

Convo honors upper 10 percent; Allen speaks

All 10, 11 o'clocks dismissed for annual convocation; 632 students to receive recognition for scholarship

Nebraska's honor students, those ranking in the upper 10 percent of their colleges, and organizations with outstanding scholastic records will be awarded special distinction today at 10:15 a. m. at the annual Honors Convocation in the coliseum.

Only woman member of the United States circuit court of appeals, Judge Florence Allen of Cleveland, is speaker for the occasion. All 10 and 11 o'clock classes will be dismissed.

No pictures.

Photographers are requested to take no pictures of Miss Allen during the program. Pictures may be taken between 10 and 10:15 a. m., according to Prof. Linus Burr Smith, chairman of the honors committee.

Three hundred and sixty-eight men and 264 women will receive recognition for their scholastic averages. Ranking among the upper three percent of the senior class or having been included on the list for four years are 75 persons.

Chancellor presides.

Chancellor C. S. Boucher will preside. Prof. L. B. Smith, chairman of the department of architecture, is in charge of the convocation.

The seniors to be especially honored will be seated upon the stage and will receive leather bound certificates from the chancellor. Also to be honored during the program are those who have received special medals and awards for various campus activities and achievements.

Faculty luncheon.

Officials of the bar association and judges of the courts are invited. (See HONORS, on page 2)

Faculty stars in 'Enchanted Cottage'

Proceeds of production will be used for annual student scholarship

Deans and faculty members will cavort across the stage of the Temple tonight and Wednesday in the AAUW-sponsored presentation of Arthur Wing Pinero's clever comedy, "Enchanted Cottage."

Money raised by the play will be used for AAUW scholarships given annually to worthy students.

Academic leaders starring for the first time in a theatrical production in Lincoln will be Mrs. C. S. Boucher, psychology instructor Gregory and Russell, Mrs. J. O. Hartzler, and arts college Dean Charles H. Oldfather. The speech department lends such talented actors to the production as department head Herb Yenne and Armand Hunter.

Mrs. Griffin to direct

Claudine Burt of Lincoln will appear in the production, which is directed by Mrs. Thomas D. Griffin and Miss Fern Hubbard, play and stage directors respectively.

AAUW members will not be affected with the proverbial stage fright, for almost all of them have had a wide theatrical experience.

For Miss Hosp, dean of women, acting will be no new thrill. A (See STARS, on page 2)

It's not a reversal day that brings these faculty members to the stage, but the cause of the AAUW scholarship fund. Left to right are Armand Hunter, Miss Helen Hosp, Dean C. H. Oldfather and Mrs. C. S. Boucher. Journal & Star.

Clinton fans . . .

Have opportunity to win free ticket for anniversary dance

Fans of Larry Clinton, who will play the Union's second anniversary party May 1, will have an opportunity this week to use their knowledge of his music to advantage. The Student Union is conducting a contest, the winner of which will receive a free ticket to the dance. Contestants must guess the most popular of the six Clinton arrangements which are now on the Corn Crib Music box, and how many times it is played from Wednesday, April 24, to Wednesday noon, May 1.

Open to students.

The contest is open to all students, though no Student Union employees may vote. Voting slips are available in the Corn Crib and are to be turned in to the cashier. In the event of a tie, duplicate prizes will be offered. The Clinton tunes now on the machine are "Parade of Wooden Soldiers," "From Another World," "How High the Moon," "In a Persian Market," "It's Wonderful," and "Study in Scarlet."

Clinton is famous for his rearrangement of classical tunes and recently adapted a Tchaikowsky melody from the Romeo and Juliet

I-M debaters argue insurance

Two of the three teams remaining in the Intramural debate tournament will argue the insurance question tonight at 7.

Beta Theta Pi will meet Delta Theta Phi on the subject, "Resolved, that the states should adopt a plan of compulsory automobile insurance to cover personal injuries."

Tappa Kegga, the other team remaining in the tournament, will not debate tonight.

Debates are judged on the subject material, manner of presentation, and preparation. One judge, who has been an intercollegiate debater at Nebraska for the past few years is used in all debates. Three judges will be used in the final debate.

Debaters are: Beta Theta Pi; Keith Howard, Gene Bradley; Delta Theta Phi; James Brogan, Don Farrera.

Fantasy overture into the song "Our Love." His arrangement of Debussy's "My Reverie," was the best selling hit of 1938-39.

Original lyrics.

After re-writing the piano solo and adding original lyrics, heirs to Debussy's estate finally consented to the publication of the song, and to date it has grossed more for their estate than Debussy's music earned for him during his life. A conservative estimate from the publisher on the total income to be eventually earned by the song is one-quarter of a million dollars.

Tickets for the anniversary dance are now on advance sale in the Union for $1.35 a couple.

NU women to AWS meet

Ten delegates attend four day convention

Ten women left Lincoln Sunday for Iowa City where they are attending the regional AWS convention. The convention, which opened yesterday, and will last thru Thursday, will take under consideration questions of campus problems and student government. They will discuss common and vexing problems as the relationship of town, dormitory and sorority girls.

The delegates from Nebraska, who are all either past or present AWS board members, attending the convention are: Jean Simmons, Virginia Clemans, Marian Bradstreet, Pat Sternberg, Marion Stone, Ann Husted, Ben Alice Day, Mary Bullock, Elizabeth Waugh and Janet Lau.

Westbrook represents NU at Sinfonia meet

Dr. A. E. Westbrook, director of the school of fine arts, spent Saturday on the University of Minnesota campus at Minneapolis, representing the national executive committee of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national professional music fraternity, at a province convention.

ROTC to parade en masse on mall in first practice

The entire Nebraska ROTC unit will parade on the mall in front of the coliseum today in the first mass maneuver this spring in anticipation of the annual inspection and competition in May.

The reviewing stand will be on the south side of the mall. Pershing Rifles intend to march as a unit falling in behind the junior battalion. They will be distinguished by their white shirts, white belts, and white caps. If there is no flag flying from Nebraska hall this morning, there will be no parade.

New York Husker . . .

Alumni to be in audience when Waring plays NU song

When Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians dedicate Nebraska's new song over the college smoker broadcast of May 17, present in the audience at the Vanderbilt theatre will be the New York alumni chapter of the university.

In a letter to Ellsworth DuTeau, alumni secretary, Waring invited all members of the New York association to be in the audience when the song, composed by Waring, is played for the first time.

When Waring, in a telegram to Dick deBrown, DAILY editor, offered to compose a song for Nebraska, petitions asking the noted

Mr. Clark comes from Scottsbluff where he was formerly county prosecutor.

Kid gang of . . .

Lincoln operates 'protection racket' at Lunceford dance

By Hubert Ogden.

A "protective organization" flourishing on the campus and controlled by a bunch of kids was exposed Friday night during the Jimmy Lunceford-N' Club dance. The "Little Caesars" were operating on a certain section of the campus, according to Sergeant Regler of the university police, and whenever a car was parked there, the driver was given an opportunity to contribute a dime for complete "protection" of it.

Drivers of "unprotected" autos came back after the dance and found tires deflated. The window of one car was smashed.

Regler goes into action.

Campus Gang Busters went into action, determined to crush the organization. Racketeer Regler got hold of one of the little fellows, the alleged "brain" of the gang and questioned him.

The boy denied all knowledge of the window smashing incident. He readily admitted, though, that they did have a protective organization to watch cars. The youngster promised Regler that his protective service would pick up the guilty person and bring him to campus police headquarters.

The sergeant, still unconvinced and not wanting the organization to bring in a "guilty" party, told the boy he didn't need his services, but that he did want to question him more later regarding the protective group. Just what the nature of the operations of the boys were, still remains to be definitely learned.

Poem entries due tomorrow at 5

Five p. m. tomorrow is the deadline for entries in the Ivy Day poem contest. The successful contestant in this annual contest will receive a prize of five dollars, and the poem will be read at the presentation of the May Queen's court on May 1. Three faculty members will make the decision of which poem will be used at this Ivy Day celebration.

All poems should be handed in at Ellen Smith to Mrs. Westover's office.

Girl Reserve leaders training course holds final meeting today

The final meeting of the Girl Reserve Leadership Training course will be held at 3:30 this afternoon in Ellen Smith hall. The subject to be discussed is "Camp Fire and Camp Counseling." Speakers will be Miss Fan Casford, assistant to the Camp Fire executive secretary in Lincoln, and Miss Esther Ostlund, executive secretary of the university YWCA.
