Registration light' says Congdon

Plan new change setup; Working students urged to sign up by Wednesday

"First day registration is lighter than previous years," A. R. Cong-don, chairman of the registration committee announced yesterday. 'We haven't pushed registration because there is no rush to pay fees since this will be done next fall."

According to present plans a new setup for changes in registration, May registrants whose fees were not paid on time, and new registrations other than freshmen, will be put in order next fall. The students will meet according to surnames as follows: A to H inclusive will be taken care of Monday, Sept. 16; I to P inclusive will be taken care of Tuesday, Sept. 17, and Q to Z in-clusive on Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Plan schedule carefully.

According to Congdon students who plan their registration carefully should not have to change it next fall and therefore have to stand in line at the Coliseum on business guild stand in line at the Coliseum on After a student has filed a registration in May, no change can be made until on the day specified

"Some sort of investigation" of Thetas Nu Epsilon, national campus so-called drinking and political fraternity, is being conducted by the university administration it appears today. University offici-als, however, refuse to comment on the matter.

Stories appearing simultaneous-y yesterday in Lincoln and Omaha daily newspapers stated that a de-stroying force, personified by Dean T. J. Thompson, has threat-ened to expel TNE members from school if each member does not donate $15 to a fund to remove TNE and another fraternity insignia from the campus.

TNE signs recently appeared on campus sidewalks and on Greek houses. The signs on the campus were made from a chalk-like paint which can be removed with a brush and water. Those on most of the houses and those of the jackass head which appeared the next night were painted on with per-manent paint, however.

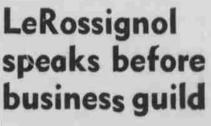

Disfiguring paint.

The most serious offense at Nebraska has been the painting of disfiguring TNE signs on every building, fraternity and sorority house, and in some cases, it is claimed, in sorority house chapter rooms. The group also has put itself into the spotlight recently with the appearance of their signs, the hanging of an illuminated pin over the orchestra stand at a large school dance, and by presenting a bouquet marked TNE to the May Queen on Ivy Day.

Just who the actual members of TNE are, is apparently unknown to most persons altho almost everyone on the mpus hears ru-mors regarding the group and has ideas as to who a few of them might be. According to yesterday's stories, tho, the TNE's say they possess no charter, so no matter how much pressure is applied to them, they can not turn it in.

Hour to play 'Bolero' today

The last Sinfonia Harmony Hour of the year featuring "Bolero" by Ravel, and Sibelius' Fifth Symphony will be held today at 4 p. m. in the faculty lounge in the Union.

Maurice Ravel, a French composer, wrote the "Bolero" for Ida Rubenstein, a dancer, and the amazing tour de force of its orchestration and its orchestral dynamics brought Ravel the most public notice that he received during his lifetime. Only one theme and an unvarying rhythm is used of the parade ceremony. Pillsbury thruout the composition,
