

Innocents study parking

By Chris Petersen.

With power vested in them by the university, members of Innocents society announced today that they will begin their drive to clear campus parking spaces for students this coming week when they will circulate petitions over the campus calling for a system of stickers for student cars.

With the parking situation becoming more and more acute since parking meters in the downtown area have caused Lincoln shoppers and businessmen to park their cars on and near the campus, the system will entail the issuing of stickers at a minimum cost to all students driving cars. These stickers will allow students to park their cars anywhere on the campus other than those areas set aside for the faculty. Cars without stickers will first be given warning tickets and then tickets carrying a fine.

The university, thru its power to regulate university grounds, also has the power to regulate and restrict parking as it sees fit. This power has been vested in the Innocents in order that they may attempt to clear up the parking congestion problem.

Petitions will go out to the students this coming week to enlist them in the movement. Heretofore, lack of student interest in such a project has not warranted a change. However, according to Robert Aden, president, if the student body will back the men's honorary in its efforts and assure it full cooperation, the plan will go into effect soon after the petitions are signed.

Investigations on the part of the campus police force have revealed, according to Sergeant Regler, that a great number of cars which belong in downtown parking areas are parked on the campus. The head of the campus police force pointed out the fact that the number of cars parked on and around the campus on Saturdays is the best indication of the situation as it stands.

The first step in the direction of clearing up the campus parking situation has already been taken for members of the faculty in that they have special license plates which entitle them to park in that area north of social sciences which is reserved solely for that purpose.

According to Aden, if the plan of student stickers is put into force, faculty members will be given tickets for parking in areas other than those set aside for them.

Coeds to choose Prince Kosmet at fall election

Men select Nebraska Sweetheart

Prince Kosmet, attendant to the Nebraska Sweetheart at the Kosmet Klub fall review, will be selected by the coeds of the campus this year instead of by the Kosmet Klub as in former years. There will be no filling for the post of Prince Kosmet, and no qualifications except that he cannot be a member of Kosmet Klub.

Prince Kosmet will present the Nebraska Sweetheart, to be elected by the men of the campus, at the annual Kosmet Klub fall review which will be held at the Nebraska theater, Saturday afternoon, November 16.

Any coed who has attended the university for at least two semesters with not less than 27 hours credit is eligible to file for Sweetheart. All women interested should file with Leo Cooksley or Carl Harnsberger in the Kosmet Klub office, or at the Union sometime next week.

Prince Kosmet and the Nebraska Sweetheart will both be elected at the fall election Nov. 12.

29 year old celebration begins today

First event of weekend festivities is Corn Cob homecoming luncheon

Students and alumni will stage the largest homecoming celebration in the history of the 29 year old tradition this weekend as thousands return to the university campus for the Missouri-Husker football game. Amid the color of traditional decorations of fraternity and sorority houses, numerous luncheons, banquets, dances and reunions will be held along with the mammoth bonfire rally tonight.

Activities will get officially underway this noon with a rally luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce sponsored by Corn Cobs, men's pep club. Speakers at the luncheon will be John Bentley, sports editor of the Lincoln Journal; A. J. Lewandowski, Husker

Homecoming displays near completion

Will announce winners at Cob-Tassel dance tomorrow night

With homecoming decorations entries of all the sororities and residence halls and 16 fraternities nearing completion, the campus will blaze with lights and color tonight.

Judging in the Innocent-sponsored contest will begin at 7 this evening. Delta Gamma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, holders of the awards for last year, may have stiff competition for this year's cup as leaders of many organized houses predict the largest and most unusual displays ever used on this campus.

Announcement of the winners will be made at the Corn Cob-Tassel dance Saturday evening. The judges are Terry Townsend, Rev. Harold Gosnell, R. J. Ernesti of Miller and Paine and Joe Miller of the Andrew-Newens advertising agency.
