Reserves play big part as Kansans wilt under eight-marker avalanche

(By special wire to DAILY NEBRASKAN)

By Jim Evinger.

Memorial Stadium, Lawrence, Kas.—Kansas had a little surprise party cooked up for Nebraska Saturday, but the Cornhuskers put on an act of their own to swamp the Jayhawkers, 53-2, here before 15,000 fans.

All week, the boys from down here on the Kaw river had planned an upset of Nebraska. However, the Huskers reversed the surprise and walked over the Kansans by eight touchdowns.

Reserves played an important part in the game as the first team scored once in the opening period and twice in the third quarter. Second, third and fourth stringers carried the mail in the other cantos in great style.

The Jayhawks were keyed up at the start of the game and then wilted in the second quarter when the Scarlet avalanche started to roll.

Summary.

A summary of the touchdown scoring reads like this:

Number 1—Forest Behm and Co-captain Ray Prochaska blocked Ed Suage's punt on the Kansas 8. Three plays later, Vike Francis plunged over from the 1. The Viscount added the extra point from placement. The counter came with seven minutes gone in the period.

Number 2—Harry Hopp raced 41 yards to the Jayhawk's 4 as the

Ruth Ann Sheldon is queen of Farmers' Ball

By Ralph S. Combs.

Amidst a panorama of corn, spotlights, gingham, and overalls, pretty brownette, Ruth Ann Sheldon was presented as Queen of the annual Farmers' Formal in the ag activities building last night.

A picturesque presentation was the highlight of the ball. Two by two the attendants, the other girls who filed for the honor, marched onto the pedestal and each removed a husk from the huge ear of corn, disclosing the newly elected queen.

Twenty-year old Queen Sheldon made her appearance in an ensemble of autumn colors—a white blouse and a brilliant yellow checked skirt. The Queen was met at the head of the stairs by Glenn Thacker, her escort, and she marched down the aisle followed by her attendants.

The building was done in a rustic and rural fashion—bales of hay, fences, and corn. The overhead canopy of a flock of ducks flying south added the most minute touch.

Sternie Sternberg's orchestra played for the approximately 500 farmers and farmerettes dressed in overalls, cowboy hats, brilliant socks, gingham dresses, hair-ribbons and sun-bonnets.

The queen's attendants wore outfits similar to the rural royalty—five of them in white blouses and green checked skirts, and the other four in white blouses and tan checked skirts. This color scheme carried out the theme of the entire dance—tan and green, symbolic of the autumn harvest and Nebraska's golden fields.

The nine attendants were Dora Baisinger, Mildred Bauder, Helen Claybaugh, Ida Schweiger, Betty Jo Smith, Margaret Chraikill, Alberta Timmas, Sylvia Zochell, and Rhoda Chesley.

Editor reveals Flash contents as campus awaits publication

Action shots of student life bulwark of new mag

"Candid pictures taken between midnight and 1 a. m., outside sorority houses the past three weeks may cause some mild sensations when Flash, ex-Awgwan, hits the campus Monday morning," George Frischer, editor, predicted Saturday. There may even be some changes in a few of the well-established romantic couples, he said.

Distribution stands will be set up at social science and Andrews hall for the distribution of individual subscriptions. Individual copies and subscriptions can be purchased at the same places.

Humor included.

Besides the campus pictures, a special eight-page section devoted to humorous stories, cartoons, and jokes will be featured. Some of the material in the old Awgwan will be eliminated because of the limited space.

Action shots of the Cornhuskers on and off the gridiron, pictures of student groups listening to radio accounts of Nebraska games, and shots of intramural football play will be run.

Wilson first to have pic snapped

Robert Wilson, ag college senior, awoke on the morn' of Sept. 30, trotted down to the Townsend studios and thus gained the "honor" of being the first student to have his picture taken for the 1941 Cornhusker.

A second industrious lad awoke a few days later and did approximately the same thing. He was Robert Ordisono, teachers college junior.

Since then 39 students have awakened to the fact that Cornhusker pictures are underway.

The rest of the campus is apparently still asleep.
