Dear Mr. Lentz:

The consensus seems to be that Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Charlie Barnett and company can take care of the swing and dance music. We appreciate your work and think you're doing a fine job in every respect save one. The student section and the crowd wanted NEBRASKA songs yesterday... at least a lot more of them than you played. How about it?

Dear Mr. Cheerleader:

The Gallup poll didn't tell us, but you fell asleep yesterday. The count seems to be about 100 to 1 that you forgot about leading cheers. The crowd didn't wait for you, however. It looks as tho the kids can cheer whether you're out in front or not. But your presence there, traditional only as it was yesterday, is supposed to practical also. Right? Okay... next game, different tune.

UN architect... With NYA help, plans color chart

To replace the German color chart now in standard use among artists, Prof. Marvin Robinson of the architectural department has commissioned several NYA students to make a corresponding American chart.

Approximately 30,000 standard colors are filed in the German chart with tabs which the painter or decorator may consult. The colors are those in standard use yet are mixed with German pigments which are not generally known and sometimes unavailable in this country.

Professor Robinson with his student workers intends to match by experimentation the German colors, using American pigments. These color cards will be filed with the ingredients listed on the back of the tab. The project should be completed by the end of the school term, Robinson said.

One American paint company has produced a color chart, but its chart fits only for its own brand of paint. This color index, available to students or anyone in the community, will be one of the first complete American pigmented charts in the country.

ready to add their talents to the game when their fast tiring teammates puffed out of the game. In other words, the DAILY nine played the entire game—naturally.

Svoboda hurt.

The injury bugaboo snapped at the Red team when Swishy Swashy Svoboda, key man on the team, was carried from the game with a fractured nose. Reports from Lincoln General hospital today said his condition was "not critical"—naturally.

Cavalcade Kerrigan was not there to give inspiration and as a result Rammer Rundin of the Cornhusker played such a sloppy game that he was a menace to both teams since he was always getting in the way of the DAILY team and topped his efforts by tackling one of his own men when he was free on a touchdown play.

Team acclaimed.

Meanwhile, sports editors over the country today, are acclaiming the DAILY team as one of the spunkiest, fightingest, and smoothest aggregations in the country. Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune sports editor, declared of the team, "It was a moral victory for the DAILY for even though the score on the board read 2 to 6, the Rag nine so completely outplayed the Cornhusker that the total yardage gained would give them a 12 to 2 victory—naturally."

The great DAILY team had all the outstanding men on the field—naturally. A few of the potential All-Americans were Hatcher Head Harris, Man Mauler Martz, Sizzler Segrist, Psychopaths Peterson, Swishy Swashy Svoboda, Lightning Lewis and Ambidextrous Anawalt, Star Reporters, George Abbott, Bill Palmer, and Paul Dinnis, all spiked by the presence of Jim Evinger, the DAILY'S Grantland Rice—naturally.

They... st...!

The other team, the yearbookies, didn't have anybody outstanding, naturally, although Editor Axe Man Aden, Business Manager Flat Foot Forke, and Managing Editor Snuggles Stewart played about the worst—naturally.

This is strictly a non-partisan account of the battle you understand—naturally.

And now, the hotly contested trophy, one hatchet (57c at Dishberg's hardware) lies in the hands of the Cornhusker staff. It will be duly inscribed, and will rest in the yearbook trophy case for the next 12 months.

A fascist ideal.

"Regimentation," he said, "under the guise of unification, is only a part of the fascist ideal which is being thrust upon us and, in the name of defense, rushing us to war. I don't think war is inevitable, however," and he added ruefully, "a big socialist vote would help."

As for Russia, Mr. Thomas spoke about his disillusionment in Russia and the plan it supposes to use.

Stalin biding time.

"Stalin," he asserted, "is biding his time. He waited, believing all the time, that Trotsky would make a slip, and took his chance when he did. He waited until it was time to purge his enemies without upsetting his political system. He will wait until the world smashes up, when communism will put it together again. An alliance with
