Wood claims... Prestige and background of Paris not essential to art

Immediately capturing his audience with his droll manner of speech, Grant Wood addressed all University audience on "Regional Art" in the Union, Sunday afternoon.

"The prestige and background of Paris schooling is not necessary for a present day American artist, in order to be a success," declared Wood, as he told of his two trips to France. Wood was asked to leave a Paris art academy after making an "impressionist" painting which was considered the acme in radicalism at the conservative academy.

Returns to America.

Wood returned from France with a red beard and a headful of notions that it was a pity he must come back to "crude America" after working with the Latin opportunities and materials of his host country. However, he now feels that it was all an illusion, and that there is a wealth of subject matter in America equal to that of any country.

"Universities have had too many speakers claiming there is no future," according to Wood who

Sloan heads 'Advocates'

Kitrell, Carter named officers, with Cochran

Frank B. Sloan, arts and sciences sophomore, has been named president of the newly-formed Young Advocates club, an association of pre-law students.

Other officers are William E. Kitrell, vice-president; and Dolores J. Carter, secretary-treasurer. Both are Lincoln freshmen. Prof. Roy Cochran of the department of history is faculty sponsor, and Edward B. McConnell of Lincoln, junior, is chairman of the membership committee. Kitrell will be in charge of the committee on section meetings.

For pre-laws

The Young Advocates is a non-political, pre-professional organization whose membership is open to all University students in good standing and who are preparing to enter the Law college, and to all pre-legal faculty advisers.

The Club's constitution was recently approved by the Student Council. Membership numbers approximately 40 at present, although 80 students are expected by the time of the next meeting March 19.

Klub announces chorus tryouts

Tryouts for the pony chorus for the Kosmet Klub show will be Wednesday night in 201 Temple. Bob Leadley and Mary Kline are to pick the members of the chorus. Selection will be made according to size, ability to dance, etc.

Rehearsal for the show starts Thursday night in the Studio Theater in the Temple.

There will be a meeting of all interested in writing songs for the show, Wednesday at 5 p. m. in the Kosmet Klub office in the Union. Song spots and other music needed will be explained.

Move over F.D.R. Gracie for prexy, Goige, foist lady

Newest possible presidential candidate, asked for in a mirthful petition being passed on the campus, was Gracie Allen. Over 200 signatures had been received early yesterday afternoon as a result of this "publicity gag" of several students.

It is worded, "We, the undersigned, do, by the presence of our signatures hereunto affixed, certify that we are in favor of Gracie Allen for presidential candidate in 1940."

This petition in all its unsincerity will be sent to Gracie Allen according to the students, Fred Simmons, Dick Lindberg, and Lee Pelton, who are circulating it.

Thursday at 4:00 p. m. in Ellen Smith. She is the third speaker on the series of talks sponsored by the office of dean of women and the AWS board for the vocational guidance of women students in this university.

Paging Ripley; it can be done! Battleship flies

The Greek philosopher who said "There is nothing new under the sun," was proved wrong again yesterday by the Omaha World-Herald, for according to the Omaha paper battleships use bombs, and German planes carry crews of at least 300 persons.

At least those are the facts that are garnered from a headline appearing on page two of the state edition. The head read:

German Plane Is Bombed by British Liner

193 Survive Blasts.

The weather

The weatherman says that this spring weather will continue for another day at least as he predicts a few clouds and no substantial change in temperature for Lincoln.

Daily editor issues call for reporters

All members of the DAILY staff will meet in the NEBRASKAN office for a staff meeting Thursday at 5 p. m. Students wishing to become reporters are asked to attend the meeting. New beats will be assigned to reporters.

Daily aids in selection of all-American coed

Attendance at a glamorous motion picture world premiere with all expenses paid as well as the opportunity to win a free trip to Hollywood and possible film fame is offered to Nebraska coeds this spring according to word received by the DAILY from Paramount Pictures.

The DAILY NEBRASKAN has been selected by the studio as one of the country's leading college newspapers to participate in a nation-wide contest to select an all-American College Queen in conjunction with the premiere showing of "Those Were the Days," Paramount's production of the famous "Old Siwash" college stories, at Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois, on May 21.

Dewey to speak

—Journal and Star.

Thomas E. Dewey, republican presidential hopeful, will speak in the Coliseum Wednesday night at 8:30. The New York racketbuster will outline his views on the agricultural problem over the NBC blue network.

For the next week and up until 5 p. m. Wednesday, March 13, the DAILY will receive nominations for selection of Nebraska's candidate for the all-American College Queen title. A committee composed of representative campus men and local motion picture representatives then will consider all nominees (who must include photographs with their filings) and select a limited number of those coeds showing the most screen possibilities to be voted upon by the student body.

Ballots published.

Beginning today and continuing for two weeks the DAILY will publish ballots which students may use in voting for their favorite candidates. The DAILY then will send the photograph of the local contest winner to Paramount officials by April 3. A group of prominent New York artists will decide upon the 48 state winners from photographs sent by all participating colleges, and pictures of the winners will be published in Movie and Radio Guide magazine in the issues of May 3, 10, and 17. Readers of the magazine will vote on the state winners to determine which shall be the 12 national winners, balloting to end by May 13.

The 12 winning college girls, as well as the editors of the 12 college papers originally sponsoring them, will be awarded round trips to Galesburg, Illinois with all expenses paid, to attend the world premiere of "Those Were the Days" on May 21. Paramount (See COED on page 4)

Quiz contest entries due

Preliminaries for Greek affair runoff next week

Questions for the Interfraternity quiz must be submitted at the Union by March 10, in order to be judged and used. For the best question in each of the seven categories, a cash prize of one dollar will be given to the contributor. The questions may be on general information, campus information, biographies, music, literature, quotations, or thought.

Preliminaries for the Interfraternity quiz will be run off next week. All fraternities and sororities who have not submitted their three man team should do so at once at the Union office. Finals for the quiz will be on Sunday, March 31, at 4 p. m. in the Union ballroom.

Grand prize will be 15 dollars and a cup. Each of the three runner-up houses will receive five dollars. Several hundred questions are needed to conduct the quizzes and students are urged to submit their ideas.

Harmony hour plays Schubert

Schubert's Symphony No. 7 in C major will be played during the Sinfonia Harmony hour today at 4 p. m. in the faculty lounge of the Union.

Considered Schubert's greatest work in the symphony. When it was first performed musicians had only contempt for it.

The symphony was completed early in the last year of Schubert's life, 1828, and is the last symphony which he composed. Suite No. 2 in B minor by Bach, played by the Adolf Busch Chambers players, is the other composition featured on the Harmony hour.

Sigma Delta Chi to hold rush luncheon today

Members of Sigma Delta Chi will be hosts to all men interested in journalism at a luncheon to be held this noon at 12:00 in the faculty dining room of the Union.

All men interested in the fraternity are invited to attend.

Sextet highlights...

Fine Arts recital by musical groups in Temple auditorium

Sunday afternoon the School of Fine Arts presented a recital by Mu Phi Epsilon and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia in the auditorium at the Temple.

Highlight of the performance were Mu Phi Epsilon's sextet accompanied by a string trio, and the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia chorus. The trio presented a number by Mozart. The girls' Sextet presented two numbers, one by Franz and one by Dauty. The well performed cello solo by Miss June Meek demonstrated alacrity in technique.

Horn quintet unusual.

The second section of the program was equal to the first in interest, talent, and appropriateness.

"The Chase," performed by a horn quintet, exploited a combination not often used. The tenor aria "M'Appari," from the opera "Martha," was presented by Dick Koupal whose voice is remarkably well adapted to this style of singing. "Interludium," presented by a string quartet, was one of the nicest parts of the entire program.

The finale—three songs by the Sinfonia chorus—was the appropriate climax and highlight of the program. The members of the chorus, under the direction of Richard White, president of the group, sang the close-harmonized selections with enthusiasm. Mr. Clevé Genzinger, soloist with the group, showed that he was worthy of the honor of being soloist.
