In 1939, many of these present squad members played all of the games. By doing so they earned the appropriate cognomen of 60 Minute Men.

In this respect the Huskers may rightly be called Minute Men as they play only every other quarter in most of the games.

Green-Iowa star.

Leading the Hawkeyes is Bill Green, junior fullback, who from his fullback position leads the Big Ten (or Nine) ground gainers in yardage and is tied for the conference lead in individual scoring.

Captaining the Hawks is "Iron Mike" Enich, a red-hot contender for All-American honors at tackle. Enich is week in and week out a power of strength in breaking down enemy would-be blockers. Nebraska tackles "King Kong" Kahler and Forrest Behm will have their hands full.

Chief problem confronting the mind of Dr. Eddie Anderson, Iowa coach, is that he must find a triple threat that will spark the ball club in the manner which Nile Kinnick did in 1939.

Youel improves.

Newest passer of note worthy ability is Jim Youel, sophomore, who seems to be coming into his own if the passing performance he carried on last week against Purdue is any indication.

The Hawks have been troubled with finding a steady left half-back all season, but Youel may be the spark they need. Other sophomores tried in that left half post have been Bill Stauss, Tom Farmer and Bob Bender.

The remainder of the backfield is one of fancy note. Burdell "Oops" Gilleard and Bill Gallagher can handle their own respect of the enemy on their reverse runs. The quarterbacks—Al Couppee and Jerry Ankeny—are heady field generals.

have the spark necessary to put the ball across.

Fitz stars.

Farm House gave their opponents a scare in the fourth quarter when Don Fitz, after catching a punt, ran toward the right side line and then threw a long backward pass to a team mate who was out in the open and who carried the ball down to the Phi Delt five. The play was called back by the officials, ruling it a forward pass. Every time the boys from the Farm House would get a drive started Phi Delta Theta would end it with a pass inter-

Phi Delt's enter I-M football final beating Farm House, 6-0; to battle Sig Eps next week

A new fraternity intramural champion will be in the offing when Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Phi Epsilon get together in their final match the first part of next week. The Phi Delt's measured Farm House in their semi-final game Thursday afternoon by a score of 6-0.

The winners represented league 2 while Farm House was league 1's representative. The other finalist team, Sigma Phi Epsilon, won from Beta Theta Pi 20-7 in their game Wednesday. So either the Sig Eps or Phi Delt's will carry the intramural football trophy for this year.

The game between Phi Delta Theta and Farm House was a closely fought one all the way with the winners showing a slight superiority thruout. The Phi Delt's gained their score in the first quarter when Joe Ryan faded back and tossed a long pass into the arms of John Hay who scampered to the promised land. From then on the game was a toss-up but Farm House did not seem to ception or stopping them for four downs.

For the winners Ryan and Hay played a whale of a game in the back field with Bill Weigel, Bob Poe and Harty Goetze doing good work in the forward wall. Farm House was led by the passing of Fitz and John Fitzgibbon and by the defensive play of Howard Zorn and Harold Bacon who stopped much of the Phi Delt groundwork.

Results in barb games Thursday were as expected with Casino Club beating Agricultural College Cafeteria 8-0 and Agricultural College Boarding Club 19 and Brown Palace 0. Only postponed games are being played in an effort to determine league winners.
