Ex-student journalists join staff of New York City's PM

Nebraska U. is represented by three former students on New York City's new and different daily newspaper, PM. William McCleary, Howard Allaway and Don Hollenbeck, one-time student journalists, are included on the staff of PM, which features condensed news and no advertising.

McCleary is photo editor of the new publication. He was graduated from the University in 1931 where he was editor of the Daily Nebraskan and a member of Innocents, Sigma Delta Chi, Kosmet Klub, and Beta Theta Pi. A native of Blue Hill, Neb., he worked on the Omaha World-Herald as feature writer immediately after graduation. He then was employed by the Hearst newspapers until 1933 when he joined the Associated Press. At the time he resigned from the AP in 1938 he was picture and comics editor and head of the feature service in New York City.

Allaway, an assistant photo editor on PM, was graduated from Nebraska in 1933. While in school he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Delta Chi, Innocents, and Sigma Phi Sigma. Formerly of Homer, Neb., he worked for a time after graduation on the Wynot Tribune which his father published. After doing graduate study at Columbia University in 1935, he joined the Associated Press in New York City in 1937 and became feature and photo editor.

Hollenbeck, also a PM photo editor, left the University in 1928 and worked on the Lincoln Journal and Omaha Bee-News before becoming photo editor for the Associated Press at San Francisco.

Another University of Nebraska graduate, Marion H. Stanley of the class of 1926, also was associated with PM while the publication was in its formative stage. As a senior executive he did publication research for the new paper in 1938, leaving in 1939 to become managing editor of the Hartford, Conn., Newsdaily, another new paper which is printed by offset. The Newsdaily suspended publication June 14 after 89 issues with the promise of beginning daily publishing again in September. Earlier in his career, Stanley was employed by the Lincoln Star, Omaha World-Herald and the Associated Press in Atlanta, Ga., London, England, and New York City. He was for a short time Paul McNutt's publicity manager in his presidential campaign.

Four dairymen go to Indiana meet

Four members of the dairy husbandry department are taking part in the 36th annual meeting of the American Dairy Science association at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, which began Monday and continues till Friday. Making the trip are Prof. H. P. Davis, chairman of the department, and Profs. P. A. Downs, L. K. Crowe, and G. K. L. Underbjerg. The Nebraska men present three papers at the meeting. "Fecundity and Certain Other Characteristics of Fresh and Stored Bovine Semen" will be read by Professor Underbjerg who collaborated on writing it with Professors Davis and C. W. Trimberger. Professor Crowe will read "Fresh and Frozen Plain Super-heated and Sweetened Condensed Skim Milk for Ice Cream," which he wrote with V. H. Deane and W. H. Winn when the latter were graduate students at the college of agriculture. Professor Downs will read his paper on "A Survey of the Objectionable Feed Flavors in Milk Throughout the North American Continent."

Work on the fall semester is already underway in the junior division headquarters where Dr. Nels A. Bengtson, the division's dean, has gathered his board of counselors to examine the applications for admission to the university already coming in from the state's high school graduates. Inevitable policy of the counseling board, according to Dr. Bengtson, is most and best advice to the freshmen who enter their applications first.

Scanning Thru the Sportscope

BY JIM EVINGER.

Two Nebraska sophomores were the chief point winners for the Husker track entry at Minneapolis last weekend in the N. C. A. A. meet... Redheaded Gene Littler and Herb Grote both came up with second places in their respective events while Edsel Wibbels and Harold Hunt were among the point makers to round out the Cornhusker total...

Littler finished a half stride behind Lee Orr of Washington State in the finals of the 440 yard dash in the time of 47.3... The lap was run on a track covered by rain... In the prelims, the Husker speedster had the fastest qualifying time of 47.8...

Grote cast the javelin some 202 feet, while the winner had a toss of two feet more and that effort came on the winner's last throw... The turf was slippery and Grote was not able to get up full steam on his run that lessened some of the power in his throws...

Surprising was the failure of Freddie Wolcott, the blond adonis of the hurdle races from Rice, to slam the highs and lows... The champion was trying for his third meet victory, but lost out to Ed Dugger of Tufts...

"Lonesome John" Munski of Missouri brought honors to the Big Six in winning the mile, beating out Louie Zamperini of Southern California who was the pre-meet favorite... Clyde Jeffrey of Stanford failed to live up to his newly acquired title of the "fastest human" when Norman Ewell of Penn State showed him to the tape in the dashes... The time in the century was 9.6...

No Nebraskans will be entered in the A. A. U. track and field meet held this weekend in Fresno, Calif... Thusly, the Huskers will not be able to defend their junior A. A. U. crown which they won in Lincoln a year ago...

Still referring to track: The trials that were to be held on July 12-13 in Los Angeles for the 1940 Olympic squad to represent the United States have now been canceled because of the war...

One game of national prominence that will be played, however, is the All-Star baseball game between American and National league stars... This year, St. Louis will do the honors... July 9 is the date with the battle scheduled for 1:30 p. m. (Lincoln time)... If postponement is necessary, it will be played at 9 a. m. the following day...
