

Kampus Kaperings

with Mary Adelaide Hansen

Prom dates

are coming in, and the usual crop of unusual combinations is evident. For example, Ann Craft will be there with Junior Oldfather, and his Phi Delt Brother George Abel will squire DG Ann Thomas. Betty Malone, beauty queen candidate, seems to have disagreed with Delt Max Whittaker and will go dancing with Bob Weygint, also a Delt.

Gamma Phis

have acquired two more pledges, both from Lincoln. Claire Shader and Margaret Stoddard are the two new sisters. Also a surprise sandy passing by Mary Jean Lauertz.

People are wondering just what's the deal about Phi Psi Dave Walcott's purported break with his gal-friend across the street, Sidney Ann Gardner. Perhaps there's a wolf in the DU house?

Why is it that everyone wants to know how Beta Pooky Peters got his bumped nose? It all has to do with the age of chivalry that is not yet dead.

The high prices of diamonds nowadays are no higher than the sentimental value Alpha Chi Kay Parks sets upon the sparkler now twinkling from that fatal finger. It's from Jim Brady, air corps cadet from Randolph Field, and she got it Saturday night.

The queens of the campus jammed Magee's last night for the style show. Spring and all has turned coed eyes to styles, it seems.

ATO pledges entertained at a super smoker Tuesday night. There were delegates from every house on the campus, and after the cigars the boys all serenaded the gals on sorority row. Big faux pas of the evening, however, was when they serenaded the Delta Gammas with the Kappa Sweetheart song.

Sort of a slight surprise to Tri Delt Wauneta Fisher were the cigars passed by Sigma Nu Bob Day Monday night. This bright lad used his initiative and publicly cemented a rather on-again-off-again pinning.

Chi Phi

announces the pledging of Harry McGee, Omaha, and Bill Reese, Ivan Ponedel, and Gaylord Broker, of Lincoln.

Life magazine photographs art exhibition

Today Life photographers, with the help of photography students of the university, will begin an extensive picture taking campaign of the activities in connection with the Nebraska art association exhibit in Morrill.

These pictures, to make up a special section in the April 14th issue of that magazine, include human interest studies in black and white of the drawing and painting classes of the art department at work, of visitors to the exhibit, and of the interior sets which have been arranged in the galleries.

Also to be included in this section are color photographs of 12 of the more important pictures in the exhibit, one of these being "Road to Danbury" by Margit Varga, the Life editorial assistant. In addition there will be pictures taken at the extension exhibits held throughout the state this week.

Anti-nazi cinema, 'Pastor Hall' opens tomorrow

James Roosevelt's "Pastor Hall," opening at the Variety theatre tomorrow, is one of the most stirring of the recently released movies striking at the nazi regime in Germany.

The story concerns a pastor in a German village who attempts to show his people what the new order is doing to them. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt gives the prologue for the picture and states that she likes it because it is telling the story of a minister who might be found in Vermont, Tennessee, or Oregon.

Here's what they said about Magee's Style Clinic

Over 200 representatives selected by house presidents met last night to see the new fashions presented by Magee's and to voice their opinions on university style trends. Here's some of the comments picked up following the showing by Margaret Krause Wellinger.

Barbara Schuff... "The tailored lines appeal to me, particularly in formals. Girls' suits are honeys this year."

Nate Holman... "That white formal jacket is a wonderful idea for smartness. It looks so much dressier than the old suit idea did."

Martha and Ed Segrist... "Clothes will fit our budget this spring!"

Alex Mills... "The new colorful jackets for boys really give a feeling of being casually well-dressed."

Millard Cluck... "Boys' shoes are finally getting comfortable in their new sport moccasin styles."

Mary Ella Bennett... "The long jackets look very smart for collegians. Clothes seem to be gayer and more practical this year."

Marni Bremers... "Picnics will be colorful, slack outfits being what they are!"

Marion Stone... "The spring colors appeal to me—particularly the plaids in both men's and women's clothes."

Phyllis Anderson... "Long jackets look extra smart. I like the new tailored suits in twills and covert cloth."

Janet Harris... "I like the fabrics used in the coats styled by Kirshmoor and Forstmann, and the lines are flattering, too."

Allen Tintzman... "The white jacket is what this campus needs."
