

Kampus Kaperings

with Mary Adelaide Hansen

Long awaited,

but still a surprise, was the pinning of Hap McIntosh to Beta Dean Miller. Question before the house: will that diamond-and-three-stars pull her back to Nebraska next fall from her new home in Milwaukee?

You'd have thought it was Easter last week-end because the campus turnout for the first Sunday of Lent was really something! One church in south Lincoln was packed with practically the whole Delta Gamma chapter, the Gamma Phis, the Alpha Xi Deltas, Farm House, and Theta Xis, while unofficial contingents of Thetas, Betas, Sigma Nus and Phi Psis were noticeable, too. All of which speaks well of our fair institution and also gives the preachers an eyeful.

A-a-allmost, but not quite, was the cheek-to-cheek relationship of Delt Bud Rohde and his charming dancing partner, whom we shall call the Lady in Green Velvet, at the Kappa Delt formal last Friday. (Note: His date, Margie Ann Buttman, wore pink.)

Candy passing

occurred last night between Ruth Huston and Frank Howard who treated the members of Towne Club to the sweets. Ruth has been wearing his diamond for the past week.

News from neighboring Ames, brought by Chick Oldfather when he went to visit Tess Casady in Des Moines this last weekend, tells us that Phi Delt Brandy Backlund is continuing his successful UN political career on the Iowa campus, and that he and Theta Emmy Hess will be married before next fall.

Discussion group meets

The Union will again sponsor a panel discussion intended to cover the problems in the average student's and working man's mind. The question for the discussion will be: "Is Japan the Problem of the United States?"

The panel will be held Friday at 4:00 in the Union faculty lounge. The discussion will center around Singapore, the Philippine Islands and the Dutch East Indies. Dean C. H. Oldfather will lead the discussion.

son, who entertained ten members of the Girls' Rifle Club and ten varsity rifle team members at a buffet supper at his home on Sunday.

All off is the steady deal of Jean Echten-camp and Herb Longren, and all on again are Kappa Phyd Welch and Bill O'Conner.

Unpleasant aftermath of their very successful formal, is causing the Fijis a bit of worry. It seems that Kent Johnson has the mumps, and the brothers all fear a quarantine on the house.

Phi Psis and DG's went to Holdrege last Sunday for the marriage of last year's prexy Bob Miller to best dressed Maxine Kingsbury.

State English teachers plan campus meet

Honoring as their guest Dr. Louise Pound, professor of English at the university, members of the Nebraska Council of Teachers of English will meet on the campus March 8 for a convention and banquet.

Dr. R. W. Frantz, chairman of the department of English, will introduce as speaker at the banquet, Lew Sarett, woodsman-poet and author of "Wings Against the Moon" and other books.

Afternoon meetings of the group will be held on the first floor of social sciences with registration beginning at 1 p. m. Round tables will start at 1:15 with a business meeting between the first and second hours. Students and faculty may get memberships and banquet tickets from Dr. Frantz's office in Andrews.

Miss Letta Clark of teachers college will lead a 1:15 round table on "Visual Aids for the Teachers of English" and at 3:15, LeRoy T. Laase of the speech department will discuss "Radio and Modern English." Other round tables at 1:15 are "The English Teacher and Propaganda," lead by Jonathan H. Kistler, Doane college; "Ways to Effect Correlation of English With Other Subjects," by Miss Loraine Johansen, senior high school, Grand Island; at 3:15, "Linguistics in Composition Courses," by H. H. Waggoner, University of Omaha; "The English Teacher and the Librarian Experimenting Together," by Miss Eula Ree Merwin, senior high school, Beatrice.

Cathedral Choir holds special rehearsal for guest choiristers

The Lincoln Cathedral Choir held a special rehearsal at St. Paul's Methodist church Sunday afternoon for Kermit Hansen, former Nebraska student, and his choir of 40 from Omaha.

The choir of St. Paul's church and 200 others, including choir directors and organists of Lincoln, were also present. The hour rehearsal closed with the anthem "Grieve Not The Holy Spirit of God" by Stainer with all three choirs taking part under the direction of John M. Rosborough.

After the rehearsal the guests adjourned to the Cornhusker hotel for the regular Sunday afternoon choral vespers. At that time Romulo Soldevilla of the university department of speech delivered a brief talk on "The Fountain of Benevolence" and the choir sang selections by Stainer, Tschalkowski, and Sullivan.

Delts present first in series of theatre skits

The first in a series of skits by fraternities and sororities, fashioned, somewhat crudely, after radio's "Beat the Band" program was presented by Delta Tau Delta, with the cooperation of Betsy Mallat, Delta Delta Delta, at the Varsity theater Friday evening.

Questions were fired at the Delts, who were represented as a band, with a piano player, drummer, two trumpeters and a guitar player and who answered the question in the form of song titles.

Any individual in the band could make an attempt at answering the query, but it was not counted correct unless he played the first few bars. Also represented was a quartet, composed of three Delts and Betsy Mallat. The singers had to answer by singing the song.

Hosp speaks at Vespers

Dean Helen Hosp will speak at Vespers tonight at 5:00 in Ellen Smith. Her subject will be on religion in South America. The Vespers Choir will sing.

Ag group signs Ralph Slade for annual ball

March 17 set as date of junior Ak-Sar-Ben party, Bacon announces

Ralph Slade and his orchestra, who recently played at the Creighton military ball, has been signed to play for the annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben ball to be held on ag campus March 14, according to an announcement by Harold Bacon, chairman of the ball committee.

Tickets for the dance to be held in the ballroom of the student activities building went on sale Monday and may be purchased at Long's Book Store, the finance office, and from members of Block and Bridle.

Sixty-five ag students will compete in the stock showmanship contest using the university pedigreed stock on the night following the ball. The Junior Ak-Sar-Ben showmanship contest will be held in the Equine auditorium arena.
