Boucher leads discussion group

Chancellor C. S. Boucher led a panel discussion Thursday at the second annual business meeting of the Nebraska Progress Association in the Holdrege municipal building. Subject will be "Probable Success of the Association's Plan in Securing Accurate and Complete Information."

In the evening, Dr. Boucher discussed "Perspective in Education" before the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce at the chamber's annual open night program.

Before approximately 5,000 spectators, Maurine Malster, arts and science senior, shown above, was presented as Honorary Colonel at the annual Military Ball Friday night in the coliseum. The choice was scarcely a surprise to university students, since she was backed by the Barb party, which won most offices at the Nov. 12 election.

Beginning at 9:15, the program opened with an overture by the ROTC band and orchestra, followed by an exhibition by the crack squad of Pershing Rifles. When the curtain on the stage parted, revealing a turreted castle, the orchestra began the march music and cadet officers entered with their partners.

After attempts to penetrate the castle walls, in which the Honorary Colonel was supposedly imprisoned, had failed, the engineers fired the castle walls. Suddenly the lights went out, an explosion filled the coliseum, then floodlights thrown on the stage revealed the Colonel standing in a jagged hole in the castle wall.

At the command of Cadet Colonel Forrest Behm, the entire corps of cadets saluted the Colonel, and Behm escorted her to the south end of the floor through an arch of sabers held by senior officers.

In her company were Cadet Colonel Warren Guinan, in charge of infantry, with Mary Bird; Cadet Colonel Harry Seagren, engineers, with Faye Irwin, and Cadet Colonel Guy Williams, field artillery, with Nancy Mauck.

Lou Breese and his orchestra played during the evening, and Maj. R. E. Cruse, director of the ball, acted as commentator.

Teaching applicants

All new candidates for teaching positions for the school year 1941-42 will meet with R. D. Moritz, director of teacher placement, on Thursday, Dec. 12, in social sciences auditorium at 4 p. m.

Students having classes at this hour will be excused to attend the meeting. "The meeting," says Moritz, "is highly important to all who are interested in teaching next year." He asks that they come prepared to take notes.

Exaggerated realism and broad satire characterize Moliere's "Imaginary Invalid," the comedy farce to open in Temple Theater Wednesday night. The play, presented by the University Theater, is a direct contrast to the group's preceding productions, according to Armand Hunter, theater director, will be enacted in 17th century costumes, just as it was first presented in the Palais-Royal in Paris in 1673.

Brigode band replaces Clinton

Carolers sing in Union twice today

Sixty voices combine for annual concert of traditional music

A chorus of 60 voices will present a concert of Christmas carols in a setting of evergreen trees and lighted tapers in the Union ballroom this afternoon. Two performances, each limited to 800 spectators, will be given at 2:30 and 4 p. m. Admission is by free tickets which may be obtained at the Union check stand.

Old English, French, German, Polish, and Russian carols will be included in the program with traditional carols of this country to be sung by the University Singers under the direction of Dr. A. E. Westbrook. Accompanying the singers will be Jean Knorr at the electric organ and two brass quartets.

The chorus, dressed in red and white robes, will sit around a semi-circular table decorated with lighted candles, and in the background will be a large silver star with a candelabrum on each side. Pine boughs covering the front of the stage will complete the creation of a festive Yuletide atmosphere.

Program of traditional and unusual Christmas carols from many lands follows:

1. Ayla Trinita, Traditional.
2. Gloria Patri, Palestrina.
3. Adoramus Te, Palestrina.
4. Glor be to God, Znamen Tradition Christmas Pastorate, Bach.

PBK's plan to announce new members

The local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will announce the names of the 14 seniors recently approved in the first semester elections at its second regular meeting Monday evening in the Union. The newly elected seniors will be guests at a dinner preceding the meeting.

C. Petrus Peterson will address the group on the subject "The Preservation of American Democracy in the Light of Present World Trends." About 100 members and guests are expected to attend.

The first semester elections recognize those seniors who have already qualified in certain course requirements, in order that they may be members while still undergraduates. All other seniors will be considered for the spring election.

Mortar Board party brings Virginians

Ace Brigode and his Virginians, with "one of the most danceable orchestras in the nation," will play for the Mortar Board party Friday night, replacing Larry Clinton.

Two weeks ago Clinton accepted the Mortar Board offer through a booking agency and the contracts were sent here to be signed. The signed contracts were returned to the booking agency and the story was released that he would be here for the party Friday night. A week later word was received that Clinton had refused to sign, so there was no contract.

The Black Masques considered Carlos Molina and Charlie Agnew. They rejected both. Rather than cancel the party they opened negotiations with another booking agency, and Brigode and his band were secured.

Ace Brigode organized his band in West Virginia immediately following the World War. From here it gets the name Virginians. The Virginians have appeared in Elitch's Gardens in Denver, the Merry Garden Ballroom in Chicago, and they are featured regularly over both the CBS and NBC networks.

Brigode offers any and all types of dance music. Singers Ruth Hunt, whom he discovered through a local talent program, and Bud Curran are featured with the band.
