Students believe American Student Union communistic

By Joe Belden, editor.

Student Opinion Surveys of America. AUSTIN, Texas.—Only one half of U. S. collegians report that they know about the American Student Union.

Of those who have heard about it, 48 percent have received an unfavorable impression of the organization.

At least three out of every ten in the same group believe that the A. S. U. is a front for communists in colleges.

Those are the results of a nationwide study conducted by the Student Opinion Surveys of America, scientific polling organization sponsored by the college press. The DAILY NEBRASKAN co-operates by taking personal interviews on the Nebraska campus with a carefully-selected cross section of students, as is done in other schools from coast to coast.

Although many of those with opinions exonerates the American Student Union, long under fire for its uproarious conventions and al-

Turkel and Stewart opposed the statement, "Resolved, that the U. S. should maintain a strict policy of military and economic isolation." The Wesleyan men argued that this is the safest as well as the only way to keep out of war, while Nebraska debaters spoke in defense of a cash-and-carry policy.

Former dean to visit here during May

Dr. John D. Hicks, former dean of the arts and sciences college, who is now chairman of the department of history at the University of Wisconsin, will probably visit friends in Lincoln sometime in May. Dr. Hicks is on leave this semester at Largo, Fla., where he is writing a book on "The History of the Northwest." According to Dr. J. L. Sellers of the department of history, the former arts college dean will be in Omaha for the annual meetings of the Mississippi Valley Historical association in May, and while in Nebraska will probably visit in Lincoln.

Prof. Earnest A. Hooton, noted Harvard university anthropologist and author of "Apes, Men, and Morons," will speak in the Union ballroom on "The Anthropology of European Belligerents" today at 11 a. m. He will also conduct a forum at 3 p. m. He has been named by Life magazine as being "one of the most gifted, versatile and articulate men in the history of science" and is brought to the university by the convocations committee and the Student Union.

Journal and Star.

In a press conference yesterday, Hooton said that the greatest problem among college students is caused by neurotics, since they have paid too much attention to the development of their nervous systems and none to their biological make-up. "Modern vocational guidance courses do not help such students to adjust themselves to society," he said. "These courses regiment the individual instead of guiding him individually."

Suggests tests.

He suggested that universities use vocational tests similar to those given at Harvard, which test students on their heredity, pathologies, and background. "We must find out what sort of a niche in life students can fill by testing them physically, psychologically, and temperamentally," he said. "The basis of education is centered around two things. First, what kind of a biological animal is the student, and second, according to the way he functions biologically, what capacities should be developed?"

"People need manual labor."

Hooton emphasized that people need manual labor to tone the rest of their body up and to enable them to think and exercise all their faculties. "We cannot keep our brains well developed unless we keep striving," he explained. "Because of so many recent in-

It was a 'brainy' day for Thetas; cop Union quiz

Mary McLaughlin, Betty Dodds and Hortense Casady won the cup and $15 for Kappa Alpha Theta in the interfraternity quiz Sunday. The Theta team finished with a score of 92 out of a possible score of 96, missing only a part of one question. Farm House and Sigma Alpha Mu, with the respective scores of 70 and 66, were close behind, and Alpha Xi Delta won fourth place with a score of 50. Each of the runner-up teams won $5.

Tough stuff

The questions in the final quiz proved to be much more difficult than those in the semi-finals. Probably the most difficult were the art questions, which required contestants to identify paintings and their artists. The answers to the performance questions were much to the delight of the audience, as Hortense Casady pantomimed the song "On a Bicycle Built for Two," and the Sigma Alpha Mu team recalled their training in military science.

Beverly Finkle acted as master of ceremonies, quizzing the contestants, and George Gostas presented the awards. The judges were Miss Helen Hosp, Karl Arndt and Harold Stoke.

Journalists discuss news

DeBrown, Chouinard stress publicity needs

Richard deBrown, DAILY editor, and Carroll Chouinard, director of the university editorial and publicity department yesterday explained the ins and outs of getting organization's news in publications to the newly elected publicity chairmen of campus organizations.

The meeting was held as a part of the leadership training conference sponsored by Mortar Board and the office of the dean of women.

Three steps in publicity were stressed by Chouinard; the gathering of information, writing up the information, and the business of distributing the information. He emphasized the importance of rural newspapers, and spoke of the value of "time" copy for weeklies.

Mr. Chouinard explained the duties of the editorial and publicity departments as being to give authentic news and administrative policies and campus activities. He also explained the writing of a news story.

DeBrown explained the process of getting a story into a paper, and told of the organization of the DAILY.
