Spring and styles

are supposed to be synonymous, but despite this near-zero weather a few people are thinking about clothes. It all has to do with a sports coat, a bow tie, a moustache, and a pair of pants—labeled Royer. Although he was just plain Lew to his fraternity brothers here at Nebraska some years ago, out in Hollywood he's quite a fashion authority. So the Betas, not to be outdone by the Sigma Nus and their visiting orchestra leaders, invited the gentleman to lunch yesterday.

Fourteen degrees will be missed in the gaiety of this week-end when these loyal lassies trip down to Lawrence, Kas., to dazzle the local coeds with the glory of the good old Delta Gamma anchor. Joe College no longer will be able to sing that little ditty about the absence of these Greek sisters from K. U. if the trip is successful, because the colonizing embryo D. G.'s down there need only a few more girls to make it official, and the Nebraska relatives are gonna attend to it in person.

Incidentally, while there, Nancy Raymond and a few others will go dancing at the Sophomore Prom, and what with a little detour to Kansas City, we hope that at least a round dozen straggle back for classes Monday morning.

Kappas and Phi Psis

are learning just what all is included in this loyalty business. All for the sake of the fraternity the Phi Psi pledges have been washing cars, scrubbing floors, and holding early morning study sessions. The Kappas, on the other hand, are serving their sisters' breakfasts in bed, cleaning house, cheerfully admitting to degeneracy, and studying until midnight.

Kappa kween

Molly Woodward, who collects more men than does her pledge class, evidently went back for a second look at SAE Joe Dye, causing more than one raised eyebrow at the Interfraternity Ball last Saturday. Then, to complete her "old home" week-end, she skipped out to the Turnpike on Sunday night with last year's steady, Phi Delt Cliff Meier.

That welcome relaxation from fighting for rhythm at the aforementioned ball last weekend was all due to the thoughtfulness of Jack Cole. He saw to it that one nice, comfy sofa was collected from each fraternity lounge. The only drawback was that the various Greek brothers found the floor rather a hard place on which to sleep until the furniture was at last returned, just yesterday.

For he's a jolly good fellow was the theme of the impromptu little party thrown for Chuck Pillsbury last weekend. Seems as though he's off to the army sometime soon, and not as brigade colonel, either. So some of the brothers and friends (no distinction, really, decided to celebrate their sadness.

The Thetas

will be missing Peggy Galletty this weekend at their formal. She is home in Omaha with acute tonsillitis and some pretty flowers from Phi Psi Curt Knudson. This Friday also will see Marie Anderson at the formal with Phi Delt Chick

Dave Haun plays in Union Friday

Dave Haun will play for the Union dance tomorrow night. Admission will be ten cents per person and the dance will be held from 9 to 12 in the ballroom.

Oldfather—Don Fitz being off with the basketball team, and Tess Casady home in Des Moines.

Saturday society will go formal with the Pi Phis and informal with Howard Hall. The latter is throwing a house-party, at which you will see Neva Bishop and Gaines Richmond, Liz Hartman and Frederick Rodenbeck, and Zenia Lindberg and Leo Butler.

Sigma Nus

evidently like to eat, because not only did they have a lovely Valentine sweetheart supper last Sunday night, but they also slipped in an exchange dinner with the Chi O's last night.

An orphan, perhaps, is poor little Midge, the cute Cocker Spaniel belonging to the Thomas Sisters. What with Doty not being seen about as much with Dick Harnsberger as was once, and Annie being seen with lots of people other than Bob O'Connell, Midge no longer has the claim on the Phi Psi furniture that she used to have. Tch! tch! Someone had best call the S. P. C. A.

Welfare group starts drive for $500

Religious council to aid students in Europe, China with university gifts

A goal of $500 to be raised from the university for the support of students in China and Europe has been set by the committee in charge of the local world student service fund. This committee is under the sponsorship of the Religious Welfare council.

The money will be divided, in proportion to needs, between Chinese and European students. Contributions can be marked to be sent to one or the other, as desired. Of all money raised, 97 percent is guaranteed to reach the students, with three percent or less used for administrative expenses. This, pointed out Hugh Wilkins, one of the campaign leaders, is far more efficient than most similar relief agencies.

Money going to European students will be used mainly for the purchase of textbooks and supplies, said Wilkins, and also personal counseling. Those students are not yet in need of food as badly as Chinese students, are forced to live for a whole year and pay all college expenses on only ten dollars.

A $20,000 steel storage building is now being used by Iowa State college for books seldom used or kept for exchange purposes.

Superior (Wis.) State Teachers College 1898 enrollment of 17 seniors was a 600 percent increase over that of 1897.
