

Countryman features success story

February issue makes debut today with chem scenes and 'Ten Keys'

The February issue of the Cornhusker Countryman, which is the first to be published by the second semester staff, will make its appearance on the stand in Ag hall today.

Under a cover picturing Chemistry scenes features stories will include a biography of Alencar, a student from South America, who is taking graduate work in botany. "The Ten Keys to Success," written by Dan Atkinson, concerns ten methods of achieving success, as pointed out in an interview given by Dr. F. D. Keim, professor of agronomy.

Dean Burr writes.

This issue also includes an editorial by Dean Burr, two pages devoted to Home Economics, concerning soy beans, "The Cinderella of the Soy Bean Family," and some material on style. A full page of "Campus Chaff" will be an addition in this issue.

Subscribers may pick up their copies after noon Friday and all day Saturday at the desk in Ag hall. Copies will be delivered to the different groups Friday evening.

Stockyards offers annual ag scholarship

Marketing school gives tuition for students of animal husbandry

Sixth annual marketing school scholarship, providing training in marketing, processing, and disposition of livestock was announced this week by the Chicago Union Stockyards and Transit Co.

Scholarships are granted to agricultural colleges in the central portion of the United States. Nebraska is granted two representatives each year from the animal husbandry department. Candidates are chosen on a basis of their interest in animal husbandry, scholarship, and character. They must be juniors intending to return for their senior year. The scholarships consist of tuition during the two weeks' school, and room and board at the Stock Yards Inn, a famous old hotel at the Union Stock Yards. Interested students are asked to apply.

Last year's representatives were Ed Rousek and Eric Thor, both AGR's. An alumnus, Prof. R. C. Ashby, chairman of the livestock marketing department at the University of Illinois, is in charge of the school.

At annual Phi U party - it's a circus

Many a secret passion will be revealed tonight when girls on ag campus take their dates dancing at the annual Phi U party. All week the masculine half of the college has been sitting near a telephone waiting for it to ring, while their women went without lunch every other day in order to be able to entertain in true leap year fashion.

The activities building will be gay with all the decoration typical of a circus. Emma the fattest woman in the world will be there, and enough clowns and elephants and crepe paper and balloons to do credit to a Ringling Brothers show. Bill Davis and his orchestra will play under "the big top," beginning at nine o'clock. Phi Upsilon Omicron members will give lapel surprises to their dates at a dinner before the dance.

Truly a man's party, formal will be required only by the women, who also have to worry about corsages for their dates. Chaperons for the party will include Miss Margaret Liston, Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Rippetau, and Dr. Ruth Staples.

Some of the usual combinations like Peggy Sherburn and Rex Brown, and Betty Jo Smith and Keith Gilmore have had a standing date for the affair for weeks. Joy Pestal will escort Dean Worcester, Mildred Bauder will show up with Dick Gooding, Wendell Thacker will be led in by Alice Lideen, Helen Claybaugh plans to bring Austin Mutz, and Mary Lloyd has imported a date from the University of Minnesota who insisted on getting here Wednesday to be sure and not miss anything. Freshman Mary June Buck will be there with Mark Allen, Bunny Jack with Lee Petersen, Charlotte Peckham with Frank Walters, and Helen Sheve with Ed Rousek.

Two Canadians study Nebraska crop science

Two Canadians are now in Lincoln preparing to "import" some first hand knowledge of Nebraska crop science into their native land. They are W. J. McDonald from Drumheller, in the province of Alberta and Fredrick Dimmock, a research worker from the central experimental farm at Ottawa.

Both men are enrolled in graduate study in agronomy at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture.

A Canadian college student has transferred to the University of Georgia because she wanted to learn more about the country described in "Gone With the Wind."

The blue stamps are used only for the purchase of certain foods which are listed in the Federal Surplus Commodities Bulletin which is posted in all stores where food order stamps are accepted.

Increases purchase power.

"The food stamp plan increases purchasing power of the participants by about 50 percent in the purchase of food. It gives them a higher standard of living and permits them to select foods which will be beneficial to them and which they really want and need. It stimulates consumption of the foods which have been produced in such abundance that a part of them might otherwise be wasted," Dr. Tilley stated.
