

Swim team to conference meet today

Hagelin takes eight swimmers to Ames for Big Six carnival

Coach Pete Hagelin and eight Husker swimmers left for Ames, Iowa, at 7 o'clock this morning, to participate in the annual Big Six conference swimming championships.

Iowa State is again favored to win the conference title, with Kansas State furnishing the most opposition. Oklahoma and Nebraska are ranked next, while Kansas is probably the weakest team entered. Missouri does not have a team.

The Huskers have won but two meets—those against Grinnell and Kansas. They have lost to Minnesota, Colorado, Iowa State, Oklahoma, and twice to Kansas State.

Stover to star.

Two swimmers undefeated in dual competition this year—Roger Adams, Ames sprinter, and Marshall Stover, K-State sophomore, who competes in the 220 and 440, are expected to take conference titles. Adams, a junior, and defending champion in the sprints, has bettered the records in those two events, while Stover has bettered the 220 and 440 marks.

Eugene Armstrong, Iowa State, who has been undefeated in three seasons of Big Six competition, is expected to win that event and better the record in it.

Worden threatened.

Ralph Worden, defending champion in diving, is the Huskers' best bet for a first, but he may not be able to beat Carl Koelling, Kansas U's outstanding sophomore, who beat him at Lawrence.

Bill Edwards, Husker soph sprinter, should pick up points in his events, while Leo Yeo of Kansas State will also be on hand to garner markers for the Wildcats.

Best breast stroker in the conference seems to be Surber of Oklahoma, while the best relay teams are those of Iowa State and Kansas State.

Moll to officiate.

K-State coach Cooney Moll will serve as honorary referee of the meet. Lorin Graaff, Art Johnson and Dick Fleig are other officials, while Iowa State athletic department members and other college faculty men will act as timers and judges.

Preliminaries start at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

Husker entries are Bill Edwards, 50, 100, 440 freestyles; Norman Borden, diving, 100, relays; Ralph Worden, diving; Fred Fairman and Charles Roberts, 220 and 440 freestyles; Fred Rodenbeck and LeRoy Foster, breast stroke, both relays; Jim Ager, back stroke and medley relay.

Debaters--

American advantages not helpful to American trade.

Exports are necessary.

Wichita debaters argued that many exports are necessary to our economic structure, and pointed out the disastrous effects a policy of isolation would have on the cotton farmer, and on other surplus crop raisers who depend on the export market.

The Kansans pointed out that the Gallup poll shows that 95 percent of the people don't want war, and reasoned that in that case nothing would make them go to war, so why have isolation. They also declared that the theory of isolations was diametrically opposed to the theory of specialization, which our economic system is based upon.

Wrestlers to entertain Hawkeyes

Ray Tomes to lead Huskers in last dual meet of 1940 season

Nebraska's wrestling team goes into its last dual meet of the season as Iowa university grapplers face the Huskers at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the main floor of the coliseum.

The injury bugaboo, which removed heavyweights George Seemann and Royal Kahler from the wrestling picture, has cut down 165 pounder Dale Ruser, who tore a cartilage in his knee at the Kansas State meet. He will be replaced by Harold Walkup.

The remainder of the Husker lineup will be the same which faced Kansas State in the last Husker meet should Lee Clare, senior 136 pounder, get the call over George Cockle at that weight. Tomes captain.

Milton Kuska, Ed McConnell, Newton Copple, Ray Tomes, Al Mulliken and Bill Rumbolt are the other Husker entries. It is the last meet for 155 pounder Tomes, who will captain the team, as it is for Clare. Seeman is also a senior.

Iowa U's strength lies in the heavier weights. Paul Whitmore, 175 pounder, was undefeated until he lost to Augie Bolinski of the Iowa State Teachers last week. Bolinski is the athlete who decided Royal Kahler as a heavy-weight when the Teachers were here.

Lineups:

Iowa	Nebraska
121 Sherman	Kuska
128 Julius	McConnell
136 Ingle	Clare
145 Millen	Copple
155 Kemp	Tomes
165 Geppert	Walkup
175 Whitmore	Mulliken
Teavyweight	Johnson Rumbolt

Drillers--

have always interested me. A pipe cutter is a tool with a sort of clamp with a handle attached. Into this clamp a pipe is inserted and the clamp is then tightened. Rollers rest against one side of the pipe and steel cutting wheels against the other side. The pipe is fastened in a vice and the cutter twisted around and tightened continually. It's fascinating to see a pipe slowly cut with such a tool.

Windmills not necessary.

The two general types of wells shown are the deep well and shallow well pumps. No longer is a windmill necessary. These pumps, equipped with electric or gas engines, do the work. The deep well pump is put directly over a well and draws the water up while a shallow well pump may be set anywhere just as long as a pipe leads down to the water.

These different kinds of pumps were set up in the hall over tanks of water and I could see the water drawn up and pumped back into it.

Miniature pump.

One small pump which seemed to interest everybody was a miniature of the real thing. A small stream of water shooting upward in it forms a vacuum and draws the large stream of water up into the pump.

This equipment of the well drillers is interesting I find if you have someone to show it to you and tell you how it is used. Pumps, pumps, everywhere, but not a real well in sight—hmm—why not sink one right down thru the floor?

Iowa State Daily names new editors

Named by the Iowa State publication board as new editor of the Green Gander, campus humor magazine, is Ethel Overholt. Louis Champlin was named business manager, Ed Sheridan, circulation manager, and Lewis Kirgis, associate business manager.

YW sponsors varied work by staffs

Members study Bible, international, personal relations under cabinet

Study of international relations, personal relations, the Bible, work in social service, publications, the Estes Co-op, and singing in the vesper choir are all part of the work sponsored by the University YWCA staffs for the benefit of the members.

The various staffs, led by a cabinet member of the YW, plan most all phases of Y work on the campus, and bring students contacts with people interested in similar activities.

Bible study

Vice President Jean Simmons leads the Bible study staff which helps puzzled students interpret religion. The staff, with its joint meetings with the YMCA studies such questions as "How can I live a better life?" "Is there more to religion than the churches are willing to tell us?"

Students who are interested in the discussion of such topics as the problems of dating and relations with fellow students are led by Genevieve Stein, head of the Personal Relations staff. The staff discusses conventions and modern problems of the world in which we live.

Vesper choir.

Girls who like to sing may join the vesper choir, directed by Frances Keefer. This group provides music for vespers each week, and special programs on Easter and Christmas time.

Particularly popular and interesting at the present time is the study of international relations, by a staff led by Janet Swenson. The purpose is to obtain a deeper understanding of the conflicts which exist today and the reason for them.

Mary Bullock and the vesper choir staff plan the weekly devotions each Tuesday at five. The staff secures speakers and gives devotions.

Finance

Pat Sternberg is head of the Y finance staff which balances the budget and contacts new students.

The personnel and office staff, headed by Flavia Ann Tharp, takes care of all filing, typing and office work.

Mary Kerrigan heads the publication staff which has charge of getting out the "N" book, and handles publicity in the Daily.

The conference staff raises money to send students to the Estes conference by selling candy and Christmas cards. It is headed by Ella Jo Marshall.

Girls interested in social service work at the orthopedic hospital and Lincoln settlement houses as a part of their work on the social service staff. Leader is Marcille Pope.

Jane Shaw is leader of the Estes Co-op group which sponsors delegates to the summer conference June 7-17.

Scabbard and Blade elects Meyer captain

Members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military organization, elected Max Meyer captain of their group at an election held last week. Other officers elected were Robert Bailey, first lieutenant; Francis Woodard, second lieutenant; and Harry Kammerlohr, first sergeant.

Officers they are replacing are: Robert Nelson, captain; Robert Brust, first lieutenant, and Joe Fraser, second lieutenant.

11 days

remain before the close of Nebraska's 1940 B. D. O. C. contest. Nomination blanks must be returned by midnight, March 12th to Harvey Bros., 1230 "O" St. or The Daily Nebraskan office, Student Union.

'Off with the old, on with the new'—say Tassels

No more will Tassels wear the white skirts and sloppy sweaters of previous years, for they voted this week to change the traditional costume to something more practical and more fashionable.

Gone will be the easily soiled white skirts now familiar in favor of red corduroy skirts, six-gored and identical. The skirts will all be purchased at the same store, so they will be exactly alike.

Sweaters with Crewnecks And the sweaters, too, felt the change. They will still be red, but will have crewnecks in place of the unfitted neckline, and fitted waistlines.

Stiff shirts and ties will be entirely omitted, and substituted will be sports shirts. The hat and the emblem of Tassels will remain the same, but instead of red anklets with black and white saddle shoes, Tassels will skip merrily to classes and games in white anklets.

The change was all in accordance with a newly-passed-by-law of the organization allowing the Tassels to change their uniforms.

NU to hold delinquency conferences

Preliminary plans call for 2-day meet during summer school session

Owing to an increased statewide interest in the delinquency problem, Dr. James M. Reinhardt of the department of sociology, and Professor R. D. Moritz, director of the summer session, have arranged for a delinquency conference to be held on the campus sometime in June.

Preliminary plans call for a two-day meeting to be held probably during the second week of summer school. Sessions will be open to the public.

Because of the current interest in the problem, Dr. Reinhardt said that it will be necessary this summer to postpone the short course for peace officers, which for the last two years has been a feature of the summer course. It is expected, however, that the police officers program will be resumed in the following summers.

Is not training course

"The proposed delinquency conference is not intended as an institute or a training course, but rather as a program which will be of value to all persons interested in causes and the prevention of crime," Dr. Reinhardt said. "We are arranging for a number of outstanding state and national leaders in the field who will take part in the conference, and for a series of interesting and practical demonstrations."

The progress will be developed around the causes, prevention, and treatment of delinquency, with special emphasis upon the causes of crime in rural areas and the small community.

Betas win League 4 championship

Stoddard gets 9 of 22 against Sigma Nu; Fijis beat Sig Eps

Beta Theta Pi won the League 4 title last night as Johnny Stoddard paced them to a 22-5 win over the Sigma Nu's. Stoddard got 19 points as the Beta's finished their league schedule.

In another League 4 game, the Phi Gams cinched second by taking Sigma Phi Epsilon 19-4. Jerry Dutcher got 12 points, as the Fijis finished with only one defeat, that a two-point loss to the Betas.

Acacia wins.

In one of the league 2 games Acacia defeated Zeta Beta Tau 15 to 14 in a hard fought battle, Hastings being high point man for the winners with 6 points. In the other League 2 game Phi Sigma Kappa beat the Beta Sig's 30 to 14. However the ATOs won League 2 as they had no defeats to mar their record. Those complete the regularly scheduled "A" games although one "B" round is left.

Previous to these games the AGR's had won the League 1 title. The DU's and Farmhouse have yet to play for the League 3 title as each have had one defeat as against 4 wins.

Browne, footballers guests at Ashland

End coach W. H. Browne and six Husker football stars were guests at the Ashland High athletic banquet last night. Those making the trip in addition to Browne were Sam Schwartzkopf, Herman Rohrig, Walter Luther, Ed Schwartzkopf, George Knight, Harry Hopp.
