Last Monday, grouped in Minnesota's dressing room, were 18 Gophers talking over the occurrences of the season they had just finished . . . These dozen and a half Gophers sat down and figured out an all-opponent team. . .

Of interest to Nebraska fans would be the fact of the two elevens the Minnesotans picked is that there was nary a Husker on either team . . . But solace may be gained from the fact, also, that Purdue's Dave Rankin, All-American end, was missing from the first two team selections . . .

In his three years of playing football at Missouri, Paul Christman has gained well over two miles by his running and passing . . . That's some traveling even if it is only on a gridiron . . . Gopher George Franck will not accept any professional football offers, so he states, altho he will make a majority of the all-teams this autumn at halfback . . .

Coaches of the North-South game in this winter's annual play of this gridiron battle, will be Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and Carl Snively of Cornell, for the "Yankees" . . .

There is a little, chubby, red-faced Southerner on the campus now and he's causing quite a bit of attention being turned his way . . . The man mentioned is the Herr Professor—Henry McLemore.

This roving United Press sports columnist was in the pressbox for the Wildcat game yesterday and will be the principal speaker at the annual football dinner for the Huskers at the University Club, Monday evening. . .

Two weeks ago, this corner sent in an All-American team to the National Intercollegiate Sports Writers Association . . . No man from Nebraska was eligible on my selections but three were placed for nomination on the side . . . Those three were Warren Alfson, Eddie Schwartzkopf and Harry Hopp. . . The first two teams as picked two weeks ago are:

First team	pos.	Second team
Iron, Georgia Tech	e. Severin, N. Carolina
Draho, Cornell	t. Pannell, Tex. A&M
Kerr, Bos. Coll.	e. Sohn, So. Calif.
Mucha, Washington	e. Batchelor, Mich. S.
Suffridge, Tenn.	e. Gore, Louis. St.
Enich, Iowa	t. Ruffa, Duke
Rankin, Purdue	e. Blalock, Clemson
Albert, Stanford	qb. Scott, O. State
Harmon, Mich.	lb. Reagan, Penn.
Franck, Minn.	rb. Evashevski, Mich.
Kimbrough, T. A-M	fb. Standlee, Stanford

In addition to this team, the poll asked for the opinion as to the most outstanding football player in the nation this year. . . My vote went for Jarrin' Johnny Kimbrough, the old Aggie warhorse of Texas' Cadets. . .

Game—

the number one ranking football team—Minnesota.

In freezing temperature, before 17,000 fans, the triumph was even more remarkable over the Wildcats when one recalls that the three touchdowns were all scored while headed into a wintry gale.

Among the 13 seniors playing their last game were two that shone above the rest. Highest in the heavens twinkled the star of Walter "The Butcher" Luther. Right below his sparkled the name of Herman "Roly Poly" Rohrig.

Rohrig and Luther.

These two sparked the Huskers to the season's finale. Rohrig scored with but two seconds to go in the first half, while Luther's pair of touchdowns came on reverses in the big third quarter.

Taking the ball on their own 15 late in the second period, the Huskers went to work and drove for 85 yards and a touchdown, helped by six first downs.

With last down on the 13-yard line, Rohrig faded back to find a pass receiver and could not locate one, so he set sail for the goal line. Running wide around his right end, he found some blockers out in front and then barreled his body into the end zone with a sudden burst of speed.

Luther's reverses.

Vike Francis kicked the extra point and, with the ball going out of bounds on the ensuing kickoff, the half ended with the Huskers out in front 7-0.

The second touchdown was marked by the reverses run by Luther. Starting from the Nebraska 40 after the second half kickoff, the Huskers scored in nine plays. Rohrig and Luther took the ball to the Kansas State 27, where it was last down.

From here, Luther set out on a reverse like he ran in the Iowa State game a week ago and wound up by finding himself in the Wildcat end zone. Francis' placekick for the extra point this time went wide.

Six plays to score.

Late in the third canto the Huskers found the way northward again after Rohrig intercepted K-Stater Bill Quick's pass on his own 35. Six plays later the Huskers had another touchdown.

Luther, Rohrig and Francis took the pigskin to the 25, from where Luther took the ball on a deep reverse and again swept into the Aggie end zone. Rohrig put his foot behind the placement and the scoreboard read Nebraska 20, Kansas State 0.

From this point on the Major inserted his second and third stringers until the dying moments of the game. Throughout the fourth quarter the Nebraska substitutes, with the wind at their backs, kept the Wildcats deep in the Aggie territory.

Three times the Huskers crept within the Wildcat 20-yard line and were on the Aggie 4 as the game closed, but still failed to add another touchdown.

Bob Kahler, Dale Bradley and Henry Rohn went to work to take the ball from their own 26 to the Kansas State 17 in five plays and made it a first down on the 5. Two plays later Rohn fumbled and lost the ball on the same yard line.

After the Kansas State punt, the Huskers got to the 4 before losing the ball on downs. Another short punt by the Aggies into the wind placed the ball on the K-State 25.

Running plays failed, and a punt by Bradley rolled into the end zone. The last punt by the Wildcats came back to the Aggie 32. A quartet of drives at the line took the ball to the 18, and the Biffer sent his first teamers back into the game.

With the ball on the 11-yard line and 15 seconds remaining, Rohrig flipped a strike to Luther in the end zone, but the score was nullified because the Huskers were off-side on the play.

In rehashing the statistics of the game, the Huskers proved that they were by far the better team on the field. In first downs, the Wildcats made three (one on a penalty) to 24 for Nebraska.

Huskers win statistics.

In rushing, the Huskers went 395 yards to 42 for the Aggies and had a net yard advantage of 419 to 23. In passing, the Huskers had the edge. Nebraska completed six out of 12 for 58 yards, while K-State completed one out of four for eight yards.

Individual records in the Nebraska backfield on the standpoint of yards gained went to Butch Luther with 158 net yards for an average of 8.8 yards per run. Senior Bob Kahler was next in line with an 8.25 average.
