Sears-Roebuck honors winners at dinner

Forty-five ag students were guests at the annual Sears-Roebuck scholarship dinner held Thursday. The guests were all winners of Sears-Roebuck scholarships awarded on the basis of scholarship and need.

Special recognition was given to Elton Newman, winner of the special $500 scholarship, and to Philip Miller, who was awarded the special $200 scholarship.

Dr. H. E. Bradford, chairman of the department of vocational education was toastmaster at the banquet.

Women to deck Ellen Smith with greens Tuesday

Tassels, Mortar Boards, and governing bodies of the women's organizations on the campus will meet in Ellen Smith Hall for the traditional Hanging of the Greens dinner Tuesday evening. The invited guests will start decorating at 5:30. The evergreens which are to be used were sent here from Estes Park. While the rooms are being decorated the Vesper choir will sing carols from the balcony.

After the front parlors have been decorated the guests, YW cabinet and choir will be entertained at a dinner. The hanging of the greens and dinner which follow have become an annual celebration on this campus.

Pound writes article for women's publication

Dr. Louise Pound of the English department contributed a short article on "Education and Leisure Time" to the publication, "The Education of Women in a Democracy," edited and issued by the Institute of Women's Professional Relations in connection with the session of the Women's Centennial congress in New York City, Nov. 25 to 27.

Coeds search for something unusual for formal season

In just a short while you'll be stepping out to formals by the dozens. This thought brings up the question of what kind of a formal dress you can get that's different.

Magazines and stores have all fallen been arguing the question of whether it will be smarter to wear a so-called "covered-up" formal or to have one quite décolleté. But we say it makes no difference. What matters is that the dress suits its wearer.

Covered-up?

At first this fall "they were showing" a few more covered-up than décolleté frocks. Now magazines and stores seem to be verging more to décolleté.

Most popular thing to be seen in new colors is "champagne"—an off-white shade with a tinge of yellow in it. It seems to fit especially in formals of rayon jersey and taffeta. Much gold embroidery is seen on the jersey ones.

Another new shade lends itself to rayon jersey admirably. That is "mountie red," inspired by the color work in the movie, "North West Mounted Police." Blues, greys, white and sand are also popular.

Hooper attends New York meet

Dr. Bert L. Hooper . . . addresses dentists.

Dr. Bert L. Hooper, dean of the college of dentistry, left Lincoln Saturday for New York City where he will deliver a series of four lectures before the Greater New York Dental meeting. His subject, "Complete Denture Construction," will be fully illustrated by colored motion pictures which he has made in his laboratory for use in class instruction. Before Dr. Hooper's return about Dec. 10, he will inspect several dental schools and hold a conference with members of the national board of dental examiners.

Miss Odell talks to club

Miss Ruth Odell, assistant professor of English, addressed a group of the Lincoln Woman's club Thursday afternoon on "Problems of a Biographer." Dr. Odell spoke before the literary division of the club in Rudge's Little Theater.

K-Stater carries away UN team -on pigskin cover

An autographed football, autographed by the team, was given away at the Barb Council dance last night. An autographed football would be welcomed by any Nebraska fan—but that isn't what's news. Clarence Heath had the door number 198, and when Helen Elizabeth Claybaugh, Barb Council president, called the winning number, 198, no one was as surprised as Clarence Heath.

Going up to accept the prize, Clarence replied to Miss Claybaugh's congratulations, "This is all of great interest to me. I'm Clarence Heath, and I hail from KANSAS STATE. Small world, isn't it?"

Texas A. and M. college has won more awards than any other U. S. school in contests of the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education.

was a member of an expedition to Luxor, Egypt, where he specialized in ancient Egyptian inscriptional material. Since 1931 he has been on the faculty of the University of Chicago where he is professor of Egyptology and secretary of the department of Oriental Languages and Literature. Following the death in 1936 of the late Dr. James H. Breasted, eminent Egyptologist who founded the Oriental Institute in 1919, Dr. Wilson succeeded to the directorship of the institute.

Dr. Wilson received his B. A. degree from Princeton, his M. A. degree from the American university of Beirut, Syria, where he taught for three years, and his Ph.D. in Egyptology at the University of Chicago in 1926.

At a recent tournament at Marquette university, in which 1,000 youngsters participated, a "human chessboard," with children as pawns, was used to popularize the game.
