Gridders keep in training

Altho football practice has been temporarily discontinued for about another week, the Nebraska gridders are hard at it keeping in shape and catching up on their classroom work. Journey over to the coliseum and you will see quite a number of footballers playing handball and in general—keeping in condition.

Others are using this two week period layoff to improve their scholastic marks and stay eligible for the all-important game on New Year's day. Down to hard work are these gridders and they are really toying the mark and burning the midnight-oil.

Cheerleaders and band to Rose Bowl?

In the past years of Rose Bowl history, much of the color in the big Pasadena oval is added by the band of the visiting team. We are adding our own little bit of tub-thumping for the 108-piece Cornhusker band hoping that it can find a way to the Rose Bowl.

The band has been extraordinary this year and the caliber of music it has presented has been superb. The formations and half-time displays have also been excellent. And the cheerleaders—what about them? They have stirred even some of the most frozen Husker lungs into cheering frenzy in games this year. This corner believes that three or four yell kings would greatly influence the gridders on to even better achievements than are expected of them on New Year's day.

All-American recognition

Listed on the United Press All-American team at guard is Warren Alfson of Nebraska, but he is placed on the second team behind Marshall Robnett of Texas A. & M. and Bobby Suffridge of Tennessee. Five other Huskers won honorable mention. They were Herman Rohrig, Harry Hopp, Forrest Behm, Royal Kahler and Eddie Schwartzkopf.

Friday night on "Red" Grange's "player of the week" award on his radio program, a Nebraska star will be the toast of the nation as the star of games played over the nation last week. Guess who... Tommy Harmon was so named as the "head man" a week ago.

Basketballers in busy season

Nebraska's basketballers open their home season a week from Saturday when they face Marquette in the coliseum. On Dec. 18, the Huskers will meet the strong University of Kentucky five and clash with Minnesota's Gophers on the Saturday that begins Christmas vacation.

Squad of 12 named by Browne in trip for Sodaks tonight

A squad of twelve men will represent the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Vermillion, S. Dak., tonight as the Huskers open their present season against the University of South Dakota.

The dozen men making the trip are: Thompson, Goetze, Randall, Held, and Fitz, the probable starters. These boys will be backed up by Fitzgibbon, Hay, Greene, Garey, Hulbert, Young, and King.

The first team is still in doubt in as much as Lyle King is giving John Thompson a run for the opening forward berth. Of this starting lineup only two are seniors, Fitz and Randall. The rest are underclassmen who are playing on a team that shows vast improvement over last year's club. Four of the trip's roster are sophomores one of whom may be on the starting lineup, Thompson.

Speed is the team's strong factor this term and this coupled with their height should mean plenty of close-in work with the tall boys under the nets. The team will average around 6-3 which is plenty tall for any team.

Election—

Nov. 12, to commend the Student Council for its splendid efforts in handling the debated matters involved in the present election and voted to encourage the Student Council to continue its program for clarification of election procedures in order to remove the possibilities of irregularities or violations in future elections.

The Council during the hearing asked for the new election so that they could make it an election with no violations. They contended that since rules had been infringed by all parties involved, that a new election was necessary.

KKK gridders blast Termites in semi-finals

Harold Hunt, varsity track ace, sparked KKK to an 18-0 win over the Termites yesterday. Hunt passed to two touchdowns and skirted left end for the other as KKK steamrollered the opposition.

The first touchdown, which came in the first quarter, followed a blocked punt on the Termite 20. On second down Hunt flipped a pass to Vrtiska in the end zone for the marker. Hunt intercepted a pass by Stephensen of the Termites to set up the second score. This time Vrtiska caught the ball on the five and stepped over.

The third touchdown resulted from a pass interception by Lynch on the KKK 30. After two first downs advanced the ball to the 14, Hunt skipped over with the aid of fine blocking by Frisch and Joachim.

The KKK nine had gained the finals by outscraping a fighting ACBC 7-0 the previous night. Hunt passed to Vrtiska in the first period for a touchdown. ACBC didn't seriously threaten, although John Bergstrum's fine punting had KKK in hot water several times.

A meeting will be held tomorrow at the swimming pool in the coliseum at 1 p. m.
