

Kampus Kaperings

with Jo Duree

Spring

is moving in and the soulful somebodies who whip up a few odes in honor of this and that will indubitably turn their energies toward springy subjects...the weather, Gus Arnheim-Joe Sanders music, and all the new clothes are worth a couple stanzas of laudatory rhyme...

Another Fiji

pin pauses in the Tri-Delt house if rumors relative to the Jack Rohrbaugh-Rachel Robertson pin-hanging are well founded...and since spring's come around again this year several yells for confectons and tobacco will be newly raised...

For instance

over at the Alpha Chi house the lasses are going to start pestering Jean Holtz to pass the candy because she's wearing the pin of Ben James, erstwhile Nebraska Phi Delt who's currently at Washington U, St. Louis...

Interfraternity ball

was a super sort of party and the informal idea was lauded to the skies...Jim Shelley, DU, was about with Margaret Koupal of the Pi Beta Phi's, which is a new twosome...One of Theta Harriet Costello's chums came to town this week, a Delt from South Dakota...

And while we're chatting about Deltas, Barbara Townsend, DG pledge, is getting confused concerning her Delt dates...pledge Lloyd Millick called her, thought he got Saturday night when Barbara had a date with active Bob Ross...Barbara had the date with Ross, said Lloyd stood her up Friday evening...goodness...

Frosh AWS to discuss 'best dressed' problem

Feature of the freshman AWS meeting in Ellen Smith, Thursday at 5 p. m. will be a discussion on what it takes to make a best dressed girl. Five members of freshman AWS will take part in the panel discussion on the subject.

Interest in the best dressed girl topic is especially active at this time with preparations underway to pick the best dressed girl of the campus as a feature of the AWS Coed Follies. Theme of the discussion will center on how little it takes to be acclaimed best dressed if all advantages are utilized. All freshman women are urged to attend.

'Time and place' reprints are free

Endeavoring to enlarge their scope of service to the university population, the DAILY and the AWS is publishing a weekly calendar of campus events.

Reprints of this first issue and of every coming issue will be available in Ellen Smith, the DAILY office, and the ag activities building.

All announcements for the week must be in the DAILY office by 2 p. m. Thursday, in order to be included in "Time and place." Announcements that come in after the deadline or changes in schedule will be published in the bulletin appearing every day in the DAILY.

Dress designer lectures in Union Thursday at 11

Louis Royer Hastings, former UN student, and dress designer for 20th Century Fox, will lecture in the Union ballroom, Thursday, Feb. 20, at 11 a. m.

Known professionally as Royer, the former Cornhusker has been designing dresses for the leading Hollywood stars for the past nine years.

Thursday afternoon he will hold special individual conferences with university women. The conferences are being scheduled thru the dean of women's office in Ellen Smith.

Coed Follies skits are due Friday

All women's groups may enter a skit in the Coed Follies try-outs, according to a revised plan of accepting skits for this year's show. A rough sketch of all proposed skits must be turned into Mrs. Westover in Ellen Smith by Friday, Feb. 21.

Berge-

wards, backstage, he was a different man.

Smiling, shaking hands with everybody, trying to associate names and faces, Berge was greatly impressed by the reception from old professors, classmates and Lincoln friends.

Remarking at the physical changes of the university, he commented, "Yes, the university has changed, but there are so many of my old friends left—students now professors, old profs still here."

One old gentleman with a white beard and an unsteady voice grasped Berge's hand and exclaimed, "Remember me? You used to walk past my house every day on your way to school." After some guessing and a few hints, a short conversation, typical of those which kept Berge busy for an hour after his talk, ensued.

Berge has moved from the antitrust department where he participated in the trust busting cases, to the appellate section where he worked on the cases involving the NRA, and through the various "assistances" to his present post.

With speeches and lunches making up a complete itinerary for his stay in Lincoln, which includes a talk at Lincoln High, another Berge alma mater, he plans to return to the capitol where he is in charge of the criminal division.
