

Louis Panico brings laughing trumpet for Cob-Tassel tussle

The Old World lost a brilliant musician when Louis Panico, at the age 12, decided to leave Naples, Italy, his birthplace, and seek his fortune in the United States.

For Panico, who brings his orchestra to the coliseum for the annual Corn Cob-Tassel homecoming party Oct. 26, had even then shown flashes of genius which were to win acclaim for him in his unique trumpet interpretations of both popular and semi-classical tunes.

Revolution in music.

With the outbreak of the first World war, came a revolution in the type of music preferred by the public and Panico's foresight led him to change his style of music entirely. He soon began playing in orchestras around Chicago and shortly after the war assembled his own organization which has been featured over CBS and NBC for several years.

"Wabash Blues," Panico's theme song since his advent as leader of his own band, has been made popular through his clever "laughing trumpet," which he perfected soon after his arrival in the United States.

For his appearance in the coliseum Oct. 26, he will bring with him the same array of radio stars who were featured with him in Chicago.

Church groups sponsor outings

The Presbyterian Student Fellowship will have a steak fry Friday evening. Cars will leave the Presbyterian student center, 333 No. 14th, at 5:30 and 6 p. m., and will return there to finish the evening with games in the recreation room. Tickets may be purchased any time at the Student Center.

A retreat in the form of an outing has been organized for all Lutheran students. Those interested should appear at the Temple at 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, where transportation will be waiting. The Rev. Hinkhouse will be in charge of the program which will follow a dinner.

Uni library to house federal, state documents in new room

Publications made easily available

The library has opened a new documents room to house the university's collection of federal, state, foreign and League of Nations publications. Dr. R. A. Miller, director of university libraries, announced yesterday.

"In these critical times, when vital political and social history is being made by the action of governments, it is essential that the publications of governments be made easily available to students," stated Dr. Miller, who cited in his last annual report the great immediate need of a separate documents service to handle the thousands of documentary pieces received by the library each year.

Miss Ruby C. Wilder, formerly assistant references librarian, has been appointed head of the documents department where her duties will be to give assistance in the location of documents, to make them more accessible, to build up the collection, and to serve as a center of information for all documents in the university libraries. Taking Miss Wilder's place as assistant reference librarian is Frank Egan, formerly reference librarian in the Mary Reed library at Denver University.

The university library has been a government depository for federal documents since July 1, 1883, and receives practically all federal publications. Everything published by Nebraska state offices is being collected and a miscellaneous assortment of reports from other states is on hand.

League publications.

The library has received all League of Nations publications since 1929. Among the foreign documents are many from South America and the recent developments toward a union of the nations of the western hemisphere indicate that there will be increased interest in the publications of these nations, Miss Wilder believes.

The documents room is located in room 310 of library hall and is open to the public from 8 to 12 and 1 to 5 except Saturday when the hours are 8 to 12.

Uni library buys 19 books

Of special interest to students interested in athletics, particularly football is a book recently purchased by the university library entitled, "Football Through the Years," by Dean Hill. Other volumes new on the shelves include:

- Time and Exposure, by W. H. Jackson.
- Triumph of American Capitalism, by L. M. Hacker.
- The Ring is Closed, by Knut Hamsun.
- Norrs are Spinning, by Anreas Haukland.
- Origin of the Icelandic Family Sagas, by Knut Liestol.
- Waiting: A Survey of Social Life, by Ruth Durant.
- Bolingbroke and Walpole, by J. M. Robertson.
- Sun and Storm, by Unto Seppaneu.
- Hawaiian Mythology, by M. W. Beckwith.
- Rural Life in Process, by P. H. Landis.
- Music, Its Secret Influence, by Cyril Scott.
- Von Weimer Eu Hitler, by Otto Braun.
- Poetry of Matthew Arnold, by C. B. Tinker & H. F. Lowry.
- The Gift to be Simple, by E. D. Andrews.
- Oxford Book of Christian Verse, ed. by Lord D. Cecil.
- Football Thru the Years, by Dean Hill.
- Artists of the Dance, by Lillian Moore.
- Triumph of Willie Pond, by C. B. Slade.

Bob Hawk, master of ceremonies on the CBS "Take It or Leave It" program, at 19 turned down a teaching job at Northwestern college, Alva, Okla.

Grads take posts with marine corps

Robert A. Nelson of Omaha and William R. Williams of Columbus, Nebraska graduates, have been ordered to Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., for advanced flight training with the U. S. marine corps.

Cadets Nelson and Williams completed elimination flight training with the marine corps reserve aviation unit, Fairfax airport, Kansas City, in August. They were selected for flight training from the university.

The two men plan to apply for commissions in the marines after finishing the course at Pensacola.
