

Fred Waring airs new song for Huskers tonight at 9

The new Husker song by Fred Warink will be heard tonight all over the nation, when Waring's program goes on the air at 9 p. m. Two radios in the Union will be turned in for student listeners. The broadcast comes over WOW.

The radio in the ballroom will pick up the program just before the Union dance starts, and listeners will be restricted to those attending the dance. Broadcast at the same time in the Union lounge, however, is open to everyone. On ag campus, Waring will be heard as part of the annual ag college community sing.

Nebraska alumni will hear the song first hand, since those in and near New York have been invited to sit in a reserved section in the studio.

The Husker song materialized under Waring's pen after DAILY Editor deBrown requested it and sent Waring petitions bearing over 1,600 signatures.

Finals at 2 p. m.

The 13th annual cinder sport exam will have the preliminary tests run off in ten events on Friday afternoon. Those with marks good enough will qualify for the final problem—the crowning of champions—beginning at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Ag campus holds fourth Sing tonight

Greenwood, Bacon lead; German band, novelties to intersperse songs

The fourth annual Ag Campus Sing will be held this evening in the outdoor amphitheater north of the dairy industry building.

Harriet Belle Greenwood and Harold Bacon will lead the songs with Professor Bumplayer and his German band and other novelties interspersed with the group singing. The scheduled broadcast of Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians at 9, of his new Nebraska song, will climax the Sing. It will follow the Sing which is scheduled to last from 7:30 to 8:30. If the weather is bad, the program will be transferred to the college activities building.

Spring tradition.

The Sing is one of the traditions of the spring on ag campus and affords one of the last opportunities ag students, their friends, and faculty have to get together. The all-ag picnic sponsored by the home economics association will disband in time for the program.

Harry Uhrenholdt is the council member in general charge of the Sing. Mrs. Altinas Tullis, director of the ag college chorus, is assisting, and members of the chorus will attend to help with some of the numbers. Miss Grace Finch will be the accompanist.

edge as has been the custom in other years.

The assignment committee, which since yesterday has been checking all registration for limited sections, is in the YMCA offices at Temple.

ROTC brigade passes in review

Nebraska's ROTC unit passed in review for, and was inspected by, Colonel Briggs, chief ROTC officer of the Seventh Corps area, and his detachment from 3 until 5 p. m. yesterday. The entire local brigade—infantry, field artillery, motorized artillery, and engineers—participated in the inspection, examination, and parade-review.

According to Major Ayotte, adjutant, the resultant rating given to the brigade will not be known for several weeks. "In my opinion, the review was excellent, as was the inspection and general manner of the entire proceedings."

Election committee approves factions

Barb-Liberal coalition, new bizad party receive limited 'OK's' today

By Ava Wharton.

The election committee of the Student Council today passed the proposals for two new political factions, the Barb-Liberal coalition, a joining of the Barb votes to those of the Liberals, and the Bizad Independent Union, which will be a new faction coming to the polls for the first time in the election of May 23.

Cox, de Brown leave Sunday for premiere

'Typical coed' enters last lap of All-America College Queen contest

Bettie Cox, recently chosen as one of the 12 national winners in the All-American College Queen contest, and in that capacity to go to Galesburg, Ill., for the world premiere of Paramount's "Those Were the Days," was informed by Paramount in a wire yesterday that she would leave Lincoln Sunday, May 19, at 7 p. m.

The telegram stated that there would be the premiere plus a two day celebration, and another judging contest at the conclusion of the premiere activities to determine the winner of the All American College Queen crown.

To Chicago first.

Bettie, who thinks "it's quite a thrill," will go first to Chicago, and after a short stay there, will leave for Galesburg at noon Monday. In Chicago, which Bettie says, "I am going to be thrilled to see," a Paramount representative will meet her.

The Nebraska College Queen candidate will receive from Paramount Pictures and Movie and Radio Guide magazine, sponsors of the contest, free transportation and incidental expenses for her trip to and from Galesburg.

What Bettie will wear while in Galesburg was also designated in the telegram, for the many events, the premiere, the banquet, the formal dance, and all, take an extensive wardrobe.

Bettie will be accompanied by (See QUEEN COX, page 3.)

Hendrickson, Marvin get barb awards

Eleven women win pins for 100 activity points at annual spring dinner

Dave Marvin and Art Hendrickson were honored at the annual Barb Spring banquet last Friday when Marvin was chosen as the freshman to receive the first Nebraska Book Store Barb Activities Key and Hendrickson was awarded a merit key by the Barb Council as the person who had done the most for the barb organizations and the university.

Marvin, present athletic director of the Barb Union and secretary-treasurer elect of that organization next year received the gold key, donated by Johnny Johnson, manager of the Nebraska Book Store, which will become an annual award. The merit key presented by Erle Constable, president of the Barb Council, to Hendrickson is not necessarily an annual award, but is to be given only when some person is particularly deserving of such recognition. Hendrickson is president of the Barb Union, a member of the Barb Council, former editor of the Barb Bulletin, and a member of the Student Union board of managers.

Girls presented with pins as a reward for earning 100 activity points during the year were: Jean Wochner, Marilyn Barr, Dorothy Jean Bryan, Eleanor Crawford, Bettie Cox, Shirley Phelps, Jean Powell, Eunice Kensing, Shirley Kyhn, Caroline Pauley, and Lois Mae Binder. Roses were presented to girls who had earned 75 activity points.

The union of the Barbs and the Liberals in the Barb-Liberal coalition will give a new twist to the next election. The coalition, which has been contemplated for some time, is to be organized on the ratio of 7-6 and 2-1. The Liberals will be allowed seven nominees to the Student Council to every six members allowed the Barbs and two members on the Student Publication board to each one allowed the Barbs.

New bizad group.

The Bizad Independent Union, a new political faction representing the second largest college, will be allowed a representative on the Student Council for every 125 votes of major fraction thereof which are polled on their ticket, according to council rules. Therefore, it would be necessary for only 63 members of bizad college to vote on the Bizad Independent Union ticket in the forthcoming election for this new faction to secure one representative on the Student Council regardless of how many additional votes are cast by the other party. If bizad students support this new union, it will become a political faction on the campus in the same category as the Progressives and the new Liberal-Barb Union coalition.

Can be contested.

According to Marian Kidd, president of the Student Council, if any council member desires to contest the action of the council election committee in passing the proposal for these two new political factions, it will be possible to do so as there wasn't the quorum present at the meeting of the council which would have been required to give authority to the election committee. Campus political leaders who had expected the matter to be settled at the meeting in special session of the Student Council yesterday will have food for thought in this unofficial authorization. (See FACTIONS, page 5.)

Candidates for election must file by 5

Today brings deadline for entrants in next Thursday's contest

With campus politicians beginning to brew the stew in the political pot for next Thursday's election, filings for the numerous positions will close at 5 p. m. today in John K. Selleck's office.

Taking the spotlight in the coming election will be the battle for Student Council and Publications Board post between the newly formed Barb-Liberal coalition and the Progressive party. Filings will also close on ag campus at 5 today in Dean Burr's office for a series of ag positions. Included on the list of filings closing is that for positions on the Barb Council.
