

Rally tonight heightens spirit for Hawkeye tilt

Students march' yell in stadium

Rally features Armistice Day; former Husker star Morris Benedict to talk

With the cry of "Blackeye the Hawkeye" on their lips thousands of students will march to the stadium in a huge torchlight parade tonight for a gigantic rally highlighted by a special Armistice Day feature.

The Armistice Day feature is dedicated to the ex-service men of Lincoln and university authorities today extended an invitation to attend the rally to all townspeople. Included in the feature will be the firing of three volleys of a salute to the war dead, the sounding of taps by a bugle with an echo, a fireworks display featuring the

Harnsberger talks to AWS

Innocent tells work of dramatic organization

Kosmet Klub was the subject of a talk given by Carl Harnsberger to the freshman AWS yesterday. Carl stated that since Kosmet Klub was founded in 1911, it has been active all but four years. The Fall Revue featuring Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet, the spring musical comedy with an all men cast, and the interfraternity sing are sponsored by the Klub. The mask pin, emblem of the organization was designed by one of its first members.

Lincoln Journal. Carl Harnsberger.

Betty O'Shea discussed the scholarships and loans available to freshman women. She mentioned the Mortar Board short-term loans as being of particular advantage to those girls who need money for some emergency.

Prove your ability at Union amateur show

So you've got ants in your pants and can't dance. Well, maybe you can sing, so why not try to prove it at the Union amateur show to be held in the ballroom Nov. 17. Any student wishing to appear must register in the Union checkstand before Monday, according to Pat Lahr, social chairman.

The show, the first amateur hour open to all students, is being sponsored by the Union to give talented students a chance to perform, and to publicize them for entertaining at other campus activities. Students possessing any kind of talent are invited to register for appearance on the show.

Contestants will be judged by an applause meter, and three prizes of $6, $4 and $2 will be presented to the winners. If a group of entertainers wins the contest, they will split the prize money awarded for their act.

Selleck expects crowd of 34,000 for Iowa game

"If the weather is nice," said John K. Selleck, business manager of the athletic department, "there will be a crowd of about 34,000 people at the game this Saturday." And over 2,900 of them will be loyal Iowa rooters.

The ticket office announces that there are still 3,000 seats available in the stadium plus the 5,000 bleacher seats which will be turned into general admission.

Nebraska faces Iowa Saturday

Huskers favorite over long traditional rivals; Enich captains Hawks

Nebraska Minute Men—en garde!

Latest reports from the enemy of the Tall Corn country are that the Iowa Hawkeyes are ready to cross the Missouri river and partake in the duel with our Huskers in Memorial stadium starting at 2 p. m., Saturday afternoon.

A Paul Revere we may be, but our Huskers have now been so warned about the approaching Hawks. The danger is near and we seconds for the Husker cause are behind the Scarlet 100 percent.

The Huskers can aptly be called Minute Men. For you see, the Iron Hawks are called 60 Minute Men. (See GAME, page 6.)

Grimes, Lawrence to address 500 high school journalists

George Grimes

J. E. Lawrence

Five hundred young journalists from 50 Nebraska high schools will gather on the university campus today and tomorrow for the annual Nebraska High School Press Association convention.

Guest speakers will be George Grimes, managing editor of the Omaha World-Herald, who will address the convention banquet tonight, and J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, who will talk on "The Peace to Be Drawn After This War" before a general meeting tomorrow morning. Lucile Thomas, and Clyde Martz, managing editors of the DAILY, will discuss the merits of college journalism.

Registration begins this morning at 8 in the Union where all meetings will be held. Progress features include a news writing contest this morning sponsored by the Nebraska chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity; a special edition of the DAILY NEBRASKAN, put out today by visiting high school journalists; an exhibit of Nebraska high school papers; tours through plants of the Lincoln Star and Journal, the capitol, Morrill hall, and other points of interest in the city; a convention dance tonight; and attendance at the Iowa-Nebraska football game tomorrow afternoon.

Thru its power to regulate university grounds, the university also has the power to regulate and restrict parking as it sees fit. This power has been vested in the Innocents in order that they might attempt to clear up the parking problem.

"We can solve the congested parking condition," assured Mason, Innocent vice-president, "thru efficient and thoro administration of the plan, and with the complete cooperation of university students."

Daily will question students on three proposals Tuesday

Editor Harris asks everyone to vote 'yes' for innovations

Filings for fall election close today at 5

Eleven students elected Tuesday to fill vacancies; polls open 8 a. m.-9 p. m.

Eleven students will be elected Tuesday to fill the important offices of: Prince Kosmet, Nebraska Sweetheart, prom-committee, senior class president, junior class president and Honorary Colonel in the basement of the Union on the city campus, and in the office of Dean W. W. Burr on the ag campus. Polls will be open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.

All filings must be in the office of John Selleck by 5 o'clock tonight. Offices and eligible voters are listed below:

Prince Kosmet: Candidates are senior men and are elected by all coeds.

Nebraska Sweetheart: Any coed with 27 hours credit at Nebraska, elected by all male students.

Honorary Colonel: Senior women, elected by all students.

Prom committee: Consists of three junior men and three junior women and the elected junior class president; elected by all juniors and seniors.

To sound out student opinion concerning further use of coliseum facilities, the organization of co-operative houses, and universal student subscription to the DAILY, the NEBRASKAN will submit a questionnaire to every student voter in the election Tuesday.

Norman Harris, DAILY editor, before leaving for Detroit, urged that all students back the proposals in the questionnaire. If the poll results are in favor of the innovations, the DAILY will institute a drive to carry out the changes.

Barb men only will be asked if they would be interested in eating at a co-operative house for charges of $16 to $20 per month or if they would pay $22 to $25 per month for room and board in a co-op house. The proposal drew out of the extensive survey conducted by the DAILY last semester in which all boarding and rooming facilities on the campus were checked and investigated by reporters.

Use of coliseum.

All men will be questioned as to whether they now use coliseum facilities for workouts, swimming pool and showers, and whether they would be willing to pay fees (See PROPOSAL, page 2.)

Collins invites students to see eclipse of sun

All university students who would like to see the transit of Mercury across the sun's disk next Monday are welcome to come to the observatory between 3 and 4 Monday afternoon and look at it thru the telescope, announces Professor O. C. Collins of the observatory.

Only nine transits of Mercury will take place during the remainder of this century. Except for the one in 1973 the one this year will be the best for scientific observations. The last transit took place in 1927 and the next will be in 1953. Mercury will cross the edge of the sun at 2:49 Monday afternoon. The egress of Mercury from the sun will not be visible in North America.

Professor Collins is planning to make an observation of the exact time at which Mercury passes in front of the sun. Observations of this time will be made all over the country and from them an accurate time of the ingress of Mercury can be calculated.

Armistice gives students extra day for weekend

Students are making plans this week for an extra long weekend as Monday, Armistice Day, will be recognized as an official university holiday, according to a bulletin from the office of the dean of student affairs. All classes, laboratory and recitation sessions will be suspended Monday, and all offices and libraries will be officially closed. The Union, however, will remain open. No Saturday classes will be dismissed and classes will begin again at 8 a. m. Tuesday morning.

Military uniform now available

Uniforms for Junior Advanced Course military science students are now available, according to an announcement made yesterday by the military department. Distribution of the uniforms will begin at 9 a. m. today.

1100 O. K. parking proposal

With over 1,100 students already voicing their approval of the Innocents parking proposal by signing the petitions that have been circulating on the campus for the past week, Bob Aden, Innocentius, stated that the petitions would be presented to L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent, for action.

Almost all of the petitions have been collected and there has been no comment whatsoever disfavoring the proposal to relieve parking congestion on the campus due to the installation of parking meters in the downtown district of Lincoln.

Suggest improvements.

However, several suggestions were made to improve the "sticker plan," namely that parking restrictions be lifted on days when there are many people visiting the university. Such instances are football games, basketball games, teachers conventions and other occasions when the campus attracts a great number of visitors. Another suggestion, that there should be no two hour parking limit on the south side of R, 10th to 14th, was made.

The proposal was again made that one of the mauls should be graveled and opened up for parking, but action on this plan seems very unlikely, according to the Innocents. A further suggestion was that there should be a standing area set aside for visitors.

"Sticker plan."

The "sticker plan" as it was presented entailed the issuing of stickers at a maximum cost of 10 cents to all students driving cars. These stickers would allow students to park their cars anywhere on the campus other than those areas set aside for the faculty and possibly campus guests. Cars without stickers would first be given warning tickets and then tickets carrying fines.

Thru its power to regulate university grounds, the university also has the power to regulate and restrict parking as it sees fit. This power has been vested in the Innocents in order that they might attempt to clear up the parking problem.

"We can solve the congested parking condition," assured Mason, Innocent vice-president, "thru efficient and thoro administration of the plan, and with the complete cooperation of university students."
