

Tiger fray may settle conference

all 200 pounds of him, will attempt to get in somebody's hair Saturday afternoon.
Of course, Nebraska's Cornhuskers will naturally attempt to foil the plot that is being hatched in the collective minds of the followers of young Mr. Christman.
The Cornhuskers can recall earlier visits and tussles with this same Christman. In 1938, the Huskers lost 13 to 10 to the Tigers. Last year, the Huskers were on the short end of a 27 to 13 verdict at Columbia.
So, old number 44 will be out there pitching and running both on the ground and off the mouth against the Huskers Saturday.
Outside of Christman, Coach Don Faurot has a colorful assortment of trained but not so tame Tigers. Among the other Bengals performing in the center ring will be Captain Jack Crocker, end and guard, who heads the front line of charging Tigers.

list: Harry "Slippery" Ice, sophomore quarterback who is a very capable substitute for Pitchin' Paul, Jim Starmer who can skirt the ends with the best of them, and a blocker by the name of Jerry Notowitz of first degree caliber.
Injuries.

They may be tall tales, but press notices from Tigerland report that the Missouri lineup is riddled by injuries. Chief casualty is Bob Stueber, first year end, who has been receiving the greater share of Christman's passes this fall.
Now, Nebraska isn't without a hospital list, either. You could add Hermie Rohrig, star triple threat, to this list. His starting in the battle Saturday is still probable. Rohrig worked out Thursday in sweat clothes.

Quarterback Bus Knight and Allen Zikmund, halfback, are also taking practices light with weak ankles. Outside of these minor injuries, the Husker squad will be in top physical shape for the Tigers.

The Missouri squad will arrive in Lincoln Friday night at 9 p. m. via the Missouri Pacific. The Tiger clan will stay overnight in Lincoln, while the Huskers will take a jaunt down to Camp Ashland for the night to avoid the pre-game excitement.

To insure a hard footing for the game, the huge field cover was placed on the stadium sod after practice, Thursday night, in case of any rain which might come up.
Probable starting lineups:

Roy Kahler	Wakeman
Schwartzkopf	Siskka

Alfson	Ellis

Golf, tennis near I-M final rounds

Fraternity intramural tennis and golf contests are headed toward championship games. In the tennis field, Delta Tau Delta is awaiting the lower bracket semifinal game between Phi Gamma Delta and Beta Theta Pi. The Delts went to the finals as the result of their victory over Delta Upsilon. Phi Gamma Delta defeated Zeta Beta Tau to gain their place while their opponents, Beta Theta Pi, went ahead as they won a bye.
Golf is not progressing as rapidly as tennis, however, with only one team in the finals and the semifinals teams not yet determined. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is already in the finals and Alpha Sigma Phi has to play Beta Sigma Pi while Phi Delta Theta must meet Sigma Nu to see who goes into the next round.
As soon as the champions are determined the two teams which went to the semifinals have a chance to battle it out for the consolation trophy.

Phi Delts win top I-M football tilt Thursday night

Barb intramural football went to extremes Thursday afternoon, with scores ranging from a 26-0 shellacking to two games decided in overtime periods. There were four barb games and one postponed fraternity game played. For the postponed game Phi Delta Theta decided to throw some passes and won 19-0 over Phi Sigma Kappa in league 2.
In league 4 barb games, Mad Russians flaunted past Pioneer Coop and won 14-0. Waskiewicz was the appropriately named star for the winners. In the other game in this league Stratford Club bowled over Omega Club to win by the afternoon's largest score, 26-0.
Both games in league 5 were very close and decided by overtime periods. Termites managed to place the ball farther in their four downs than did Tappa Nu Keggs to gain the decision. Y. M. C. A. simply outlasted the struggling Union Leaders and so got credit for the win.
Fraternity football is entering its closing stages now, with postponed games being played every night in an effort to determine the winners in the different leagues. Wednesday's results first in fraternity games and lastly in barb games: Sigma Gamma Epsilon over Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 6-0; Eta Beta Pi rolled by KKK 40-0 in league 3; Galloping Ghosts outplayed Davis Hall, 7-6. The schedule for Friday night:

LEAGUE 1
Baldwin Hall vs. Browning Club at 5:00.
AEI vs. Brown Palace at 5:00.
LEAGUE 2
Buckingham Hornets vs. Cornhusker Coop at 5:00.
A.G. Col. Cafeteria vs. Cornshellers at 5:00.
