

It's a "Bargain" - - in three acts on ag stage Saturday

Genevieve Wild, Dale Theobald, Elsie Mae Tomich, and Orville Indra.

The play is the story of a wealthy widower who has married his secretary, with the resulting conflict between the new wife and her husband's son and daughter.

With the climax of the play comes to the family the realization that a man and woman cannot merely "bargain" for marital happiness and success, but that they must honestly and sincerely love each other.

Dr. E. Roger Washburn, secretary of Sigma Xi will announce the new members of that group. Professor Clifford Hicks, secretary (See CONVO, page 4.)

Campus Coed balloting ends tomorrow

Nebraska's candidate for national contest to be announced Sunday

Two days remain for students to cast their votes for Nebraska's entry in the All-American Campus Queen contest being sponsored by Paramount Pictures and locally by the DAILY. Polling on the six candidates will close at 5 p. m. Saturday.

Ballots for the nomination of Nebraska co-eds, which appeared in the DAILY yesterday, by error, will not be accepted or considered.

The voting which has been going on since March 17 has surpassed the expectations of the contest managers here, Dick deBrown, editor of the DAILY stated, urging students who have not yet voted to do so before Saturday so that a vote will be representative of the general student body.

The candidates.

Gerry Wallace, Marjorie Adams, Pat Reitz, Jean Cullinan, Beth Howley, and Bettie Cox are the candidates. Their pictures were judged by local committee as candidates for the entry from Nebraska.

Votes will be tabulated Saturday and the results of the balloting on this campus will be announced in the Sunday edition of the DAILY.

Kingsbury is named '40 Best Dressed Girl

Virginia Haney, Gerry Hawkins are runners-up; Tri Delt, Pi Phi, SDT take Coed Follies skit prizes

Maxine Kingsbury, Delta Gamma, last night stepped out of a huge red heart to receive the plaudits of the Coed Follies audience as Nebraska's Best Dressed Girl of 1940.

Delta Delta Delta earlier in the evening received for their interpretation of the perfect pledge-active relationship the Follies cup for the best skit. Pi Beta Phi won second place with "A Coed's Folly," and "Thanks for the Memory" of dear old college days won third for Sigma Delta Tau.

Red, white and blue.

Opening the heart to let Miss Kingsbury out were two runners-up to the Best Dressed Girl, Virginia Haney, Pi Beta Phi, and Geraldine Hawkins, Gamma Phi Beta. The Best Dressed Girl wore a blue and white formal topped by a red jacket, and received red roses from Virginia Clemans, AWS president. Miss Haney was sophisticated in an oyster white chiffon formal with a matching turban, and Miss Hawkins was quaint and young in blue net trimmed with black lace.

The audience shouted approval for the Tri-Delt skit as six pledges in very short white satin dresses woke three actives, helped them get off to class, comforted them over down slips, approved their boy friends, and congratulated them over pin hanings. Humorous note was the careful rearranging of appearance as the actives came back from their dates.

All were there.

Tilly Lish, Mortimer Snerd, Joan Davis, and Barney Oldfield gained Follies approval as the Kappa Delta's gave their interpretation of "The Podunk Premier."

Delta Gamma's waved their legs and danced in the best chorus girl manner to show their idea of what the perfect Student Union life should be.

Chi Omega's chorus literally got off on the wrong foot as they tried to portray the indispensability of the powder puff, but recovered with the piece and dance of (See BEST DRESSED, page 3.)

Music school offers special high school summer course

An enlarged all-state high school music course for students who desire to study music at the University of Nebraska part of the summer will be conducted by Dr. A. E. Westbrook and the music faculty from June 12 to July 3.

The summer staff, announced Thursday by Dr. Westbrook, will include five guest instructors and most of the present music faculty. Arthur Harrell, supervisor of instrumental music in the Kearney schools, who is president of the Nebraska Music Educators association, and Bernard Nevin, supervisor of instrumental music in the Lincoln schools, will be guest conductors of band and orchestra.

Van Sickle to supervise.

Howard Van Sickle of the Pana, Ill., high school faculty, will supervise the three weeks' program of recreation and will be assistant director of the chorus. Lyle Welch, teacher of instrumental music in the Lincoln schools, will be assistant director of the band; and Ruth Sibley, cello instructor in the local schools, will teach cello at the summer camp, and will assist with small ensembles.

Westbrook to lead chorus.

Dr. Westbrook will have charge of the summer chorus, and Ward Moore and Emanuel Wishnow of the music faculty will direct the band and orchestra respectively. The following members of the faculty will give private lessons to those registered for the course: (See MUSIC, page 4.)

Inquiring reporter finds Some students would choose glamor as others prefer political or scholastic honor

By Bob Aldrich.

If some "Good Fairy" right out of a Disney cartoon stepped up to you and gave you your choice of being a Phi Beta Kappa, an Innocent or Mortar Board, Beauty Queen or glamour boy, or an All-American athlete, which would you choose?

With spring fever creeping up on us, between blizzards, now is a good time to pause and reflect upon this pleasantly unimportant question. Do you dream of dangling a PBK key upon your watch chain or do your daydreams take you to the moment when you hope to be tackled by a 200-pound taper? Would you like to see your personal pulchritude forever emblazoned on the pages of the Cornhusker or does your heart belong to the grassy gridiron, the cheers of the crowd and the ecstatic thrills of sweet victory? Gosh, ain't we poetic!

The question was stated thusly: If you could have your choice of being a Phi Beta Kappa, an Innocent of Mortar Board, a Beauty Queen or a glamour boy, or an All-American athlete, which would you choose and why?

Manley Hawks, biz ad senior.

Innocent. Working for Innocents offers more association with fellow students than any of the other honors listed. One's greatest enjoyment in college comes from association with other students.

Dorothy Jean Howard, arts and sciences freshman.

Beauty Queen. They have so much fun after they are elected. Anyway, people always remark (See REPORTER, page 4.)

Secretary job opening wedge in magazine says Clayberger

Courtesy Lincoln Journal and Star. KATHERINE CLAYBERGER.

"Secretarial work is the best opening on a woman's magazine and offers the widest acquaintance with the various phases of the magazine which makes for future advancement," said Miss Katherine Clayberger speaking yesterday in Ellen Smith on the vocational possibilities of the magazine publishing field.

Miss Clayberger outlined the departments and sections of the Woman's Home Companion, of which she is associate editor, and spoke of the personnel and the work which each department covers.

"Our magazine receives thousands of manuscripts for the fiction department every year," said the Companion editor. She told of the attempt to get balanced fiction sections in each magazine, by varying stories and articles.

Fashion department work is not all a bed of roses, according to Miss Clayberger, and demands almost undivided time and attention as well as skill and aptitude. Miss Clayberger also told of the work of the Companion's Paris editor, Marjorie Howard.

Reader editor department is one of the newer phases of the magazine. Readers from all over the country contribute ideas and fill out questionnaires to help the magazine, said Miss Clayberger.

The interior decorating department, the photography staff, the advertising side of the magazine, the Consumers Research department, the Better Babies Bureau, and the Good Looks department were also sketched by Miss Clayberger.
