-named Leo Yeo, dashman, who set three intramural records at K-State three years ago before dropping out of school. The Huskers face K-State at Manhattan in a return match February 23.

BILL EDWARDS, former Lincoln high swimming star, and now Pete Hagelin's number 1 dashman as a sophomore, won two first places for Nebraska yesterday as they bowed to Colorado. He took the 50 yard freestyle in :25.3, and the 100 yard freestyle in :57.6, and had previously won the former event against Minnesota for the Huskers' first victory in an individual event against the Gophers in three years.

Huskers drill for Oklahoma tilt Friday night at Norman

W. H. Browne's basketball charges went through a workout last night as they began preparations for their Friday night's invasion of Soonerland.

The Huskers, although they have won only one game, their opener against Iowa State, showed great improvement in coming within one point of the powerful Missouri team Saturday night, a week after losing a 56-41 decision here to the Sooners.

Oklahoma has the two leading scorers in the conference in Jimmy McNatt and Marvin Mesch, who led the Sooners here. Mesch, however, missed the Kansas State game at Norman because of the flu, but should be ready to go against the Huskers.

Pit improved.

Harry Pitcaithley, although he didn't do any scoring Saturday night, was able to play longer than he did against Oklahoma, and may get into a starter's position again Friday night.

Coach Browne was encouraged by the stellar play of sophomore guard Hartmann Goetze against Missouri, the St. Joe boy turning in the outstanding game of the night for the Huskers. Sid Held turned in his usual good game, which has rated him as probably the Big Six's best sophomore. These two are filling in at guards in fine shape, although Don Fitz, who is out indefinitely, would still give the Huskers that spark which would make them much more important in the conference race than they are now, no matter what position he played.

Randall at center.

Irv Yaffe and Bud Tallman got the call at forwards against Missouri, but Pit may be at one position. Al Randall, who looked good defensively against the Tigers, still has the center post cinched.

Only other conference game on the week's schedule beside last night's K-State-Missouri game, is the Iowa State-Kansas State tilt Friday night. Missouri goes outside the conference that evening to play Washington U. of St. Louis.

Sid Held climbs in NU scoring table

Sophomore guard has 90 points after getting ten against Missouri

Sid Held, Husker sophomore guard came closer to Harry Pitcaithley in the Nebraska scoring column as he got ten points against Missouri to bring his scoring total for the season up to 90. Pitcaithley, who is still bothered with a wrenched back, went scoreless again, and still has 102 to keep him at the top of the mark.

Injured Don Fitz, who is still out of the game, remains in third with 66 points in ten games. Pit and Fitz have played in all 14, as have the next three men after Fitz. Al Randall, Irv Yaffe and Bud Tallman. Randall has 60 points, Yaffe 58 and Tallman 54. Hartmann Goetze, who was impressive as he dumped in 14 points against Missouri, brought his total up to 48 in 13 games.

McNatt has 70 points in 6 games, Mesch, 46 in 5 games, Allen of Kansas 41 in 4, and Miller of Kansas 34 in 4, they being the only men thus far to post a higher scoring average in Big Six play than Held.
