Eugene "Red" Littler will be heading the Nebraska contingent. The carrot topped runner will compete in the starr - studded 440 yard dash event, his pet distance.

Big Six conference high hurdle king, Bill Smutz of Pawnee City; Edsel Wibbels, record thrower; Herb Grote, record holder in the conference javelin cast; Harold Hunt, co-champion in the pole vault; Ray Prochaska, weightman deluxe, and Harold Brooks, distance ace, are the others rounding out the list of Cornhusker competitors.

Looking to A.A.U.

A place in the national collegiate would be more than a fair tuneup for the A.A.U. track and field championships which are scheduled for Fresno, Calif., on June 28, 29 for any Husker performer.

Littler, Grote, and Wibbels have the best chances of coming home with first places, altho the others may surprise. This trip has been leading the parade with consistent results and should provide the fireworks for the Husker entries.

Delinquency—

delinquent children have been set up in Nebraska in a widely-heralded experiment in treatment and prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Future planning of the Nebraska experiment was summed up by Mr. Becker under three divisions: 1. All dependent children should be cared for in their own communities rather than being committed to state homes, the latter to be used as places for study instead of a "dumping ground." 2. Nebraska must provide state funds for foster home care before it will meet adequately the problem of providing for dependent and neglected children and reducing the cost of institutional care and the social results of allowing these children to grow up unaided. 3. Funds for the administration of social services must be available in all counties for their adequate functioning.

Dr. Hanson discussed "Community Attitudes as They Affect Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency," stating that community attitudes toward delinquents which cause most concern to welfare workers are those of rejection, revenge, and punishment. "The idea of punishment seems to be fundamental in society, and it is difficult to bring society to view juvenile delinquents as other than young criminals," stated Dr. Hanson. "The spirit of the juvenile court law is, of course, the elimination of punishment for the sake of punishment and substitutes treatment of the individual instead of the offense."

Chute also described the juvenile court and probation as the two greatest contributions of the United States to jurisprudence and an adequate system of justice. He believes that a good judge is a necessity to a first class juvenile court and that they should be specially selected with long terms of service.

The federal government has done little for the treatment of juvenile delinquency altho the Federal Juvenile Delinquency Act passed by congress in 1938 is making a good start in that direction.

Golf film shows tonight

Professionals, amateurs, and duffers are all invited to attend the free showing of a golf film, tonight in Parlors A and B of the Union.

The picture starts at 7:30 and describes the essential techniques and fine points of golf. The feature lasts thirty-five minutes.

Dr. L. R. Conrad, educational supervisor of the federal reformatory at El Reno, Texas, told more than 50 persons registered for the conference.

"Federal work of the last two years has been toward amelioration of formal procedure of the criminal court for juveniles, reducing to a minimum their detention in correctional institutions intended for adults, and eliminating the stigma of being classified as criminals," Dr. Conrad stated.

On the conference committee who planned the two-day event were: Harry Becker, director, child welfare, department of assistance and child welfare, state board of control, Lincoln; Oswald "Oz" Black, commercial artist, Lincoln; Dr. Frank Z. Glick, director, Graduate School of Social Work, University of Nebraska, Lincoln; R. D. Moritz (ex officio), director of the summer session, University of Nebraska, Lincoln; Mrs. Maud Nquist, state board of control, Lincoln; Judge John L.
