I-M debate tournament ends tonight

Delta Theta Phi meets Tappa Kegga for top oratorical honors

Delta Theta Phi and Tappa Kegga will meet tonight in the final round of the intra-mural debate tournament at the Delta Theta Phi house.

Subject of the debate is "Resolved, that the state should adopt a plan of compulsory automobile insurance to cover personal injuries."

The winner of the debate will be declared champion in the all university tournament of both organized and barb groups.

The silver gavel of Delta Sigma Rho will be awarded to Delta Sigma Phi, the fraternity winning the section championship.

Use three judges

Three judges will be used in this debate to decide the all university winner, and judging points will be skill in presenting points, subject material, and effectiveness.

Delta Theta Phi will take the affirmative side of the insurance question, while Tappa Kegga will argue for the negative. Both teams have previously lost one debate.

Tappa Kegga debaters are Hamilton Reed and Don Bursik, while Delta Theta Phi will use James Brogan and Don Farrens.

All plans and preparations for the debate, as well as the carrying out of the entire tournament has been in charge of Prof. H. White, debate coach of the varsity debate team. Pairings and dates for the debates have been made in his office. Judge have been drawn from the ranks of varsity debaters and those who have studied debate and argumentation. Often, material for the varsity debate team is revealed through intra-mural competition.

Three alumni join Marines

Former uni students to finish basic course

Lieutenants Martin E. Oelrich, Lyman D. Spurlock, and Wayne M. Cargill, all former Nebraska students, are members of the class of young Marine Corps officers who will graduate from the Basic School at Philadelphia on May 3. Later Oelrich will go aboard the USS Astoria; Spurlock to the Charleston, S. C., navy yard; and Cargill to marine barracks, Norfolk, Va.

Following their graduation from Nebraska last summer, the three men accepted commissions as 2nd Lieutenants in the Marine Corps. For the past ten months they have been attending the Basic School, where all junior officers of the Marine Corps are required to take a postgraduate course before being assigned to duty.

Oelrich, Spurlock, and Cargill were members of the ROTC unit at the university and ranked as Colonel, 2nd Lieutenant and Captain, respectively.

Regler saves lawyer-engineer effigies from public roasting

By Hubert Ogden.

Pernchance somebody may have wondered what became of the lawyer-engineer effigy and why it was not publicly burned as advertised in this paper, a DAILY reporter went to the place where it was most likely to be found—Sergeant Regler's office—for it is in this office of the campus cop where most contraband comes; feuds and subversive activities finally end.

There, stuffed in a locker was the lost dummy. What the well dressed dummy should wear, it wore. It had on white trousers, bright shirt, and canvas shoes. Across its shirt hung a plaque, "lawyers." This man-made monstrosity had been cut down from the mechanical arts building by a night policeman and brought to the police station, there to be sentenced to confinement in the locker. It is believed in official circles that this is the same figure which hung on the law building with an "engineer" sign upon it, and which was to be burned, but which disappeared.

"Pineapple" collection.

Looking around the office for other interesting things, we noticed a piece of gas pipe which

Army opens cadet exams to students

Air corps aspirants take tests this week; interviews today

Students who wish to join Uncle Sam's flying cadets may take the examinations here from Wednesday to Saturday this week, Lieutenant Chinton, advance agent, announced yesterday.

Membership in the flying cadet corps offers three months training at one of the twelve flying schools located throughout the United States, and six months at Randolph Field, the West Point of the Air.

Qualifications.

Applicants must have a junior standing by the end of this school year, be between 20 and 27 years of age, an American citizen, and single. In addition they must pass the medical examination.

The flying cadets receive $75 a month during training, as well as board, room, clothing, and medical attention. After completion of training the men receive the commission of 2nd lieutenant in the U. S. reserve air corps. They can get up to 7 years of active duty in the army, and many receive regular commissions in the army.

A board of air corps officers will give the examinations here from Wednesday to Saturday. Men interested may interview Lieutenant Chinton from 9 to 12 today in Nebraska hall.
