

Harvards defeat Yales 7-0 on Ray Prochaska's 40-yard score as spring drills end

The Huskers put away their football togs until next September yesterday, after the Harvards beat the Yales, 7-0, when Ray Prochaska grabbed an attempted Eli lateral and raced forty yards to a touchdown in the third quarter.

Harvard's score came out of a clear sky. The Eli firsts had taken the ball on their own 19 after Don Rubottom's punt, and Harry Hopp and Vike Francis had led a march to the 48. Francis took the ball going into the line, but attempted to lateral to Royal Kahler as there was no hole there. Prochaska, coming in fast, grabbed the ball as it bounced from Kong's hands and ran untouched to a score. Warren Alfson converted the extra point.

Only serious threat.

That was Harvard's only serious scoring gesture, but the Yale team couldn't cash in. The Biffer started his two first teams against each other, with Fred Metheny replacing Roy Petsch, benched because of a bad leg, the Eli's got the ball on their foes' 20, when George Abel blocked Don Rubottom's punt and Forrest Behm recovered the ball.

The Reds, though, repulsed the threat on their own five, after Francis had made 13 yards in two plays, and a first down on the 7. Lennie Muskin stopped Bob Kahler for a one yard loss, then Harry Hopp got to the five. That was all the farther the Blues could get, though, because the Harvards threw Hopp back a yard on the next play, and on fourth down, Francis could only get that yard back.

Don Rubottom's return punt went out to the 42, and after a Hopp to Kahler pass had got seven yards, it looked as though the Blues were started again. Harvard, held, though, and Warren Alfson partially blocked Hopp's punt shortly before the quarter ended.

The two second teams met as the second quarter started, and the Eli subs, too, bogged down inside the ten.

Nyden gets fumble.

Ed Nyden recovered Ernie Weekes fumble on the Harvard 25, and Kenny Simmons took it to the eleven on two tries. The Eli's, tho, got just six yards on their next four tries, and the ball went to the Reds.

Ernie Weekes punted on out to the 50, but Jack Vincent raced to the 16 with it, and the Eli's were in scoring territory again.

Vincent's first pass was incomplete, but on the next play he tossed one to Nyden, who lateraled to Simmons for a five yard gain. Vincent made it a first down on the six in two cracks at the line. Simmons and Vincent each gained a yard apiece, but there was a mixup on the next play and Francis Leik recovered a Blue fumble on his own 9.

Vincent's pass to Leo Fisher a few moments later took the ball to the Red 20, but Vic Schleich put a crimp in that threat when he tossed Vincent for a 12 yard loss on an attempted pass.

Then came the third quarter and Prochaska's score. The Yales still were in the ball game, tho, and started a new march after taking a punt on their own 35.

After one play had gained nothing, Hopp got 17 yards when he ran on a pass on which no receiver was open. He then pitched one to Bob Kahler, and when Kahler was finally stopped the ball was on the Reds' 18.

Hopp got exactly nothing in two cracks at the line, then Francis made three yards. Bob Ludwig, tho, lost a yard on an end around play, and the ball went over to the Reds.

The seconds again took over, and in the last quarter the Biffer cleaned the bench.

Footing was slippery from Tuesday night's rains, and it was difficult for the ball carriers to get started. A strong wind and cold fingers were no help to passers and punters, so it was largely a defensive battle much of the time.

The Eli's made a few good gains on laterals, but their loss, of course, came when one backfired. Henry Rohn played with the Reds' seconds, that being his first active duty since early spring. Dale Bradley, John and Theos Thompson, Allen Zikmund and Petsch were all out of action.

Baseball team meets Luther in opener

Huskers face three games this weekend; Iowa Staters next

Luther college, of Decorah, Ia., which has yet to see victory in two starts, will be Nebraska's first baseball foe of the season when the Cornhuskers battle on foreign ground Thursday afternoon.

Friday, the Huskers begin a two day, Big Six conference war against Iowa State at Ames. The Cyclones have a record of two wins, one defeat and a tie in games to date.

Luther played Nebraska in 1938 with the Huskers coming from behind 4 to 1 in the ninth inning to win by a 5-4 score. Both losses to Luther have been at the hands of Iowa university this season by scores of 9-3 and 1-0. The Hawkeyes have been the Big Ten champs for the past two seasons.

Batteries listed.

The Norse batteries for the opening game today will be either Loyal Radtke or Dede Carey on the mound with Capt. Dick Skale receiving. Nebraska will pitch Harry Truscott with Alvir Schmode doing the catching.

Five sophomores are expected in the Cyclone lineup Friday, when they face Nebraska while the Huskers will have four newcomers to the team.

Iowa State's record is a 2-2 tie and a 4-1 loss to Iowa State Teachers college, and double victories over Simpson college by scores of 7-0, 14-3.

Leon Wilson, only letterman pitcher, and Willard Mylenbusch, sophomore, are expected to hurl in the two games with the Cornhuskers. Sidney Held, sophomore from Lincoln, and Bob Searle, junior from Fort Crook, will be working against the Big Six opponents.

LeMaster lost.

Nebraska's lineups against Iowa State will probably be the same as against Luther. One big setback to Nebraska's chances was the loss of Bernie LeMaster, letterman shortstop, who broke an ankle in the last practice, Tuesday afternoon. His place will be taken by

Golf team includes one sophomore

Jack Wiedman joins vets Spomer, Million, Mowbray this week

Coach Ed Newkirk's Nebraska golf foursome, with three returning lettermen, will leave Thursday night to start their Big Six campaign. Kansas State, at Manhattan, is the first match on Friday, with Kansas university, at Lawrence, on Saturday morning for the second foe.

Veterans are Bill Mowbray, Lincoln, Wally Spomer, Lincoln, and Don Million, of Omaha. The lone sophomore on the team is Jack Wiedman, of Lincoln. The members will play the number one to four positions as they are respectively listed.

All around.

The entire quartet of players have been playing around the 80 mark, with Mowbray turning in a 75 for the best round to date. All practice rounds have been played at the Lincoln Country club, but the scores have been high due to the cold weather and strong winds, making play erratic.

Other promising newcomers to the golfing fold are Tom Uren, Omaha, Ed Dosek, Lincoln, and Bud Tallman, Creston, Ia.

Frosh meet scheduled this afternoon

Today Coach Ed Weir will send his freshman proteges through a track meet. The meet will be held outside if weather conditions are favorable. If not, it will be held underneath the east stadium.
