Best Dressed Girl, hayride, house party highlight society

By Agnes Wanek.
Now that the identity of the Best Dressed Girl has finally been revealed, university women will now know who to copy first in the way of clothes. The idea of this column is not to point out the newest fashions, but just in case you hadn't noticed, take a look at Betty Orme's new white raincoat and her white hat with class numerals on it. Maybe the new outfit is to compensate for her nearly-on-the-rocks romance with Carl Norden, DU prexy of last year.

Also Tom Davis and Jack Stewart who took Kappa Ann Craft as far as Galesburg with them. At the last report she only took seven suitcases with her. That Sigma Nu interest of Mary Virginia Knowles, Kappa, was enough to draw her to Chicago over the holidays.

Twelve AOP's celebrated the occasion with a party at the Music Box in Omaha Saturday night and fun was the order of the evening.

THEY TELL US

that the Pi Phi hayride is getting to be somewhat of an annual affair, since each year it is sponsored by the pledges. Some of the Pi Phis and their dates for Friday night are Marian Lowrey and Sigma Chi Jack Moore; Shirley Scott and Beta Bill Huffman; Margaret Dickerson and Sig Alph Joe Dye; Mary Louise Simpson and ATO Bob Davis; Jane Wilson and Delt Jack Gellatly. Plans for the party include a hayride, supper and dancing afterwards.

FUN AND FROLIC

will be the central idea of the DU house party to be held Friday night, as a pre-initiation celebration. Some DU's and their dates are Neal Felber and Polly Perkins, Delta Gamma of last year, who is coming from Columbus for the occasion; Bob Nelson and Tri Delt Olive Speith; Don Young and Mildred Anderson, Theta; Dale Ganz and Jo Duree, Chi O; and Milt Meyer and Theta June Holm.

REUNION

of the week is that between Phi Delt Jimmy Stuart and Delta Gamma alum Helen Katherine Davis, who've gone together, for oh, so many years. It looked for a while as if Cupid wasn't even batting in that league when Jimmy's pin was returned this summer. But since spring vacation, things have been patched up, and Helen is now wearing a beautiful diamond.

JOINING

the ever-increasing list of steady-goers are Alpha Phi Mary Ann Stryson and Alpha Sig Dutch Holland, making the second steady Alpha Phi, Alpha Sig combination of the week.

INTERESTING

if true, is the re-appearance of the affair between Phi Delt Cliff Meier and Kappa Molly Woodward, and the question of the moment is where will this leave Theta Mary Ann Donovan?

FOR ONCE

and for all, vacation happenings will be disposed of. Chicago seemed to be the destination for a good many Betas, including Orval Hager and Houghton Furr.

The chandelier in University of Minnesota's Northrup auditorium weighs 4,500 pounds, takes two hours to clean.

University coeds learn to sew, cook

36 home ec students live home management houses each semester

Coeds who cook and sew and do the washing, and keep the house, and even tend the baby? Impossible, it can't happen here! But it has and does every day, for 36 home economics students do it every semester in the home management house.

In these houses, live supervisors who watch the girls work and see to it that all that should be done is done, and give the girls' advice.

Two houses.

Two home management houses, one at 1600 R and one at 3220 Starr, house six girls, an advisor, and a baby for three weeks at a time. The girls divide the work. One week two of them cook, one week, they tend the baby, do the washing, or keep the house clean. In the six weeks course, for which they receive two hours credit, they live three weeks in one house, where they have a high income budget, and three weeks in the other, where they live as would a family of limited income.

They not only do the work, they plan it too, do all the buying that must be done, and keep records.

Children are state wards.

The children in the houses are wards of the state, and the girls take turns caring for them.

But if you think it sounds like just too much fun, just think of the girls who live there. "No, I don't think I can go coking this afternoon. This is my week as cook, and I have to get dinner." "No, I can't go out tonight. This is my week as child supervisor."

Coeds model 'fashions on parade' at Gold's this week

"Flag-waving" fashions—red, white and blue—are very popular this season," says Miss Rose Manahan, stylist who is conducting this week a fabric style show "Luxable Fashions on Parade" at Gold's. Today is the last day of the shows which feature university coeds as models.

a blue and white ballerina play suit, a red and white check in pure dye silk, and an adorable seersucker suit that combines all three colors.

Individuality in "mixing and matching" is offered too. Slacks, shorts, shirts and skirts can all be combined with each other to make entirely different outfits.

For formal wear.

For more formal wear, there are many prints to be had. Small, neatly spaced designs and charming old-fashioned florals on sheer cottons, matelasse organdie, or muslin are possibilities.

"Stripes, plaids, and checks are outstanding for informal wear," says Fashion Stylist Miss Manahan. "All sorts of play clothes will be seen this summer so you can choose the type best suited to your figure—slacks, shorts, rompers, little full skirts, or pinafores."

Blue seems to be a good basic color for the wardrobe this spring, with a great variety of shades to choose from—navy, cadet blue, misty blue, pastel, powder blues, and prints on dusty-blue backgrounds. "Use red for accent—with white with navy, with gray, or with yellow, for an exotic tropical effect," says Miss Manahan.

Individuality in color.

Gold's are showing all these. They're giving a chance for individuality with the color schemes in all parts of the wardrobe. Included in the show of fashions are

MILLER & PAINE

Cues For The Coed

is the last chance you will have to attend the "Luxable Fashions on Parade" style show on Gold's second floor. Coeds will certainly not want to miss this smart show starting at 2 p. m. Cotton dresses, for every occasion, with accessories will be featured.

If perchance

you happened to hear and dance to Henry Busse last night, it's probable that you already know that King's is the place to go to dance. Why not have the b. f. take you there Saturday night to hear Nat Towle and his orchestra? The prices are in range of every fellow's pocket—40c for men and 25c for women. King's also has another big surprise for you—Vincent Lopez and his orchestra will play at King's Ballroom on April 11. Be sure to go.

I discovered a real find while looking in Magee's accessory department. They are featuring this week a special on imported La Tausca pearls. You may buy these carefully matched pearls, which come in from 4 to 14 twisted strands, this week for $1.00. Go to Magee's now and take your pick. They will go especially well with your strictly "dressy" dresses and sweaters, and equally well with any other type of costume.

To go to shop for your new spring skirts, sweaters, and blouses is Rudge and Goenzel's. Why not go in and look at the gabardine skirts in dark and pastel shades. The prices range from $2.95 to $3.95. Helen Harper sweaters, featured in Vogue and Harper's may be found at Rudge's on the second floor—priced from $1.95 to $3.95—in pastel colors. Tailored shirts, especially in white and light shades are going to be very popular this spring, and may be found at Rudge's for $1.95.

Someone is going to win a Season Skipper Coat in the ad-writing contest sponsored by Hevlund-Swanson. . . . It might as well be you. If you haven't obtained your official contest blank, with the list of rules, go to Hevlund's now to get the entry blank and to see this grand coat, with the removable lambkin leather and wool lining. You can leave the lining in when the weather is cold, or, weather permitting, you may zip it out. This truly all-year round coat is featured in black, navy, and tweeds. Your entry must be taken or sent to Hevlund-Swanson not later than March 31—today.
